A disastrous storm set in here on Wednesday evening of last week and continued for three days. Friday morning it turned to soft snow and during the day nine or ten inches of snow fell, loading down the trees to such an extent that many limbs were snapped off. The maple shade trees in town suffered greatly, as did also fruit trees and ornamental shrubbery. In the orchards apples were unpicked, the foliage still remained on the trees and with the added weight of snow many trees were actually destroyed. The damage in this manner cannot be estimated. The oldest inhabitant does not remember such a fall of snow as early as October 1. Last year the first snow fell on October 28, and in only a small quantity.

A considerable amount of sickness exists in town. Mrs. James Patton has been dangerously ill for the past two weeks and does not show much sign of improvement. Ruth, the little daughter of Mr. John Thistlethwaite, has also been seriously ill for some time, and J. H. LeGard is at the point of death at Mr. Harry Wilson's at time of writing.

Reeve J. A. Boyd has purchased an interest in the business at North Battleford which he went up to secure. The new firm will be Sallows & Boyd, and will conduct a large furniture and undertaking business. We are very sorry to lose Mr. Boyd from this district. He was a valuable citizen. But we wish him the biggest kind of success.

James Ferris of Epping had the misfortune to lose four head of valuable cattle during the recent winter storm. The cattle were pasturing on a farm where there was an old shed used only for storing implements. They took shelter under the old building when the storm began and the wind blew it over. Two valuable cows and two young cattle were killed. It took considerable work to clear away the debris to free the cattle that were not injured.

The weather bureau at Toronto must have an amateur on the job. Last Thursday he gave out that the day would be "fair and cool," when as a matter of fact it rained all day long, followed by the big snow storm, and this was general over all of eastern Ontario. With a big storm like this only a few hours away the weather bureau gravely informed us that the day would be "fair and cool!" This country pays a big price for information as to weather probabilities in the immediate future, but if the weather clerks can do no better than this a reorganization of the staff is about due. We have known rheumatics who could foretell the weather better than that.

A case that attracted much attention and some comment was tried before Magistrate McMullen here on Thursday last. Thomas Porteous works for Mr. Harmon Radley near the village, and W. Higgins, who works on the county roads, boards at the same place. Porteous claimed to have had a wad of $200 in bills and swore out a warrant charging Higgins with the theft. The latter was arrested and taken to Owen Sound on Tuesday and Police Magistrate Creasor remanded him to jail, where he remained until Thursday morning, when he was brought down by County Constable McCaffrey, and tried here. Porteous had no evidence to offer, in fact he could not swear whether the money was stolen or whether he had himself lost it. The accused was acquitted. Higgins bears an excellent reputation among those who know him, and many people think he was treated very harshly in the matter.

The report of alienists, who have had Arnel Love under observation, will be dealt with this week. It is reported that as a result of the finding of the alienists, Love will likely be freed in the near future. The young man is said to have epileptic tendencies, and no proceedings against him are considered probable.
