Mrs. Jas. Ferris Dead

On Tuesday morning there passed away at her late home, in St. Vincent township, Edna May Howard, beloved wife of Jas. Ferris. Deceased was the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Howard, of Artemesia township and was twenty nine years and four months old. In 1911 she married her now sorrowing husband and settled on a farm near Feversham, later moving to their present home. She leaves to mourn her loss a loving husband and three small children, also her father and mother, three sisters, and four brothers. One brother, Johnston, was killed in action in France, on October 26th, 1917. She was a consistent member of the English church since early in life. The funeral took place from her late home on Thursday, February 20th, attended by a large circle of friends and neighbors. Rev. Wm. Wallace, who conducted the service at the house, and officiated at the grave, preached a very impressive sermon, after which the remains were laid to rest in Thornbury Union Cemetery. The late Mrs. Ferris was held in high esteem by all who knew her, and her death has cast a gloom over the community.
