The Standard says the committee is not aware of any prizes being unawarded for which there was competition at the Twelfth celebration in Markdale. Several gentlemen told The Advance that they knew of no prizes being awarded except for baseball, and some of these were present with the idea of competing for prizes if any chance had been given them. That is the explanation the Standard requests.

Reeve McTavish began last week to remodel his premises on Collingwood St. and is fitting them up as a modern garage. He is quitting the blacksmithing and utilizing most of the old blacksmith shop in the garage. There is already installed an air service second to none. Mr. McTavish has secured the agency for the Chevrolet car, his contract and first delivery of cars to begin on August 1. He has placed an order with the firm for a large number of cars, including Baby Grands, and has a number of orders already on his books.

Frank Patton Home

Signaller Frank Patton, the second eldest, and one of three sons of Councillor J. Patton to go to the war, returned home on Thursday evening train and was given a welcome at the station. Frank enlisted with the 147th Battalion and when the war closed was with the Corps Signal Co. He was never wounded, but was in hospital in England since May last with flu and pneumonia, from which he now appears to have fully recovered, and looks well. Previous to enlisting he was working for the Hydro, and also worked for the Bell Co. Frank was with the force that first entered Germany, and was located at the University town of Bonn and at Cologne on the Rhine. Councillor Patton had three sons in the war and all came through without a casualty—rather a remarkable record. Frank thinks of attending the soldiers' school in Toronto and taking up telegraphy, for which he is partially fitted through his work as signaller He had the honor of wiring the Prince of Wales' hut in France and installing his telephone on the battlefield. This is the last of our Flesherton boys who have been overseas to be repatriated, although one or two from the surrounding country are yet to come.

Knocked Down, Died

Following an altercation on Wednesday of last week, during which he was struck three times on the head and body with a heavy walking stick in the hands of Neil Coates, a cattle buyer of Toronto, Wm Umbach of Ayton fell heavily to the sidewalk and died almost instantly, the direct cause of his death being somewhat disputable.

Immediately after the incident Coates left the scene and returned to the station where he was loading hogs, while eye witnesses of the fracas sent for a doctor and later for the coroner and the county crown attorney. Late that evening Coates had not been arrested. Umbach's body lies in the Commercial Hotel and a county constable is on his way to Ayton.

Among those who saw the two men engaged in their argument in front of the Commercial Hotel were And. Schank, Leslie Koester, Fred Schause and Chas. Rahn. They saw Coates strike Umbach, and as the latter fell Schank started forward to stop the affair, saying : "Here men, we can't let this go on." He was too late to prevent the tragic end of the altercation.

Both Umbach and Coates are cattle buyers, though the former is chiefly a flour and feed man at the station cattle yards. This afternoon they got into an argument, Umbach having offered a farmer a certain price for his pigs, to which Coates is alleged to have had first claim. Later in the afternoon between 4 and 5 o'clock the two met in front of the Commercial Hotel and renewed their argument.

Dr. J. L. Easton was called as soon as Umbach failed to rise from the sidewalk, to which he had fallen heavily. The doctor, who is also coroner, pronounced Umbach to be dead, and refused to allow the body to be moved from the hotel until after it had been viewed by a jury.

Witnesses state that it is possible Umbach may have been stunned by the blow of Coates' stick, and may have been unable to save himself when he struck the pavement. They believe Coates was unaware of how seriously Umbach was hurt, because of the unconcerned way in which he left the scene to return to his cattle shipping. Coates is now in custody.

Well Financed

The Markdale 12th of July celebration committee gave a creditable account of their stewardship at a well attended meeting of the Lodge held on Wednesday evening of last week. It has been customary to collect from citizens of the village on such occasions from $100 to $150 to help pay expenses, but this year a baseball match was put on during the afternoon and a concert at night. The receipts from these paid all expenses and $280 over. Then the committee went around town the following Wednesday and secured $100 in subscription towards the Orange Memorial Orphanage fund, and when the brethren met at night to wind up the proceedings, individual members made up $20 more, thus making in all a grant of $400 for this worthy cause. The hearty thanks of the lodge was extended to the management committee, and also a resolution of appreciation and thanks unanimously passed to all who in any way assisted the managers in their arduous but successful celebration task—Standard.

During a heavy electric storm which passed over Creemore last week, Walter Rawn, a returned soldier, and a son of Wm. Rawn, Sunnidale, was struck by lightning and instantly killed. He was coming in from the field and was 22 years of age.
