A local fisherman is wondering what he had on his hook the other day, and it is keeping him awake nights dreaming about whales and porpoises with red spots on them. It will never be settled definitely and we would advise him to cease thinking about it before he catches neuraesthenia or some other bad nerve disease. The facts are these: To begin with, he was fishing in the hydro pond, when he felt two heavy tugs at his line. He tried to snag Mr. Fish but found his line come away freely. Leaving it in the water for a few moments he decided to examine his bait. Drawing it up, he found the hook caught in the tail of a five inch catfish which was dead and half digested. The question which gives him nightmare is, what size was the fish that had the catfish coralled and whose breakfast was so ruthlessly pulled away by the tail from his interior. It would be interesting to know.

Guilty Without Intent

Mr. D. Weber of Kimberley, who was doing cement work last summer on the county roads, was up at the June Sessions in Owen Sound last week charged with manipulating pay sheets and obtaining money under false pretences. The sum involved was $202 50, The evidence went to prove that Mr. Weber retained certain names on the pay list and collected pay in their names which he handad over to their successors. The jury brought in a verdict of "guilty of obtaining money under false pretences without intent to defraud." The O. S. Advertiser calls this "one of the oddest verdicts rendered in a good many years, perhaps in all the history of Courts in Owen Sound."

We understand that the verdict has been appealed.
