A BASEBALL GAME

A small boy's compositon of a baseball game, as handed into the teacher of a public school:—

"One Satuday night Gordon and I were at a baseball game between Proton and Dundalk, but Proton had been practising for the game, so they started to play and Dundalk thought that they could beat them and Proton got ahead of them at the score of 6--1 and then Dundalk got mad and they wouldn't play.

They said it was too dark to play and then they all cheered them and they said they would play them another night and they all cheered again and they were mad and went home and they have never played it yet and I guess they are a scared to.

Is Acquitted of Poisoning

(Mail and Empire)

Orangeville, Ont., Nov. 16— Mrs. Mabel Lee, of Rosemont, charged with murdering her husband, Robert Lee, by administering strychnine, was to-night acquitted by a jury at the Dufferin Fall Assizes. The jury retired at 9:30 and at 11:30 p.m., two hours later, returned their verdict. The verdict was heard in silence by a densely crowded court room. The silence was broken by a half-hysterical exclamation from the accused, who grasped her counsel's arm and exclaimed excitedly, "Charlie, Charlie, God bless you." Mr. Justice Latchford's comment on the finding was brief: "Gentlemen," said His Lordship, addressing the jurors, "it was difficult, in the absence of the medicine bottle, to arrive at any other verdict."

Mr. McKeown asked for the discharge of the prisoner, and Mrs. Lee left the court room at once, being escorted outside by her counsel and the friends, who hastened to congratulate her upon her acquittal.

The line of examination followed by Mr. C. R. McKeon, counsel for the prisoner, was for the purpose of showing that the prisoner's husband committed suicide. Nearly every defence witness was examined respecting statements that Lee had made in conversation. The tenor of these statements was to the effect that the unfortunate man was tired of life and in the mood to end it.

A DENIAL

I, the owner of the sawmill at Ceylon, understand there has been a report going around that the barn owned by Mr Wilfred Fawcett caught fire from the sawmill. I want it understood that there was no fire in the mill for three days and three nights before the fire, nor for two days and nights after. The mill has been running all summer and has not set any fire around my mill. The distance is about 20 rods from the mill to the barn. As I am insured in the same company, this is my object in not allowing a false report to spread. Signed—

Edward Sargent,

FALL DRIVING

With the approach of the cool days of winter you should look carefully over your car and see that everything it ship-shape. Examine your tires, your cooling system and your clutch and brakes. You do not want to have road trouble at this time of the year.

Watch Your Battery. If it is not kept well charged, it is liable to freeze when old Jack Frost comes for a visit. It would be well to test it once a week and add distilled water. When you lay your car up for winter, remove your Battery and let us store it for you. If it is in good shape, we keep it so; if it is not, we make it so.

Drain Your Radiator each night. It sometimes happens that a sudden cold snap finds us unprepared and such unpreparedness will cost money.

A SUGGESTION: Allow us to go over your car for you, find out any little troubles and fix them now. Maybe there are some bigger troubles developing now which may lay you up later if not attended to. We can advise you as to these and take your car in later when it will not inconvenience you
