"Well, I think I'll put the motion before the house," said the chorus girl as she danced out on to the stage.

Nora: "If you like his attentions, why don't you marry him?"
Flora: "I like his attentions."

"I declare," complained old man Higgins, "how I miss the glorious days of the silent motion pictures."
"What was so good about them?"
Mr. H. crept close to the door and reached for his hat. On the threshold he turned and slyly observed, "I can still remember how wonderful it was to watch a woman's mouth going for two hours and not hear a single word."

The big bulldozer opened up the fourth line and 2nd concession on Thursday, but the Friday night storm blocked them again. Mr. Turvey of Flesherton has been busily engaged in opening them.

One of the things that makes hope so great is that without it life is so hopeless.

CREAM

The tremendous demand for butter which was created during the war is still with us. As it now looks, there will be no interference with its market, as far as substitutes are concerned. Would it not, therefore, be wise on the part of the producer, to step up the production by adding to the dairy herd, and a little extra feeding and care. Good business on the part of the producer, and appreciated by the Canadian consumer.

Let us again stress the fact, that by stepping up the production, you are helping to keep the market for butter only — not for substitutes.

As usual — Highest Possible Price and Best Possible Service — continues to be our motto,

Extra Creamery Service

On account of the highways being bare, you can phone us and our truck will meet you at the highway to pick up your cream, eggs and poultry.

Of course, quite a few air force personnel got their faces smashed in crack-ups. But a girl . . . well, girls have a very special feeling about their faces. And when they brought the tall slender WD corporal into hospital—one of the eight of twenty-seven left alive out of a flight that crashed between Vancouver and Prince Rupert—she was about the most unrecognizable Airwoman still breathing in this country.

They flew Helen—and Mary, another WD with a badly burned back—to Toronto's Christie Street Military Hospital, for skin grafts and burn treatment. A Red Cross worker told me she'd never forget it. The Red Cross room is in the heart of the wards, next door to the room those girls had.

For weeks workers just tiptoed in and out on their rounds—writing letters, supplying stamps, cigarettes and chocolate bars to the patients.

'No Visitors'

One operation followed another through the weary months in which doctors built a new face for Helen and treated Mary's back. The girls became great friends with the Red Cross workers. But they didn't want to meet people from the 'outside', right then. Even when the 'No Visitors' sign went down and Air Force boys and other vet. patients wheel-chaired and crutch-tapped in, they were still shy about seeing 'just people'.

The Red Cross was different. Those women in the deep blue smocks were part of their own submerged world of pain and illness, yet attached to the country outside. They did the little things the girls needed—feminine bits of shopping, letters and messages, planned small celebrations.

New Trades

As the girls progressed, going from one hospital to another for treatment, the Red Cross was always there. Supplying ambulances, at first—later, escorts to hockey games, concerts, plays. Offering quiet practical assistance whenever it was needed.

Today Helen and Mary are learning new trades. Helen can no longer teach physical education or model. Mary cannot continue her typing, because of permanently stiffened fingers. But while DVA prepares them for their new lives, the Red Cross still stands by as they do with all our Canadian veterans in hospitals everywhere. In proof that we, the people, have not forgotten.

Red Cross Services include: Blood Transfusion, Outpost Hospitals, Aid to Sick and Disabled Veterans, Treatment for Crippled Children, Disaster Relief, Nutrition Services, Home Nursing Courses, Swimming and Water Safety, etc.

The work of mercy never ends . . . Give generously to the CANADIAN RED CROSS
