McLean Not Guilty

The trial of Deputy Reeve Hugh McLean, which has aroused a great deal of interest throughout Grey County, was brought to a close Friday afternoon at the General Sessions of the Peace, when the jury brought in a verdict of not guilty on three charges. The first was a charge of arson, the second one of defrauding the Farmer's Mutual Fire Insurance Co. of the insurance on the house, and the third that of defrauding the same Company of the insurance of the contents. The verdict was not guilty on all the charges. Mr. McLean has the reputation throughout the Township of Collingwood, of which he is the Deputy Reeve, of being an honest and straightforward young man, and after the evidence was all in there was little doubt in the minds of those who had listened to the whole case as to his innocence, and the verdict was no surprise to them.—Sun-Times.

PRICEVILLE

About twelve inches of snow fell during last week.

Karstedt Bros distributed a car of furnace coal in town a few days ago.

A new furnace has been installed in the basement of the Presbyterian Manse, which will no doubt make the house much more comfortable than it has been for some time.

Our Public School Board has stored a fair supply of coal in the furnace room of the school for use during the cold weather.

D McLachlan has treated himself to a gas engine that makes itself very useful in pumping water, cutting wood and other work around the house and barn.

L Frook has his stalls full again of fat cattle, some fine heavy steers being among them.

Lockie McTaggart has been busy fitting up breeding pens and dens in the fox ranch. We think the pups have improved considerably in size and appearance since coming to town

Miss Jennie James was quite ill during last week.

Mrs Kate McArthur is over on the North Line nursing Mrs H R McLean.

WALKERTON

Seeing the blood of one of his hens crimsoning the snow, and noticing the foot prints of a fox leading up to the gory sight, Steve Weingart, a Brant farmer, shouldered his gun and started out to trail the thief. Being an old hunter, Steve knew that Reynard would start to lunch off the bird after getting some distance away, and in this he was right, for the culprit was hugely enjoying a fowl menu when the farmer came up. Pointing his artillery in the direction of the feast, Steve fired, and with a howl that would have froze the soul of an Alaskan seal, the red skinned rascal turned up his toes.

A Chatsworth autoist, while coming down Shaw's Hill into town on Saturday morning, lost control of his bus. and plunged into the deep gully at the left of hill. Help was secured. and the stranded roadship was pulled up onto the road again. On starting down the hill again, the fliver swung to the opposite side and carreered down the big ravine into Mr. Gordon Bell's lot, taking away the fence and a number of small fruit trees that lay in its path. By the time the chariot stopped, the rider, who had experieneed all the bumps and thrills of the occasion, was the nearest thing to being "all in" that the medical fraternity has probably seen in this section for some time. His Ford was also in a dilapidated state, as with its bent axle and twisted steering gear, it was towed with all due solemnity to Reichen's garage —Bruce Herald and Times.

Poetical Invitation

On Thursday, December the twenty-third
Some pleasant weather will be preferred;
For the Vandeleur Methodist Sunday School folk
Are preparing a treat that wont be a joke.

Tea will be served in the usual way,
Which of course means that you'll have to pay,
But 25 cents is a sum very small
When you think of the supper, the concert and all.

The program we know will be very good,
For in it we squeezed all the good things we could.
So if you'd be happy, just come out to tea,
Bring all your friends and it's happy you'll be.

In Memoriam

Composed by Joseph Von Weber on the death of his parents in the year 1899, whose deaths occurred only two weeks apart.

Their voices are silent,
Their hearts are now cold,
Whose smiles and whose welcomes
Oft met us of old.

We miss and we mourn them
In silence unseen,
And dwell on the memory
Of joys that have been.

It was hard for us all
To see them both go,
but it was God's will
That it now should be so.

And now when they're free
From both pain and from fear
We still read the old chapters
They both loved so dear.

Oh may their dear memories
Keep us from wrong.
We are thankful to God
That He left us so long.

It is twenty long years
Since they did depart,
But there's still a green spot
For them both in my heart.
