Word was received Monday by Mr. George Mitchell from a chaplain in the army informing him of the manner in which his son, Harold, was killed. It appears that he, with three companions, were in a dugout captured from the Germans, when a large shell fell, killing them instantly.

A correspondent writing The Advance last Saturday says: "The Advance this week seems especially full of sad news. It seems to me that it fills a wonderful place today, setting forth for all time the wonderful news of the wonderful boys, and putting on record the sacrifices of loving hearts at home."

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Murdock of Durham visited the latter's brother, Mr. Mark Wilson Jr., and other friends here during the past week. The young couple are beginning housekeeping in Durham, having joined forces Wednesday of last week. Mr. and Mrs. Mark Wilson, Jr., attended the wedding.

A car load of stove coal arrived for F. G. Karstedt last week and was very quickly absorbed by an anxious public, who would like to see three or four more car loads arrive before Christmas. Those who can do so have all been burning wood of various kinds—good, bad and indifferent—up to the present time.

It has been circulated by mischievous persons that I have used disloyal language concerning the soldiers who have gone overseas, which is absolutely false and without any foundation whatever, and any person repeating the same will be prosecuted.—H. Down, Hatherton.

A letter from Corp. Jos. LeGard says that the late Edward Jamieson was instantly killed by a large shell which fell beside him. The letter says: "I was slightly shell shocked and they sent me out and now I am at a rest camp, and am beginning to improve a little and expect to be able to go back to our battalion in a few days."

The Youth's Companion Practical Home Calendar combines the beautiful with the useful. It is especially sought for by busy people, because it gives at one glance not only the days of the current month, but those of the month preceding and the month following, all on the one leaf. At the same time the calendar is decorative in design and suitable for a place in the best room in the house. It is given to all readers of the Youth's Companion who have paid their subscriptions for 1918.

At a recent liquor case tried in Flesherton a Markdale lawyer became quite frenzied in his denunciation of Constable Cook and Inspector Beckett, in fact he went a little beyond the extreme; but when Inspector Beckett, who inherited a beautiful vocabulary from his Belfast ancestors, got through with the irate limb of the law the odds were all with the inspector. Those who heard the argument said it was a rare treat, and and they could almost imagine themselves once more enjoying the vagrant odors of the fish market in the good old Irish capital. The cases involved was where two young men had inadvertently kept liquor where the law says it may not be kept and this cost the young men $200 each. This roild the lawyer to an unusual degree.

A memorial service for the late David Edward Jamieson, whose death in action was announced last week, was held in the Methodist church on Sunday evening, when the pastor, Rev. Mr. Belfry, preached from Hebrews 11 27: "He (Moses) forsook Egypt, not fearing the wrath of the king; for he endured as seeing him who is invisible." The topic was perseverance, showing how Moses had persevered for forty years in bringing Israel to the promised land. In this war we had to persevere to the end. He thanked God that we had young men to voluntarily go and stay the hand of the spoiler, and paid special tribute to the Jamieson family, who had given three sons and one daughter to the great cause. A beautiful quartet was given by the Misses Trimble, Richardson, Hulse and Holmes—"He will give you rest"—and a trio was contributed by Messrs.Murray Holland and Sullivan. The church was filled with a keenly sympathetic audience. The decorations around the pulpit were simply flags and bunting. Much sympathy is extended to the sorrowing mother and relatives.

Fuel Problem Solved

Rev. James Dudgeon and Rev. J. Totten (a retired minister 75 years of age) of Tottenham, the former of whom left Flesherton in July last, have successfully coped with the fuel problem, according to a local poet, who rides his Pegasus as follows in the Tottenham Sentinel:

Slim Jimmie Dudgeon and "young" Jack Totten
Chopped down trees that were not rotten,
They pushed and pulled a cross-cut saw
Till their "dainty" hands were blistered and raw.
"Now, Jimmy, pull right hard!" said Jack;
"Push hard, yourself!" Jim answered back;
So Jim pulled hard and Jack pushed fast,
Till all the logs were sawn at last.
Then to the wagon they hitched slow Daisy—
Though piled right full she pulled it aisy—
Back to their homes they brought the wood,
Where, short of coal, they find it good.
Now, as around the stove they sit,
Says Jim to Jack "We've done our bit,"
And Jack he says to Jim right quick,
"Takes us young lads to do the trick."

The Woman Voter

The women of Canada have a great opportunity by reason of their enfranchisement. Those of them who have studied politics have as a whole been reluctant to ally themselves with parties; others have timidly shrunk from all political issues, being shocked by the political game which is condemned by its very players.

Women long to be non partisan, and lo and behold, just as they approach the threshold of their political life, the weapon is put into their hands with which they may give the death blow to party—and the party machines.

Will they use it?

At no more auspicious moment could the women of Canada receive their enfranchisement, since their first vote can be cast without hesitation or confusion of mind.

To women enfranchised by reason of the active service of their men overseas the issue today is clear—it is clear because to these women there can be but one thought on the reinforcement of the men and Canada's continued participation in the war.

To these things the Union government is pledged. The sacrifices shall not be in vain.

The voice of the women expressed for these things will turn the scale for unity—and make Union government assured. Through their numerical strength the women can scatter the old political parties—and break up the game—perhaps for all time.

A great opportunity indeed.

—Mrs. L. A. Hamilton, Toronto.
