Celebrated Her 104th Birthday

Mrs. Ann Brown of the Glen, Sydenham, celebrated her 104th birthday on Jan. 11, and friends who called on her then found her bright and cheery and interested in current happenings. Mrs. Brown is Grey county's only centenarian and is one of the pioneers of that district.

The aged lady of the Glen was born in Yorkshire, England, and is probably the only living witness of Queen Victoria's coronation. After her husband's death, with her four young children she bravely faced the trials and privations of a new country and established a home in Sydenham.

The great war just past was not the only war Mrs. Brown has seen in her long life, for when a tiny infant she was held in her mother's arms to watch the return of Wellington's victorious men from Waterloo.

When the Duke of Devonshire visited Owen Sound in June, 1918, with the Duchess, he paid a visit to Mrs. Brown, and chatted with her for some time. Many a soldier boy in France wore the socks this aged lady had knit, and quite regularly her gifts were sent in to the parcel rooms.

One son and a daughter live with their mother on the homestead, and another daughter is Mrs. William Kennedy, wife of the well known consulting engineer of Montreal.

Dr. Wesley Leach, a returned medical soldier, of Meaford, has located at Rocklyn.
