Co-operative Egg Circles

An important part of the poultry work of the Live Stock Branch of the Department of Agriculture, during the past year has been the organization of Co-operative Egg Circles. Ten circles in all have been organized under the auspices of the Branch, working in conjunction with the provincial and agricultural college authorities and the Poultry Producers' Association of Canada. The preliminary work in connection with a number of others has been done, and from present indications it is apparent that this phase of co-operative work is likely to have a rapid growth in the near future.

Being primarily concerned with the improvement of the Canadian Egg Trade the Live Stock Branch has encouraged the formation of these circles because the movement affords a means whereby the quality of eggs can be improved as they leave the farm, and the pernicious practice of holding eggs both on the farm and in the country store largely eliminated. Co-operative effort of this kind also affords a medium whereby the eggs in any given community may be collected and marketed frequently and regularly, and insures to the consumer a new-laid egg of uniform quality at no great increase in cost. At the time of joining the association the members agree to stamp each egg with a given number designated by the Board of Directors. This is done so that the eggs of each member may be identified when graded and payment made according to quality.

A manager is appointed by the Board of Directors whose business it is to collect, grade, sell the eggs and apportion the returns among the members according to the quantity and quality received. In most circles the eggs from each farm are collected at stated intervals, but in others the members deliver the eggs to some central point such as a creamery, cheese factory, store or house, from which the manager makes the shipment.

It is well known that at certain seasons of the year there is a wide difference between the price received for eggs by the farmer in the country store and the price paid by the consumer in the city. This difference is not nearly so marked in the spring of the year as it is in the late summer, fall and winter. In other words, as the quality of ordinary farm eggs becomes more uncertain the premium placed on new-laid circle eggs increases. While during the spring of the year prices received by circle members may not greatly exceed those paid in the local store, it is a fact that for the eggs produced in the month of December last year the majority of circles in the provinces of Ontario and Quebec received a price of from 45 to 50 cents a dozen.

A limited number of circles will no doubt be able to take advantage of the rapidly growing select trade in the larger Canadian cities, but from the fact that the wholesale egg dealers in Ontario and Quebec have recently adopted a new system of buying on a basis of quality, it is likely that the product of the majority of circles will find its way to the consumer through the more recently established channels of trade.

The Live Stock Branch stands ready and willing to help on the Egg Circle movement in every possible way. Officers of this Branch are now in the field; and there is available a quantity of literature, including outlines of constitutions, by-laws, etc., dealing with the work, copies of which may be obtained upon request from the Live Stock Commissioner, Ottawa.

Noronic, the next new steamship of the Northern Navigation Co.'s fleet, will be launched at Port Arthur on May 24th.

The Churches and the Newspapers

One or two Toronto clergymen have lately advocated advertising campaigns in the newspapers as a means of promoting the work of the churches. A number of Boston congregations are associated in an organization headed by business men, and this society has been using the columns of the local press somewhat freely for large type advertisements. A half-page display advertisement, which recently appeared, bore a headline reaching across the page and reading: "Why Not Go to Church?"

Beneath this heading ran a few sententious and easily grasped sentences regarding the vital importance of the church as a social and moral influence. Then followed this paragraph: "Every non-attendant upon religious services virtually votes for the elimination of the institution from society. If a person believes that the world needs the church, he has but one clear, unmistakable, and unanswerable way of stating his position. That is by regular church attendance. The man who goes to church stands for an indispensable institution, even as a good citizen stands for the state by voting. Absenteeism from the ballot-box and absenteeism from the church are kindred failures in duty to society. Thoughtful persons stand for the best things. The church-goer lines up with the forces which make for righteousness."

The rest of the half page had advertisements of the different city churches, and their services, with this significant line in the middle: "In case of illness, death or other trouble, any of the city ministers will be glad to help." All this looks as if the churches of at least one city have agreed upon a new measure of union, or at least of united effort that may be far-reaching in its good results.—Toronto News.

Hog Cholera.

Thanks to wise government regulations faithfully carried out, Canadian swine raisers suffer comparatively little loss from Hog Cholera as compared with those of many other countries. From time to time, however, this disease appears in various parts of the Dominion where the infection has been brought in some way or other. This disease which is entirely confined to hogs is extremely contagious and accompanied by a high death rate. In order to put owners of swine on their guard the Veterinary Director General, Dr. F. Torrance, has issued a plainly written bulletin setting forth such information as should enable the lay reader to readily detect the malady and understand what course to pursue in the case of an outbreak in his herd.

It is stated that the disease is caused by a germ which may be transferred in virulent form in many different ways such as on the boots of attendants, the feeding of uncooked garbage containing pork which may have come from a diseased pig, wandering dogs, domestic pigeons, or in the water of a stream flowing through an infected pasture or yard.

Infected hogs lose appetite, become sluggish and, if moved, may cough. They rapidly become thin and weak, linger for a time, or they may die in a few days. Other symptoms that will help diagnosis are described in the bulletin which contains a number of clear photo engravings of hogs in various stages of illness, as well as sections of internal organs showing characteristic diseased conditions.

Whenever the disease is noticed the owner is bound by law to notify a Veterinary Inspector. Failure to do this lays one liable to a heavy fine besides the forfeiture of compensation for the loss of slaughtered animals.

On account of the nature of the subject treated this bulletin, No. 15 of the Health of Animals Branch, is not being sent out to names on the regular departmental mailing list. Persons who desire copies may receive them by making application to the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa.
