Eugenia Paragraphs

Gloom has once more been cast over the entire community at the sad news of the death of our dear soldier boy, Fred Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Smith of this place. Fred was one of the first boys from this vicinity to enlist as it was only a few days after war was declared that he donned the colors and went bravely forward to fight for King and Country. He was gassed and taken prisoner in the batle of St. Julien and has been a prisoner of war in Germany until about eight months ago when he was exchanged and sent to Switzerland. He has been in fairly good health since going to Switzerland, has always been very cheerful and wrote most interesting letters to everyone. It was hard to realize that the sad news could really be true. When one read his last letter written to the family on June 15 he seemed to be in the best of health and his passing, which occurred on July 22, was a terrible shock to the family and everyone, as they were looking forward giving him a welcome home in a short time. But his welcome would be more grand and blessed in that other home over yonder, where he will be united with his other brave brother, who paid the supreme sacrifice on July 7, 1917, his twin brother, who met death by drowning here on June 26, 1916, and best of all his beloved Master, whom Fred was prepared to meet, which wil be a great comfort to his parents and three sisters. The sympathy of the whole community is with the family in their deep sorrow.

Eugenia has become a favorite summer resort, and the Eugenia House is unable to accommodate all the tourists who come. A bunch of fifteen motored over from Barrie last week and had to be content with mattresses under the shade of the trees. Cars come in from all parts of Ontario and different parts of the States to see the great works.

We are sorry to report Mrs. A. J. Tuohy under the doctor's care.

Mrs. G. A. Hutchinson and little daughter, Kathleen, returned home one day recently, after an extended vist with friends in Proton.

Mr. George Mundle, of the suburbs, saw a rabbit chase a crow a few weeks ago from a field near his house. The rabbit kept right after it until it lighted on the fence. We don't say the rabbit flew, but it kept the crow from going near the ground. Every crow lighting on that field is chased by the rabbit. Quite a number saw this performance going on, and Mr. Mundle is a man whose word can be relied upon. We only wish we had one of those rabbits in our cornfield in the spring.

It is our sad duty this week to record the death of Lucinda, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs J. W. Claridge, of this place, who passed away early Monday morning. The deceased, who was 14 years old, has been a sufferer from rheumatism since April of this year and finally the heart became affected and a form of pneumonia set in which proved too much for the system to bear.

Constable Abbot is the owner of a cat which, after capturing all the mice around the premises, went to the bush and carried home a chipmunk the other day, and later brought in a live snake. In carrying the reptile the snake would coil its body around the cat's neck in none too loving embrace—Herald.

Putting War Cripple On the Pay Roll

Much has been heard regarding the plans of the Dominion Government to help war cripples to secure remunerative employment in spite of even the most serious wounds or other injuries. But, though Canada is conceded to be far in advance of other Allied countries in the work of reinstating her maimed heroes, comparatively few people have seen actual evidence of the miracles being wrought for the men by specialized vocational training and physical reconstruction. This will be remedied at the Canadian National Exhibition where at least fifty men who have been restored to full usefulness will demonstrate how the soldier beneficiaries of the government's rehabilitation program have been made economically self supporting. A number of blind men will be included who have been re-educated and are back on the civic pay roll. The men will demonstrate at least fifteen industrial processes, including typesetting, oxy-acetylene welding, jewelry manufacture, lens grinding, assaying, etc.

Wodehouse

Too Late for Last Week

Pte. Herman Allen, a returned soldier accompanied by his father, of Meaford, were visiting friends here the last of the week, the guest of his aunt, Mrs. Joseph Cherry.

Word has been received here by the friends of Pte. Stewart Thompson, somewhere in France, that he is not likely to get home as was expected. Last spring while in action he received a serious wound by a bullet entering his right temple and passing out, completely taking out his left eye. He was in a very weak and delicate condition for some time but is now quite recovered and has had an artificial eye to replace the lost member. He says he thinks he is still just as good a man as thousands on the field and he still will remain across the waters to help somewhere to bring along the victory. His many old friends are glad to know he is so well again, and though it was such a close call we trust he may yet be spared to come back home.

Mrs. Robert Brown entertained her lady friends at a quilting bee Wednesday afternoon of last week.

W. J. Ward lost a valuable cow the past week.

Miss Delmar Pedlar of Toronto is spending her holidays at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. S. Pedlar.

Mount Zion garden party on Friday evening last at the "Maples" was a huge success in every way and nothing occurred to mar the pleasure of the occasion. It surely was a record breaker in point of numbers and financially, and far outdistanced anything of the kind held in this part of the country. The Food Controller's restrictions were rigidly adhered to. In a baseball match between Flesherton and the Power House fortune favored the latter team. An excellent program was provided over which the pastor presided. Among the numbers were a chorus by the Sunday school, solos by Misses Edna Acheson and Viola Cornfield, recitations by Misses Gladys White, Marjorie and Ethel Acheson, Mrs. Eagle and Miss Wyville; duets by Mrs. Acheson and Mrs. Eagle, and the Misses Florence Bunt and Irene Cargo, and instrumental music by the Haw Bros and Master Maddock. Rev. Forth of Maxwell delivered a good address. The proceeds amounted to the sum of $214.89
