This happened right here in town. Two young men, both returned soldiers —one United States, the other Canadian — were chatting amicably together, when the American started to use French in the conversation. He was halted and asked to speak British. "Oh," he said, "all the Americans learned French while over there." "Well," said the Canadian Lieutenant, "we Canadians had no time to study the language." No, there was no international mixup, though conversation languished. The dose was bitter but it was swallowed.

Mr. Alex. Hergott of Proton Station had a peculiar accident with his car at Milne's corner, Collingwood gravel, one night last week. In company with a friend he was driving his car, and on topping a rise he ran into a cow that was lying on the road. Owing to the rise he was unable to see the animal until right on it. Two wheels and the windshield were smashed but both occupants of the car came out of the mixup uninjured. We have not learned what damage was done to the cow, but presume that her running gear was damaged and an air pump would be required to reinflate her.

Wrong Again, C. W.

The Markdale Standard of last week says : "Of the 16 publishers in Grey County forty years ago, C. W. Rutledge of the Markdale Standard is the only one now in business."

This is incorrect, as The Advance man was also in business in this county forty years ago. We will wager, too, a bottle of hair restorer that we have more hairs on the top of our head than Bro, Rutledge has.

Woman Injured By a Cow

Mrs. Wm. J. McLean of Walters Falls had a miraculous escape from death on Monday morning of last week, She and the children went out to the field to bring in a young calf. When Mrs. McLean attempted to go to the calf the cow became enraged and rushed at her, tossing her into the air, and after she fell to the ground the cow proceeded to trample her. Other cows in the field became attracted and started over the field. This apparently caused the mad cow to stop her work and she started towards the cows, thinking they were going to molest the young calf. This gave the unfortunate woman a chance to crawl to the fence where the children were helplessly looking on.

With great difficulty Mrs. McLean made her way to the house with the children. Later Dr. McCullough of Walters Falls was called and found that her wrist was broken and her whole body in a badly bruised condition. At the time of the accident Mr. McLean was away from home. Latest report is that the injured woman is doing very well—Chatsworth News.
