In loving memory of Charlie Smith, who was drowned at Eugenia, June 23, 1916—

Three years have gone, and still we miss him,
Never shall his memory fade:
Loving thoughts will always linger
'Round the grave where Charlies laid.

KIMBERLEY

Weather very dry of late and awhile ago it was too wet. It would be a hard proposition for to get the kind that would please us all. Whitecombe Riley hit the nail on the head when he wrote the following:—

It ain't no use to grumble and complain,
It's jest as cheap and easy to rejoice;
If God sorts out the weather and its rain,
W'y rain's my choice.

PRICEVILLE

Sacramental services were held in the Presbyterian church last Sunday a. m.

Our citizens had quite a time fighting fire on Saturday afternoon. Mrs. McLean, who lives west of the public school discovered her kitchen roof on fire, but being alone and no water near at hand the fire gained considerable headway before help arrived. A good portion of the contents were saved, but a lot of clothing and bedding, also some furniture, were upstairs and could not be rescued and to make matters worse there was no insurance on house or contents. While the people were fighting the above fire, an alarm was given that the school buildings were on fire and before water could be used the entire length of woodshed roof was burning, and no supply of water in the school well, A pail brigade was formed to a well some distance away which had a good supply of water and at length the fire was extinguished.

Each week we take pleasure in reading over the news items in this paper by a number of good correspondents, but occasionally we find a thoughtless corr. calling his nice Canadian village or hamlet our "burg." Then we grind our teeth, ugh, boshe!
