EXCERPTS FROM A NEWS LETTER
Issued by The
Ontario Cream Producers' Marketing Board

We quote:- "Creameries that continue to accept second grade, or even "Liner" first grade, cream and pay for it as first grade are maintaining an almost insurmountable obstacle in the way of quality improvement. It may well seem hard-boiled and undesirable to the producer to have Cream that is even questionable put down in a lower grade and paid for as such, or else refused, but in the long range, Cream Shippers who persistently produce a poor quality are doing themselves little good and are a tremendous detriment to the industry. The challenge faces everyone in all branches — each must decide whether we will be known as one who helped improve the quality of our butter or just a stumbling block."

THE MIXING BOWL
by Anne Allan
STORE HOME ECONOMIST

Hello Homemakers! Sweet, fragrant, juicy grapes are on the market once again. Enjoy them "as is" but also use them to provide flavour and goodness in grape jelly on toast on meats and on crackers for in-between snacks.

Grapes make preserves other than jelly, namely, Grape Jam and Grape Conserve. This tart fruit jells quickly but must be watched carefully for the jelly stage is reached when two drops dropped from a spoonful run together and form a "sheet."

Perhaps you know that grape skins stick readily to a pan and therefore must be stirred constantly or else the jam may jell. Stir with a wooden spoon in one hand and test with a silver spoon in the other.

Your time will be well spent in bottling grape juice this year since imported fruit juices have gone up in price. Although it is not equivalent to the vitamin content of citrus fruit it can frequently be served as a true-flavoured fruit juice.

Canned Grape Juice

Wash and stem grapes, place in an aluminum or enamelware kettle Heat until the juice flows freely and the colour of the skins spreads through the whole mass. Press juice through a jelly bag (piece of unbleached cotton). Heat juice to simmering point (165 degrees) and pour into sterile bottles. Seal with paraffin-lined caps and pasteurize by heating in hot water bath for 20 minutes at simme ng point. Store in a cool dark place for 3 months. If desired, sugar may be added before final processing.

Thyme and Grape Jelly

½ cup boiling water
1 tbsp. thyme
2 cups sugar
1½ cups grape juice
½ cup liquid pectin

Pour water over thyme. Cover Let stand 15 minutes. Strain through a fine piece of cheesecloth. Measure infusion and add water to make ½ cup.

Mash 1 quart of grapes and cook quickly to extract juice which will make about 1½ cups. Mix sugar infusion and grape juice. Bring to a high rolling boil for ½ minute while stirring. Remove from electric element and skim. Add pectin and boil again ½ minute. Quickly pour into sterile jars. Cover with paraffin when cool.

Grape Relish

6 quarts Concord grapes
3 large apples
1 pint vinegar
5 cups brown sugar
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. cloves
1 tsp. allspice

Skin grapes. Place pulp in saucepan. Cover and simmer for 5 minutes. Strain, combine with skins and apples which have been peelel and finely chopper. Add other ingredients. Cook uncovered, stir frequently, until thick, about 35 minutes.

TAKE A TIP

1. Salt raw cucumbers at the last minute to prevent sliced pieces from becoming soft.
2. Stewed greengage plums are tasty food for fruit salad when pitted and mixed with cream or cottage cheese.
3. Small amounts of creamed vegetables and mashed potatoes left from dinner are often quite enough to make a delicious soup for the thermos in a lunch box.
4. Cream sauces as well as chocolate and other dessert sauces can be made up in quantity and then used as needed. They should be stored in the electric refrigerator in a covered jar.
