Now if one of the fish had accompanied the picture—

Alliston and Hydro

Alliston Herald.

It is being noised about that Hydro affairs in the southern portion of Simcoe county are not in a very satisfactory condition. The report is current that Mr. L. H. Dunning, miller at Cookstown, is going to instal his own power as soon as his contract with Hydro expires. The proprietor of the Beeton mill has asked for some cooperation from Alliston to put up a fight against the prohibitive rates being charged by Hydro for power, but he has received no encouragement. Thornton's burden has become so heavy that there is no economy and very little satisfaction in using electricity at the price. Cookstown and Bradford are groaning and Beeton and Tottenham are paying an extortioner's price. Lately it has been stated in town that Hydro was not paying its way, so the Herald went to the Chairman of the utilities commission, Mr. Jos. Whiteside, and asked him if Hydro here was running behind. "Yes, Hydro is running behind," he said. Mr. Whiteside would not say much, and the Herald did not press him, knowing that, as well as having the towns it serves by the throat Hydro assumes an imperious attitude towards anyone who dares criticize it. Mr. Whiteside said there were 100 houses in town that were not using any current. He seemed to think they could be induced to take the juice. When it was suggested to him that if the extravagant wiring regulations were relaxed so that the people might wire within their means, the services might be extended, Mr. Whiteside would not commit himself. Some time ago an intimation was given in these columns that the South Simcoe towns were due for a raise in rates. With a privately owned plant 12c per kilowatt hour was the price. Hydro was going to greatly reduce that. At present the front street is paying 12c per kilowatt honr. Can it be that Hydro is going to charge more for current than we paid a private owner? Mr. Whiteside was asked. "We can't do anything; it's the hydro does it all," was what he answered in effect. And he was right, because the Hydro has us tied up body and soul and bleeds us at will to meet its annual salary bill of $2,027,039.75.

Mobbed At Hanover

When Provincial Constable Blood was in Hanover on Friday on his way to Owen Sound he stopped a motorist on the street for having his license plate covered with mud. This led to an argument and a crowd gathered. It then became noised about town that the constable was in town, and when he stepped out of a movie theatre some time later a gang of youths was waiting for him with a large supply of rotten eggs with which they started to make things interesting for the constable. They followed him to the C.P.R. station and there peppered him at long distance. The constable by drawing his gun was able to keep out of the hands of the mob who hung around until the train pulled out for Owen Sound. We understand that the last has not been heard of the incident. This is not the southern States, that officers of the law can be interfered with while on duty, and we understand that steps are being taken to bring the offenders to book—Walkerton Telescope.

Constable Did the Job

Artemesia Man Refused to Pay Taxes But Later Coughed Up

A certain citizen of Artemesia Township refused to pay his taxes, and as a consequence County Constable Cook was called upon to go and collect them or seize collateral sufficient to justify the claim. Taking a witness along he went out and interviewed the delinquent, with the result that he was met with a point blank refusal to pay any more taxes. Upon an invitation to go to the stable and show his horses the gentleman seized a stick and stood in the door of the stable, threatening to spread on the ground the brains of any man who tried to enter. In fact he raised the stick preparatory to disecting the constable. The latter pulled his gun, when Mr. Fighting Man apparently thought better of it and dropped his stick. In a twinkling the stick was kicked from his hand and a pair of handcuffs graced his wrists. He called for help but there was no response. And he wept louder than ever Rachael wept for her children, but his spirit was broken and he invited the constable to the house where considerable specie was unearthed and a cheque given for the balance. Thus was the majesty of the law vindicated and the coffers of the Township enriched to the extent of eighty-five good simoleons.

During the electrical storm last Friday, the residence of Mr. John Carson, a well known resident of Mountain Lake, was struck by lightning and burned to the ground. Mr. Carson had been in town with his son during the afternoon and arrived home to find the house had practically disappeared together with all the contents. Besides the furniture there was $80 in gold and many articles of jewelry in the house. Some insurance was carried but the property was not covered to anything like its value. —Meaford Mirror.

The Advance Is A Good Guesser

The Advance is pleased to print the following letter, acknowledging the correctness of our announcement regarding the publication of a daily paper by the Owen Sound Sun-Times, which for some time has been a tri-weekly. We will be pleased to welcome the new daily when it comes, and to bespeak for it a hearty reception throughout the county.

Mr. W. H. Thurston, publisher The Advanse, Flesherton, Ont:

Dear Mr. Thurston,—We have just noticed your item regarding the possibility of the Sun-Times being published every day. We do not know where you get your information, but it seems to be quite reliable, as the Sun-Times will be turned into a daily very soon, probably the first of May or the first of June. We have been holding off making announcement until we could announce a definite date. Please accept thanks for your very kind reference to the Sun-Times and the service we are giving here.

Yours very truly, —Howard Ffeming

Will Receive Medals

We notice by the Swift Current Herald that Emerson McKee, a grandson of Mrs. Wm. McKee of town and nephew of Mr. John McKee of the 4th line, Artemesia, was recently presented with a life saving medal from the Dominion Humane Society. The event which won this medal was the saving of the life of Rowe Seymour of Neville, Sask., at Lac Pelletier last summer. The act was one of peculiar bravery, an account of which appeared in The Advance at the time. Young McKee was a Boy Scout and 16 years of age, while the lad he saved was only 8 years of age. Young McKee got the little fellow on his back and swam with him to a gasoline launch which had stalled when on its way to rescue the party struggling in the water. There is also a Boy Scout medal coming to Emerson for his deed of valor.
