The Advance was then a four page, seven column paper, and a very creditable sheet under the management of A. R. Fawcett, now of the Burks Falls Arrow. The present owner took over the paper on August 1, 1888, seven years after its inception. Thirty years is quite a long time to hang on to the steering wheel of a local newspaper.

France Sometimes Safer

Two items in this weeks Economist—one telling of the wounding of Stanley Marks in France, the other telling of the murder of George Tucker at Weston—bring to mind the early days of voluntary enlisting in Shelburne, and also point the moral that France is sometimes safer than home after all. In Shelburne one evening, Stanley Markle and Wm Henry Tucker "stumped" one another to enlist in a week's time and agreed to do so, and also got a sort of half promise from Geo. Tucker that he would likely do likewise. When the time came came, Markle enlisted, W. H. Tucker (now with the Royal Air Force at Leaside) "hung fire," and Geo. Tucker took what no doubt looked to him as the only safe plan and backed out completely.

And now, in the same week, comes word that Stanley Markle has been wounded in action in France, and that George Tucker has been murdered at Weston.—Shelburne Economist.

A 9 year old girl named Person, while riding a bicycle in Collingwood was struck by an auto driven by a boy and dragged about twenty feet before the car turned into a ditch. The motor was full of children. The child was badly injured and may die.

The ministerial session was held in the forenoon and the general session in the afternoon and evening. All the circuits in the district were represented and the returns with a few exceptions show an advance on last year both in ministerial stipend and in the connexional enterprises of the church. One of the ministers died during the year, Rev. P. W. Jones, of Priceville.

The report of the cooperating committee of the Presbyterian and Methodist churches was read and the proposal to assign Eugenia to the Presbyterian church and Proton to the Methodist church was endorsed.

The Rev. Geo. Waugh was elected to the Stationing Committee of the Conference by acclamation and Rev. S. Judson Kelly alternate delegate. A resolution of appreciation of the people of Dundalk was enthusiastically applauded.

Baseball

White, C. Fisher, Roy Gibson, C. Muir, D. Patton and Frank Thurston; batteries, Gibson and Thurston. The game was pulled off in less than an hour and a half and proved a draw, with a score of 6-6. The fans will be sure of a good game when the return match is played here. Both teams showed pretty good form.

The Eugenia baseball club came over on Wednesday evening of last week and played the return game with Flesherton. The visiting club put up a much finer game than on the former occasion and came very close to winning, but not quite The score on this occasion was 11 to 13 in favor of Flesherton.
