The Power House baseball team went down to Thornbury Friday evening last, where they played the Collingwood team. The Shockers won out easily with a score of 11 to 4. More power to their elbow ? A number from Flesherton went down to witness the game.

Mr. C. N. Richardson, when returning from Wasaga Beach Sunday night after dark, lost his bunch of keys somewhere between Singhampton and Duntroon. As their loss would have put him to much inconvenience he drove back Monday morning and found them on the road where he had dropped them.

The Advance had a pleasant call on Monday from Mr. Fred Deagle of Blind River, who was visiting old friends in this vicinity for a few days. Fred is a good sport and his conversation is very interesting to a lover of the wild. We were pleased to shake.

It would be a thousand pities to produce vegetables or fruit in response to the war garden appeal and then have more on hand than could be used so that quantities would perish. All surplus vegetables over immediate requirements should be canned, dried and stored away for winter will follow a season of plenty and all the world wilt be short of food.

The fishermen who were convicted of Sunday fishing at the Eugenia dam, and who threatened to appeal their cases and fight to a finish if they had to be carried to the Privy Council, thought better of it and have settled their fines and thrown up the sponge. There were eight convictions of $10 and costs. One of the culprits was himself a magistrate. A hit subject, indeed, to uphold the law.

A pleasing event took place on Friday evening, July 26, at the home of J. J. Thompson, when about 80 friends and neighbors met in honor of Oscar Trueman, who has been called to the colors, and presented him with a wrist watch and purse of money. The address was read by Miss Thompson, while the presentation was made by F. McMullen. Oscar was a general favorite in this vicinity, always cheerfully helping some one. He will be greatly missed by his many friends here.

Two young men from Meaford came over Saturday and that night took a couple of young ladies out for a motor ride. Outside the village their engine stopped, and they could not discover the cause. They got busy on the telephone and Geo. McTavish went out with his car and towed them to the garage, where a few minutes investigation disclosed the fact that some joker had merely turned off their gas supply—we mean gasoline supply. Judging by the language used their gas supply tube was not at all choked.

High School Has Done Good work

One of the most successful years in the life of Flesherton High School was the term that has just been finished. On the Lower School examinations three out of the five pupils who wrote passed. In the Middle School, or Entrance to Normal School exams., which appeared in the papers last Friday, seven out of eleven pupils who wrote were successful and two passed with honors. Those who passed were : Pearl Allen, Frank Bunt, Ruby Caswell, Bessie McVicar (Hon.), Elda Parslow, Willow Patterson and Mabel Swift (Hon.). Five pupils will receive their certificates at the completion of their two months of farm work. These are : Mary Murphy, Ralph Williamson, Elijah Beatham, Bob Meads and Shirley Murray. We are proud of the fine showing the school has again made, and the principal, Mr. White, and assistants, Miss Holmes and Miss Hulse, are to be congratulated on the splendid success of the scholars.

Typographical Camouflage

Typographical mixups are common occurrences in newspapar offices and cannot always be avoided, no matter how much care is taken. One of the funniest we have seen was staged in the Mt. Forest Confederate last week. In telling of an accident at a boy's birthday party the Confederate said :

"A toy boomerang thrown by his comrade and in the 'come back' struck young Duke in the 'come back' struck young Duke in in Toronto with but slight hope of saving the sight of the injured optic."

Can you dispel the camouflage or tell us what part of a boy's anatomy is comprised in the "come back" and the "Toronto ?"

PTE. FRED SMITH.

Pte. Smith is the right hand figure in the group. The picture was taken while he was a prisoner in Germany. The person on the left is a Russian and the centre one an Englishman belonging to a Buff Battalion.

Pte. Fred Smith Dead in Switzerland

Inexpressibly sad was the news that arrived by cable on Saturday that Pte. Fred Smith, son of Mrs. Adam Smith, Eugenia, had died in Switzerland. There were no particulars. Fred was captured by the Germans at the battle of St. Julien in April of 1915, and held a prisoner until last fall, when he was sent to Switzerland. His parents have been expecting his return home for some time. His letters were always cheerful and his parents had no idea that he was in a serious condition, which makes the blow all the harder to bear.

This is the third and last son that Mr. and Mrs. Smith have lost during the past two years. One was drowned, another was killed in battle and now the only remaining son has passed away in a foreign land. Surely few parents have been called upon to bear such grief as has fallen to the lot of Mr. and Mrs. Smith, and the entire community mourns with them in their terrible affliction.

AROUND GREY COUNTY

A bunch of young men walked from Nobel to Owen Sound, a distance of 175 miles. They were "strapped" and could not pay railway fare.

James Allen and Alex. Gibson of Owen Sound were fined $200 and $250 respectively for getting drunk on lemon extract.

Public School Inspector Huff of Meaford is in Guelph taking a course in Agriculture.

A. G. Bright of Meaford caught a salmon trout on the troll, which weighed 24 pounds. It was 42 inches long with a tail spread of ten inches and measured 24 inches in circumference.

A yucca filamentosa is in bloom on the lawn of a Mount Forest gentleman. He has had the plant in his possession for 25 years and this is the first time it has bloomed.

D. McIlvride of Normanby fell on a pitchfork, one tine of which penetrated his leg at the knee. He also received bruises and will be laid up for some time.

In Loving Memory

Of Richard Wilcock, who fell in France August 1st, 1917. Dick was truly the very bravest of soldiers, a generous heart, a true brother and friend, a model type of Canadian manhood, the noblest soul that God could send.

For there on the field of battle
He calmly took his place.
He fought and he died for Britain
And the honor of his race.
Though he sleeps not in Canada
But 'neath the foreign skies,
Far from those who loved him dearly,
In a heroe's grave he lies.

Civic Holiday

Monday next, August 5, will be civic holiday in all towns along this line of railway. All places of business will be closed in Flesherton.

The rural telephone and automobile are sometimes rated as nuisances, but on Wednesday these agencies saved the barn of Russel Spencer who lives near Kilsyth. When the lightning struck the barn fire broke out and only the prompt use of telephone and automobile saved it from destruction. Neighbors summoned by the telephone and by the use of autos soon arrived and helped in extinguishing the blaze. By using shovels, blankets, opening one corner of the barn and raking out some straw, the fire was confined to a small space and there it burnt itself out. The estimated loss is about $50.

An Unexpected Meeting

ANYONE who knows the Canadian Pacific Rockies knows that north of the main line of the C. P. R. and in the neighborhood of the headwaters of the Bow River there is good country. At one point where a crystal lake nestles in the chill grey rocks of 10,000 feet elevation there can almost always be found fresh indications of the peak dwellers.

Now, old goat hunters will tell you that there is nothing more difficult to approach from below than a band of Rocky Mountain goats. Their keen eyes and sensitive senses, their exaggerated caution and incessant watchfulness makes it a game of highest skill. But once let a hunter get above a band of goats and they are practically at his mercy. Trained as they are in the safety of the peaks, knowing full well that danger comes from below they watch the down slopes and are inclined to be careless about the trail behind, down which they have come in safety.

An old he-goat, tall as a yearling calf and odorous as an Indian fish camp, went down to the lake to drink, and started back up the rock slide to his waiting band. It was summer, or rather early fall. Only old snow was yet in the mountains, and it lay only where the shadows of the cliffs protected it from the rays of the sun. It was above the timber line, there was no brush, but plenty of succulent lichens. The old goat was well-contented. He drank, he turned and climbed. Topping the grade, five hundred feet above the lake, he stopped astounded and angry. A fierce black animal, neither wolf nor bear nor cat, faced him with fiery eyes, gleaming teeth, and throat rumblings. It was the hunting dog of a hunter. The had been trained to get above goats and dispute passage until the hunter came to kill.

"But what's the use of killing when I want to get sheep further the hunter reasoned, as he snapped his kodak shutter and whistled reluctant dog to heel, while the still stood paralyzed with amazement.
