PROTON

A motor party consisting of Mr and Mrs J D Ryder and sons and Mrs Napier of Windsor visited last week at the home of the former's uncle, Mr J C Wright. Mr Ryder, whose boyhood was spent in this village, says that on all his journey from Detroit by way of Kincardine, the roads around Proton Station were the worst he had travelled and we happen to know that the roads he motored over are not by any means the roughest in the vicinity. Why are the townlines so neglected by the Township fathers?

Mr S Wright and son of Kincardine joined the Detroit friends last week at his brother's here.

Mr and Mrs Ed Stinson and Mr H Copeland and son, Bobby, attended the Orangeville Fair.

Mr H G Becker returned last Monday from his motor trip to North Bay, bringing with him Mrs Becker and little son, Jack, who have been visiting there for the past month.

A number from here attended the very successful anniversary services at Bethel.

Victoria Corners

Mr Laidlaw, who was helping Mr A Stinson put up the wire fence in front of his place last Monday, met with a painful accident when the stretcher broke and hurt both his hands and one knee quite badly. But they are better.

Mrs Robinson of Bethel and son, John, of Jarvis, visited at Mrs Milton Bannon's last week.

Stella Acheson, Dot Stevens, Vera Moore and Susanna Ludlow have returned to Flesherton H. S.

Lawson Lockhart met with what might have proved a serious accident last week, but for which he is fortunately not much the worsr. In fastening the trip rope to the bundle the rope became wrapped around his wrist and he was taken up just hanging by his wrist to within about six feet of the top of the barn. Ivan, a younger brother, was driving the horses, and was unable to stop the horses until the bundle tripped. They let him down easily and a sore wrist is the worst result.

George Ludlow and Milton Bannon went to Ayton on Tuesday for the threshing outfit and straw cutter, which about 25 of the neighbors have purchased. They returned on Friday. Mr Domm, from whom they purchased it, returned with them. They threshed on Monday at George Ludlow's and are well pleased with the purchase.

Six County Policemen

The abolition of the county constable's fee system and the substitution of an arrangement under which police protection would be provided by a staff of salaried men, is one of the recommendations that will probably be made by the Commission appointed by the Drury Government to investigate the judiciary of Ontario, says the Owen Sound Sun-Times.

According to E A. Pocock of London, one of the commissioners, the fee system is the root of many evils that must be checked. He has under advisement a plan that would provide a paid staff for the whole Province under a chief stationed in Toronto. Each county would have six regular paid constables under a chief in the county town. These men would be mounted on horses or motor cycles and would be assigned to patrol beats on which they would attend to motor speeders as a side line. Mr. Pocock proposes that police patrol boxes, with telephone equipment, could be placed at certain points from which the public could send emergency or other calls, and the staff would be kept in constant touch with headquarters. The men would also be required to qualify in first aid work.

The function of this new force, said Mr. Pocock, would be to keep men out of trouble, in contrast with the enterprising fee workers whose ambition is said to be to get men into it. The ultimate result would be a saving to the community and improved police protection for the people, he claimed. Mr. Pocock said that the commissioners are also giving consideration to the proposals for the establishment of juvenile courts in cities.

Benjamin Elder of Elsinore had two barns burned by lightning. Both barns were about 40 by 70. There were about 75 loads of hay and 45 loads of grain in them and these were also burned. The stock was released and driven out. The buildings were well covered by insurance.

A Fishing Catastrophe

A magistrate's case which attracted a great deal of attention was tried before James McMullen, J. P., in the town hall on Saturday evening, when two of our citizens, Messrs. W. W. Trimble and H. Carrington, were charged with fishing out at the hydro dam on Sunday. Three or four weeks ago these gentlemen went out to the 8th line on a Saturday evening to fish, and this trial was the result. Both gentlemen swore that they did not fish after 12 o'clock, but a man named Durant swore that he saw Trimble's line in the water at 3 a. m. Mr. Durant must have remarkably keen eyes in his head—sort of night glasses. A line cannot be seen in the water after dark, according to our experience. The explanation of why they were there at that early hour was a series of mishaps, including a lost fishing pole, a broken buggy and exploding lantern. As there was no evidence that Mr. Carrington was fishing his case was dismissed, but Magistrate McMdllen accepted the evidence of the man Durant as against that of Postmaster Trimble, and recorded a convictien. W. H. Wright, who acted for the defendants, immediately gave notice of appeal. Co. Crown Attorney Dyre prosecuted.

Up-to-Date Farming

Fall work on the land will not be interrupted on Hand Bros. farm near Stanton, at least not by numerous calls to attend threshings. Their crop has been threshed as it was hauled in. A tractor and a 29x28 separator did the trick. Five men hauled the grain from the fields and threshed it, putting the grain in the granary as fast as the same men could have hauled in and mowed back the sheaves. Now the barn is full of clean dry straw and the grain ready for market or feeding There is no further worry over the 1920 harvest.

A great many farmers in Dufferin Co. look with skeptical eyes on power farming. This skepticism arises largely from a lack of knowledge as to what a power outfit can do on an ordinary farm. Hand Bros. use their tractor to good advantage on the land and at all kinds of belt work. The small separator would easily handle the crops of three or four neighbors. It was a pleasure to see it handle the heavy sheaves of wheat and oats as fast as a man wanted to fork off his load onto the self feeder. The tractor is now being used to double disc the stubble and soon will be pulling the ploughs. Then also it will be hitched to the cutting box to fill the big silo with corn—Shelburne Free Press.

A farmer's wife remarked: Who says sugar is up? I formerly exchanged a dozen eggs for a pound of sugar, but now I get two pounds of sugar for the dozen. Some level head.

In a fire which broke out early on Saturday morning last Shelburne's pumping station at the well up on the hill was completely destroyed by fire, together with the gasoline engine, motor and about $80 worth of tools and accesseries belonging to Constable Whitehead, The fire was not discovered until the whole building was ablaze. The upright frame surrounding the stand pipe beneath the supply tank also took fire but was soon extinguished. The fire is said to have been caused by friction through the pulley slipping on the rubber belt. No insurance was carried—Free Press.
