While driving a couple of young men to Eugenia on Saturday last Mr. John Richardson did not get out of the way of an auto driven by a Proton party quickly enough and his buggy was struck in its rear and Mr. Richardson sailed out like a flying squirrel into the ditch. The Advance has received complaint that vandals have already been at work this spring stealing flowers from the graves in Flesherton cemetery. Of all the despicable characters that roam at large the individurl who will rob the decorations from graves of our beloved dead are in the first category, and are rightly despised by all right thinking men. One gentlemen bought five dollars worth of tulips and planted them on his wife's grave last fall. Some degraded creature has been pilfering these flowers —one who cares nothing for the sentiments of others, but would probably howl the loudest if a like act were committed on him. We would like very much to see some of these vandals caught and their just deserts meted out to them.

The farm stock, implements etc., belonging to the estate of the late Walter Dudgeon, Elderslie, sold by auction, brought $7500, which is the largest sum ever realized at a similar sale in Elderslie. The 100 acre grass farm was also disposed of by Auctioneer Pearce for $5300. There were numerous bidders and the successful bidder was Mr. James Dudgeon, who recently purchased the old family homestead. Some of the animals sold fetched unusually high figures. A team of four year old horses sold at $400, a pair of two year old steers at $180 each, and a brood sow at $138 — Paisley Advocate.
