

They waited in line for that Hallowe'en touch

They lined up outside Stutt's Pharmacy Monday afternoon awaiting their turn to have Ms. Karen Davison (left) create a Hallowe'en face for the evening activities. Stutt's Pharmacy promoted the Hallowe'en facials with Ms. Davison displaying her creativeness with the make-up pencils.

Paul Quantrill, above, gets the treatment but many more eager kids were awaiting their turn.

Board of Education to close Kendal Public School, Sept. 84

The wheels were set in motion for the closing of the Kendal Public School as of the end of June 1984 on Thursday evening of last week at the regular monthly meeting of the Northumberland and Newcastle Board of Education. The Board supported the closing of the school with little debate.

Students now accommodated at Kendal will in September 1984 be accommodated in the Kirby Public School where space is available.

The Kirby and Kendal Public Schools have been operating as one unit for the past few years under one principal.

Declining enrolment at both the Kendal and Kirby schools prompted the closing. It was also felt that pupils attending Kendal would have better opportunities at the Kirby school and that staff would feel more comfortable.

No action will be taken to dispose of the Kendal school for at least one year and community use of the school will be allowed.

Further, the Board will allow the transfer of playground equipment to the Kendal Park. It was noted that the playground equipment at the school had been provided by the athletic group in Kendal Village.

The final move was also made by the board on Thursday to close the Castleton Public School which also is noting enrolment decline.

A proposal to close the Smithfield Public School was deferred for one year.

A proposal to close the Plainville School did not receive the support of the Board. With the closing of Plainville it had been proposed that a $500,000 addition could be undertaken at Camborne and the Ministry of Education had informed that board that it would not consider such an addition while Plainville remained open.

In keeping the Plainville Public School open plans for the addition at Camborne will be dropped.

Impressed with United Way operation

As a new director of the United Way, I have been very impressed by the hours of voluntary service contributed to this community services agency by directors and the many volunteer workers required to make the United Way work in our community.

As a resident of the Town of Newcastle, I was particularly interested in the number and types of services provided for the citizens of our area. Twenty-four of the United Way funded services provide direct benefits to citizens of this community.

With an eye upon the cost efficiency of the United Way, I was pleased to see that less than eight cents of every dollar goes to administrative costs. This amount is required for advertising and support budget, essential to making United Way a cost-efficient operation. This amount represents the lowest administrative costs for United Way agencies in the country.

Many of us, through the years, have contributed to various community services agencies. This year we are asking that the United Way receive its fair share donation, in terms of amount given to other agencies and in terms of our ability to give.

As a United Way director, I am happy to voluntarily give my time and efforts to the United Way, because I believe in and support the excellent work which this agen-
