The thermometers on Saturday morning registered from 23 to 30 below zero. It was certainly cold. One young man in town had five fingers and both ears pretty badly frozen just driving in from the station.

Mr. Walter Thompson has accepted the position of lineman on the Hydro, made vacant by the death of the late Oscar Trueman, his duties beginning on Monday of this week. Walter had the position previous to last June, when it was given to Trueman.

The interest in the special meetings held in the Methodist church is being well sustained The church was well filled Sunday afternoon when Mrs. Sharpe spoke to the women only on the influence which some women of the Bible exerted. The meeting held in the high school by Mr Sharpe at the same time was well attended. The meetings will close on Friday with an all day service—10.30, 2.30 and 8.

High Constable Robert Cook still holds his job, notwithstanding the efforts put forth in some quarters to have him replaced by Constable Carson of Owen Sound. A petition asking for Mr. Cook's removal, containing 117 names, was presented to the County Council at its session last week, but reasons were not given for the desirability of such removal and as no one appeared to father the petition, it was naturally turned down.

The editor of the Owen Sound Advertiser notes having seen two bluejays near his bungalow, and says he is not enough of an ornithologist to say whether these birds [are common here] in winter or not. The editor of the Advertiser is not a devotee of the snowshoe or he would have seen plenty of bluejays during his peregrinations, because Mr. Bluejay is not a migratory bird but stays right with us the year round.

The horse belonging to a Kimberley young man, which we noted last week as having run away with the cutter after an upset, was found on Monday of last week at the home of Mr. Frank Davis, 7th line, about a quarter of a mile from where the accident occurred. It was missing from Saturday 2 a.m. until Monday, when the owner discovered its whereabouts. The two young men are not explaining the whole extent of the joke on themselves. For instance: On the way home they passed within two or three rods of where the horse stood waiting to be "took" in, and mournfully proceedad to do that five mile "mush" before arriving at Kimberley before the citizens there had lighted their fires in the morning. Saul, Saul, why art thou persecuted!

Mr. G. B. Welton was in Toronto on business las week.

Married—On Wednesday, Jan. 28, at the Methodist parsonage, Maxwell, by Rev. Charles H Forth, Naomi Myrtle Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Parsons, Artemesia, to Mr. J. T. McKenzie of Osprey.

Flesherton W. I. will hold their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Ed. Best on Wednesday, Feb. 11. Topic—The effect of home influence upon our political and national life, by Rev. McVicar, and a ten cent tea will be served at the close, proceeds in aid of the Memorial Fund.

Monday was the day that the bear and woodchuck are suppesed to come out and get scared at their shadow, then go back for another three months, If their nerves are not so upset and clouds prevail, the winter will last—is it another two months, or what? Anyway, there is some old legend about it. Monday was a bright, sunshiny day, enough to give a bear and woodchuck nervous prostration for at least four months. We hope to prove the old saw a myth this year, for a good long winter has already come and gone with zero to 30 below for all of January, and no January thaw. The man who said he had seen a thousand Januaries and never saw one without a thaw will now quit his joshing.

Mr Wm. Cargo of the east back line thinks he has learned how to make old hens lay, and has given us the formula Some time ago he shut up fifteen of his old hens that had ceased egg production, putting them in a large crate, intending to fatten them for the market. Within a few days he found an egg in the crate. He took the biddy out that had layed that egg and told her to go to it. Next day there was another egg in the crate and another hen was released from durance vile. The following day another hen came forward with an egg and was released. To shorten the story, all the rest of the captives, when they saw what their sisters had done to secure liberty, took up the young hens' burden and started in on the greater production issue and were all released and are now working overtime to preserve their heads. Who says hen's have no brains?

The Late Mrs. Jacob Holley

Mrs. Jacob Holley, for many years a respected citizen of Markdale, passed to her rest early Monday morning, Jan. 19th. She had suffered a severe paralytic stroke some two years ago and a second was experienced on the Thursday prior to her death, to which she succumbed.

The deceased was a woman of sterling worth and many stories are told of her unselfish interest and endeavor to relieve distress or help the troubled when it was in her power to do so. Her long illness gave evidence of a christian disposition that is of the first importance to any community.

The funeral took place on Wednesday January 21st, and was largely attended. —Standard.
