Born—On Sunday, April 25, to Mr. and Mrs. Dan McDonald, a son.

Isn't the weather something fierce, feliows? How about a little seeding weather, Mr. Weather Man?

Work has commenced on a temporary bridge. We hope it will soon be completed as we have a grist for she mill and do not care much for carrying it across.

George Julian had a stock of ice cream Saturday night for the first time this season. Pretty cool suff for this weather, but those Maxwellites seemed to lick it up, all right.

Rather a sad drowning accident occurred here on Saturday night. The victim was a high heeled slipper belonging to one of our popular young ladies. The poor little slipper took a high dive into the mill pond and disappeared. However, s bold and chivalrous knight girded up his armour the next morning, and with the aid of a long pole fished it out. It is now back where it belongs. Lucky slipper.

Mr. Harry Bell, who has been staying at Mr. Wm. Heitman's for a few weeks, has gone to McIntyre.

This neighborhood was shocked to hear of the sudden death of Mrs. John Martin an old resident of this vicinity, who made her home the past two years with her youngest daughter, Mrs. N. Caswell, of the Toronto Line. She was seized by pleurisy, which turned into double pneumonia, proving fatal in less than a week's time. Her family were all at her bedside when her spirit took its flight. Interment took place at Markdale beside the remains of her late husband. Rev. Belfry officiated at both house and grave. The floral tributes were beautiful, viz., a wreath from the family, sprays from Mrs. J. Patterson, Miss A. Thompson and Mrs. John Welsh. The pall bearers were Wm. Caswell, Wm. Hales, Wm. A Farmer's Spring Song

Says I to myself, the spring is here,
Says I to myself, says I;
With song birds chanting notes of cheer,
And the busiest time of all the year,
Says I to myself, says I.

We must curtail our daylight sleep,
And keep an open eye,
For we must plough our furrows deep,
And sow, if we would harvest reap,
Says I to myself, says I.

There's a lot of seeds that we must plant
Before May month goes by,
And there's no use to say we can't
But be inspired by the busy ant,
Says I to myself, says I.

Rewards are waiting for us to win,
If we but bravely try;
So it's up to us to dig right in
And up and at it, and raise a din,
Says I to myself, says I.

So I'm off to the field with team and plow
To make the furrows fly;
I will not wait to tell you how,
But leave off singing about it now,
Says I to myself, says I.
