The Young Folks.

AFTER RAIN.

WHERE SHE DIED.

While attending a patient in my earlier profession of life a woman who was in the first stages of intermittent fever—I found one day on making my usual call, a small congregation of women assembled in the sick room. As I entered I heard the remark: "My cousin Samantha's husband was took just this a way and lasted only nine days."

"Yes," said a slow spoken, florid-faced, dreamy woman, "my daughter's husband's sister had the same sickness she's got, and we had a funeral in a week—just a week to a day from the time she was spoken. I went to the funeral and counted forty teams in the procession."

"What be yer givin' her, doctor," asked a third, "I tried on it and it appears like rhubarb and guaiacum to me, and er sez why I swoun do her a bit of good."

"Doctor, did ye ever try pennyroyal tea?" asked another. "My Aunt Hanner's father-in-law, who doctored round here mighty nigh thirty-seven year, used ter say as how it did heart mighty how much good of a poultice did inside of carrots and 'taters, and he always had one put on. Shan't we try one, doctor?"

"Elderberry juice an' sassafras an' Scotch snuff was what cured me when I was down with the ague," volunteered another.

"I sent to her mother last night, that there wasn't no hope and she'd better come at once and take care of the young ones," said a small, vinegar faced, lean woman, who was sitting in a remote corner.

My patient did not recover. How could she? Poor thing! Neighborly kindness killed her. She had not the strength of Samson, neither had she tough fibre of a thanksgiving turkey.—Arkansaw Traveler.

TWO HOMES.

A long topic since the busy clerks have left the offices that the full tale of care shoots from morning till night; but still the weary clerk keeper works on, adding column after column of figures, until, finally, all is clear. With fevered brain, nervous irritable, possibly disheartened, he starts for the home that holds what most he cares for—his wife and little ones.

Instead of a kiss and a word of cheer, his wife glances up quickly and says, "I do wish, John, you would come home earlier. The children were so noisy that I gave them their supper and sent them to bed. I am sure if you knew how tired I am, and how cross the baby has been, you would pity me, and at least not keep my supper waiting."

The husband forgets how tired he is, a little for sees of his children, but with comforting word seeks to make her forget her cares. Not once during the evening is reference made to his weary feelings.

Let us look into the home across the way. It is not a richer home, no better children, and yet how different. As the tired man looks his office door he locks all care and fatigue in. With a light heart his thoughts are his forerunner, and in fancy he sees the welcoming smile of wife and babies. As he enters the home, what a scramble! But with "mother first" he kisses them all.

As the husband satisfies the wife asks rather anxiously, "Did you have to work hard, John?" but with "a little extra, dear," he quiets all fears.

Then when the babies are in bed what a pleasant evening is spent in quiet, loving companionship. This is the "very gate of Heaven." Elizabeth Bonner.

MY DARLING.

These words in bright letters stood out in bold relief on the dashboard of a huge four-horse truck in a Broadway blockade. The driver looked as unsentimental as possible, but he was not profane or brutal toward his horses. Patiently he waited the loosening of the jam, while his neighbors filled the air with curses. Finally, the horses becoming restive, he climbed down from his box and patted them with gentle words and caresses. Then a bystander asked why he called his truck "My Darling."

"Why," he said, "because it keeps the memory of my daughter, little Nellie. She's dead now. But before she died she clasped her hands around my neck and said:

"Papa, I am going to die, and I want you to promise me one thing, because it will make me so happy. Will you promise?"

"Yes," I said, "I'll promise anything. What is it?"

"Then, fixing her eyes on mine, she said, "Oh, papa, don't be angry, but promise me you'll never swear any more, nor whip your horses hard, and be kind to mamma."

"That's all there is about it, mister, but I promised my little girl and I've kept my word."

When the bigoods was lifted, the big proprietor resumed his seat, and soon was lost in the tide of travel. New York Herald.

A SILENCER.

Wishart, the young student from Edinburgh, visited during last summer vacation at a farm house in the West of Scotland. Being a social creature, he soon got on intimate terms with the farm servants, and one day Thomas Campbell, a favorite, made the butt of his jokes. Later in the day at dinner time he encountered poor Campbell in the kitchen. Campbell was sitting at the floor with his back towards him and a plaster on his head revealed to our collegiate the fact that it was almost barren of hair.

"Why, Campbell," exclaimed B——, "your head is as bald as a peeled turnip."

"Then a' that, ye young lickie," retorted Campbell, sagely, "but if my head was as cold as yours I wad raise hair for sale."

NO CANTEEN THERE.

The Soldiers Home in Washington, with one man inside its walls, has hardly an inmate in the guard house once a month. There is no canteen permitted within a mile of the ground, and earnest temperance efforts are made to help the men keep to a high standard of daily living.

GHOST IN THE MAINTOP.

The scene of ghostly experience has been shifted to the seas. An English newspaper says the mate of the ship, name not given, ordered some youth to reef the maintopsail. When the first got up he heard a strange voice saying, "It blows hard!" The lad waited for no more, he was down in a trice and told his adventure. A second immediately ascended, laughing at the folly of his companion, but returned even more quickly, declaring that he was quite sure that a voice, not of this world, had cried in his ear, "It blows hard!" Another went, and another, but each came back with the same tale.

At length the mate, having sent up the whole watch, ran up the shrouds himself, and when he reached the haunted spot heard the dreadful words distinctly uttered in his ear.

"It blows hard!"

"Ay, ay, old one, but blow it ever so hard, we must see the earrings for all that," replied the mate undauntedly; and looking around he saw a fine parrot perched on the cliffs—the thoughtless author of the false alarms—which had probably escaped from some other vessel to take refuge on this.—New York Mail and Express.

FROST-BITTEN.

At a party a few evenings since, as a young gentleman named Frost was eating an apple in a quiet corner by himself, a young lady came up and asked him "Why he did not share with her?"

He, good-naturedly, turned the side which was not bitten towards her. "Here, take it, if you wish."

"No, I thank you," she exclaimed, looking at him archly. "I would rather have one that is not frost bitten." Then she glided away to join the company, leaving poor Frost with a thaw in his heart.

In Crowds.

Mr. H. I. McIntosh, Secretary and Treasurer Universal Knitting Machine Co., Toronto, Ont., says: "We have pleasure in saying a good word for St. Jacobs Oil. Our employes use it extensively, and report it as an invaluable cure for pains, bruises, etc. Cases have been reported to us where it has worked like a charm."

There's nothing like it.

Owing to the unprecedented demand for plate glass it has advanced considerably in price. Messrs. McCausland & Son, Toronto, fortunately made a contract before the advance for a very considerable quantity, and are thus enabled to offer their patrons this season a very decided advantage in price, the quality being superior to any ever previously imported.

A Fair Question.—Stranger: What are your rates? Hotel clerk: Seven dollars a day, sir. Stranger: If I come, I shall want a room on the parlor floor. Clerk: That will be a dollar extra. Stranger: I shall also want a fire in my room. Clerk: One dollar more. Stranger: And a bath. Clerk: A dollar additional, sir. Stranger (thoughtfully): How much will you charge to let me leave the hotel just as I am.

What's The Reason.

The causes of summer complaint, diarrhœa, dysentery, cholera morbus, etc., are the excessive heat, eating green fruit, over exertion, impure water and sudden chill. Dr. Fowler's Wild Strawberry is an infallible and prompt cure for all bowel complaints from whatever cause.

A stern father in Keya Paha county, Nebraska, with a large family of girls, has passed the cold edict that each beau who frequents his domicile through the winter must contribute a load of sawed stove wood.

Why suffer from disorders caused by impure blood when thousands are being cured by using Northrop & Lymans Vegetable Discovery? It removes Pimples and all Eruptions of the skin. Mr. John C. Fox, Olinda, writes: "Northrop & Lymans Vegetable Discovery is giving good satisfaction. Those who have used it say it has done them more good than anything they have ever taken."

"My dear," said a gentleman to his wife, "have you examined your sealskin sacque and other furs to see if they have escaped the moths this season?" "Yes, my love she replied." I have taken a few furtive glances at them.

Why It Is Popular.

Because it has proven its absolute merit over and over again, because it has an unequalled record of cures, because its business is conducted in a thoroughly honest manner, and because it combines economy and strength, being the only medicine of which "100 Doses One Dollar" is true—these strong points have made Hood's Sarsaparilla the most successful medicine of the day.

The Burlington Hawkeye says: "What this country needs is a class of reformers who don't have to stop every fifteen minutes to explain a little distressing crookedness in their own records. This is what impedes the progress of our mighty reforms so."

Mrs. H. Hall, Navarino, N. Y., writes: For years I have been troubled with Liver complaint. The doctors said my liver was hardened and enlarged. I was troubled with dizziness, pain in my shoulder, constipation, and gradually losing flesh all the time. I was under the care of three physicians, but did not get any relief. A friend sent me a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and the benefit I have received from it is far beyond my expectation. I feel better now than I have done for years."

The other day a young man ate one hundred and fifty clams on a wager and died. The reporter who "wrote up" the item claimed great credit for not saying that if the young man had eaten the clams on a plate instead of on a wager, he might not have become a clammy corpse."

Health, Happiness and Prosperity.

All these depend on pure blood, for without health it is impossible, without health happiness is impossible, and without happiness prosperity is a mockery. No means of obtaining pure blood and removing bad blood excels the use of B.B.B., the best blood purifier known.

When a college student is rendering his father an account of his expenses, put down, "To charity, thirty dollars;" the old gentleman wrote back that he "feared charity covered a multitude of sins," and was so pleased with his own wit that he sent the boy a double allowance.

Malarial Fever and Chills are best broken up and prevented by using Milburn's Aromatic Quinine Wine.

When an Arab has stolen everything else in sight that is portable, he silently folds his tent and quietly steals away.

"Hunger is the Best Sauce."

As a rule, a person who has a good appetite has good health. But how many there are who enjoy nothing they eat, and sit down to meals only as an unpleasant duty. Nature's antidotes for this condition are so happily combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla that it soon restores good digestion, creates an appetite, and renovates and vitalizes the blood so that the beneficial effect of good food is imparted to the whole body. Truly hunger is the best sauce, and Hood's Sarsaparilla induces hunger.

Reporter to a physician: "Much sickness about the city, Doctor?" Physician (smilingly): "Well, you can't say that business is improving."

The Third page of the Toronto Daily Mail is noted for "Want" advertisements. If you want to buy or sell anything, if you want a situation, a mechanic, a business, machinery, lodgings, if you have lost or found anything, or if you want to find out where anyone is, advertise in the Toronto Daily Mail and read the advertisements on the Third page of that paper. The charge is Two Cents a word each insertion. Address The Mail, Toronto, Canada.

The Grand Trunk System.

The Grand Trunk system differs from the human system in that the same troubles do not affect it and the same remedies are not needed. For all diseases of the human system there is no tonic purifier, renovator and strengthener as good as Burdock Blood Bitters. A weak system can be built up by B.B.B.

Holloway's Corn Cure destroys all kinds of corns and warts, root and branch. Who then would endure them with such a cheap and effectual remedy within reach?

Customer (reading a newspaper): Here I see I am referred to in the paper again.

Landlord: Indeed! What do they say about you?

Customer (reading aloud): At the close of last week Berlin numbered 1,373,421 inhabitants. I am one of the lot.

Corn Sowing

is a process conducted by the agency of tight boots all the year round. Corn reaping is best conducted through the agency of Putman's Painless Corn Extractor the only safe and sure pop corn cure. Putnam's Extractor is now widely imitated. Beware of all poisonous and sore producing substitutes, they are dangerous to use and are sold simply because they afford the dealer larger profit.

A neglected cough brings on consumption the most fatal and prevalent of all physical ills that flesh is heir to. To check the malady in its early stage, before the deadly tubercles develop themselves in the lungs use Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which also annihilates bronchitis, asthma, catarrh, croup, kidney troubles, and soreness of the muscles and joints.

UNCLE JOE'S PHILOSOPHY.

Don't jump in the procession when
De devil comes along,
Nor don't you hide yo' dirt an' sin
Behind yo' neighbor's wrong.

De devil's allus quick to bet,
Ef you will play his game
He'll fill yo' hand full of the trumps
An' beat you all de same.

You needn't coax the devil much
He'll come widout de call,
An' less you drives him from yo' heart,
He's sho' to git yo' soul.

When Christyuns nibble at his hook
De devil has to smile
He knows dat when dey gits de taste
He gits 'em after while.

Nothing so suddenly obstructs the perspiration as sudden transitions from heat to cold. Heat rarifies the blood, quickens the circulation and increases the perspiration, but when these are suddenly checked the consequences must be bad. The most common cause of disease is obstructed perspiration, or what commonly goes by the name of catching cold. Coughs, colds, sore throat, etc., if attended to in time are easily subdued, but if allowed to run their own course, generally prove the forerunner of more dangerous diseases. Nine-tenths of the consumptives date their affliction from a neglected cold, and the diseases that are caused by wet feet, damp clothes, or exposure are more numerous than are generally supposed. One of the most efficacious medicines for all diseases of the throat and lungs is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, which frees the lungs from viscid phlegm by changing the secretions from a diseased to a healthy state.

Imperial Federation.

Will present an opportunity to extend the fame of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry the unfailing remedy for cholera, cholera morbus, colic, cramps, diarrhœa, dysentery, and all summer complaints to every part of the Empire. Wild Strawberry never fails.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all throat and Lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to all his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe in German, French or English with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper. W. A. Noyes, 820 Powers' Block, Rochester, N. Y.

"Would that a hand-organ were like a mill," quoth the dejected Dobbs. "Why so?" inquired the inquisitive Quigg. "Because," answered Dobbs, "the mill will never grind with the water that is past, but the hand-organ grinds right along with the airs that are past a couple of hundred years."

A poultry raiser, reading that a codfish, on an average, produces 3,786,760 eggs exclaimed, "There'd be millons in it, if the codfish could only be crossed with the hen!"

A Nationalist Plan.

A proposal, which would obtain favor with even the opponents of Nationalism, contemplates the placing of a supply sufficient for each family of nature's great dyspepsia specific and blood purifier, B.B.B., in every home in the land. The benefits of such a boon to the people would be incalculable.
