We have several times recently been asked what is being done re a soldiers' monument for Artemesia and Flesherton. Frankly, we don't know anything about it. We have heard absolutely nothing about it since the public meeting was held here several months ago. It appears that legislation has been passed making it possible for municipal councils to levy a rate for this purpose.

Mrs. C. W. Chadwick of Toronto passed away on Monday morning after an extended illness. The deceased lady was a sister of Mrs. Bulmer of Flesherton. Burial took place in Prospect cemetery, Toronto.

Howard Large of Owen Sound, brother of Mr. Win Large of Eugenia, returned last week from overseas. Howard enlisted in the West and after going to France his exceptional talent as a singer caused the authorities to put him on the job of entertaining the soldiers in order to make life more pleasant for the boys and assist in keeping up their morale—a duty about as important as many of the other army branches of the service.

The Advance was told the other day of a rather remarkable instance of the mother instinct in birds which occurred at this station. A robin had built her nest in a freight car which stood on the tracks here and laid her eggs therein. When the car was moved out the bird went with it. The number of the car was noted and some time thereafter it was returned here and the young deserted their nest at the home station. Whether the C. P. R. authorities sent the car back just to accommodate Mrs. Robin, or whether in the whirligig of railway traffic it just happened, we do not know. The facts are as stated and can be sworn to by the employees at Flesherton station. The birds were hatched before they returned and the mother bird must have fed them as the car moved from place to place.

Mr. Foster's horse, Horizon, is one of only twelve or fifteen horses in this province which has been graded by the government as a premium animal. This grading has been done by the government for the past two years, and that Horizon has been granted this supreme distinction should be a matter of pride to the district over which he travels, as well as to the owner, Mr. Foster.

Pays the Costs And Apologizes

A case that attracted much attention was tried here on Wednesday of last week before Magistrate Creasor of Owen Sound, when Charles Fenwick of Osprey was up for using objectionable language towards the soldiers overseas. He was charged with saying they were fighting "to save their own dirty skins." Four or five prominent citizens of Maxwell swore to hearing defendant use these words. The Magistrate made Fenwick apologize for his words and pay all costs, but remanded the case for a week. T. H. Dyre, County Attorney, prosecuted, and Mr. Walter of Wright, Telford & Walter, appeared for the defendant.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Mrs. W. J White who died May 16th, 1918.

"One precious to our hearts is gone,
The voice we loved is stilled,
The place made vacant in our home
Can nevermore be filled.
Our father in his wisdom called
The boon His love had given ;
And though on earth the body lies,
The soul is safe in heaven."

—Granddaughter, Allie Norris.
