EAST MOUNTAIN

Much sympathy was felt for Mr. and Mrs. William Orr and family when it was learned that their youngest daughter Annie, aged 5 years, had died on Monday evening, May 19, of pleuro-pneumonia after only two days' illness. Her oldest brother, Gladstone, from Owen Sound, and sister, Ursula, from Toronto, attended the funeral on Wednesday, which took place to the R. C. cemetery, Glenelg, when their dear little one was laid to rest in her little white coffin, which was covered with flowers, among which was a lovely bouquet of white carnations from her brother, Gladstone, and wife, of Owen Sound.

Committed on Serious Charges

Adam Holley, a farmer living on the town line Glenelg and Holland, was tried in a magistrate's court at Markdale on Thursday last and committed for trial on a serious charge. It is alleged that he cut a large quantity of wire fencing belonging to a neighber, one English, and also retaining of monies belonging to his sons.

This man had four sons overseas and the charge is that these boys assigned their pay to their father to put in the bank for safe keeping until their return. Upon their return the father refused to hand over a cent of the money, which, it is said, amounted to about $1700 in all.

If the facts are as stated the result will be serious for Holley.

The split log drag was run over the 4th line from the four corners north of Kimberley to Walton's spring on Monday last and it did good work.

Kimberley L. O. L. No. 1340, gave a supper on Friday evening last in honor of Pte. Sanford Breadner, a returned soldier.

The 24th at Eugenia

Victoria Day was an ideal holiday for pleasure and sports. We think about half of Flesherton was at Eugenia and along the banks of the streams angling. The baseball match at Eugenia attracted much attention. The game was between the Power House and Flesherton, but as neither teams had its regular bunch of players the game could scarcely be called a fair test. The score, though close, showed poor playing all round, 41 runs being scored—20 for Flesherton and 21 for the Juice producers.

In the evening a concert was held in the Methodist church, which was jammed to the doors and outside, many having to stand, The talent was of the very best and rounded off the day to perfection. Proton Glee Club gave sweet harmony as did the Rock Mills orchestra. Both of these were called on several times and responded nobly. Mrs. Eagle gave a couple of recitations in fine style But the grand attraction of the evening was the Large Bros. and Mr. Brocklebank. Howard Large and Mr. Brocklebank are returned overseas entertainers and they gave their hearers a taste of what they gave the boys over in France, and that taste tasted like more each time. It was difficult for the audience to get enough. Mr. Newton Large of Owen Sound and Mr. Win Large and his sweet singing laddies of Eugenia also assisted very materially in the program. The concert was of a very superior order throughout and was much enjoyed by all. The proceeds of the day amounted to about $128.

Victoria Corners

DUNDALK

The Howes' saw mill started operations last week on the season's cut. The stock of logs on hand is the biggest in a number of years. Last winter was a very favorable one for getting out the timber.

Dundalk Citizens' Band started practice on Monday night under the guidance of Bandmaster Colgan, the repaired instruments having been received from Toronto. There are a dozen or more old bandsmen who will be able to "carry on" for the summer and fall till the younger recruits will be able to take up the work.

Several boys of the Village setting off fire crackers on the street were warned by Constable Abbott. Some of them did not heed the advice and three of them were fined $1 and costs by Magistrate Traynor, making the assessment $3.60 each for breach of the Village bylaw.—Herald

Can You Believe It?

Here is certainly a record to be proud of! Writing to the Southampton Beacon to express his appreciation of the work of the Southampton boys who enlisted and the Southampton girls who kept them supplied with comforts, Mr. M. S. McAulay says:

Sir, I can say what no other man in Ontario can say, and that is a big word. There are three brothers of us all through the American Civil War. My grandfather was for many years under the British flag. I sent five sons and a grandson to this war. The grandson was killed in France. One son has his right lung totally out of him by gas. He was buried three times, and blown in the air by concussion by bursting shells four times. His left shoulder was shattered and his left knee cap thrown out of place and flesh was grafted on his forehead. Another one was wounded three times with shrapnel, wounded in the right jaw and a piece of the bullet left there. He has to go through an operation to take it out. My youngest son has his right arm off four inches below the elbow. The whole five are in a crippled condition.

JAS. CROWSTON, Prop.

Succumbed To His Injuries

Mr. Solomon Turner, whom we noted last week as having been run over and crushed by a steel roller while working on his son's farm near Eugenia, passed away at his home in Eugenia early on Sunday morning.

An operation was performed by an Owen Sound surgeon on Friday last, when it was found that the bowels had been broken in three places. The operation was considered satisfactory, but Mr. Turner, who was 70 years of age, was was unable to stand the physical strain. The funeral took place to Salem on Wednesday afternoon

Mr. Turner was one of the most highly respected of the older residents of Artemesia, and the manner of his taking off has produced the profound regret of a large circle of friends and much sympathy is extendsd to the family. He was a consistent member of Eugenia Methodist church, and his kindly face and sound judgment will form a void there not easily filled.

Committed Suicide Near Heathcote

Arthur Lougheed, a man about 35 years of age a resident of Collingwood township, hanged himself in the barn of his brother-in-law, Mr. Victor Hewgill, near Heaancote. The young man suffered the loss of his wife in March last who died suddenly of heart trouble, and this, coupled with other physical weaknesses, is supposed to have led to the rash act. His body was found about 11 o'clock hanging from a beam in the barn. No person had any idea that he was about to do away with himself and their gruesome find created much commotion in the neighborhood. We understand that his father, the late Robert Lougheed ended his life in the same manner some 25 years ago. He is survived by six small children, the oldest being about 11 years of ago, and a number of brothers and sisters. One brother is now serving overseas.

Much sympathy is extended to the small orphan children who are being cared for by friends.—Meaford Express.

Mr. Thomas Grainger is beginning to feel quite spry again, having been rather under the weather for a time.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Morewood (nee Miss Sadie Smart) will be pleased to know that a bright little son recently arrived at their home, Ladner, B. C.

Mr. H. Noble was the lucky fisherman at Eugenia last Wednesday. His each included a trout that tipped the scales at better than three pounds—Standard.

Seeding is mostly done in this district and vegetation is rapid.

The Dufferin Construction Company of Toronto moved in their plant with steam shovel last week and have it at work filling the sink hole on the gravel two and a half miles north.

A special train has been chartered by the Orange Association here to run from Shelburne on July 13, leaving that station at 9 a.m., and to leave here on return at 7 p.m.

Returned Soldiers

Thomas Davis, son of Mr. Wm. Davis, returned on Saturday from overseas with his wife and little babe. Tom enlisted with the Third Battalion, Q. O. R., and went across the ocean with the first contingent. He was blown out of a dugout and had his head injured. In England he practically recovered but not sufficiently to be sent back to the lines. He was given hospital work and while there he married an English young lady. He had hoped to come to Canada a year ago but was detained there until now.

Clifford Blakeley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Blakeley, returned on Friday night from overseas and was met at the station by a large number of friends. Cliff enlisted with the 147th Battalion and went to France as Tailor Sergeant with the 38th Battalion in which position he remained until the armistice. After returning to England he was in hospital for some time. Cliff, we understand, purposes reopening his tailor shop here.
