Viewpoint

Canadians can judge just how well provincial governments are doing in the areas that are most important to Canadians.

Budget 2004 is a significant shift for the federal government and its outlook toward education. By giving Canadians greater assistance to save for their children's post-secondary education we are ensuring that a younger generation will reap the benefits of a world that is composed of a knowledge-based economy.

This budget goes a long way to finding solutions for both healthcare and education while, at the same time, keeping us on a level course reducing our debt to ensure government will have the flexibility to provide more programs in the future.

As the baby boomers get older more demands will be made on healthcare.

More demands will be made for greater government support to ensure Canada is a major competitor in the global market place.
