THE OLD BENCH

[illegible] night's lone hours I listen,
[illegible] throbbing heart once more,
[illegible] song, a sister sang me
[illegible] happy days of yore;
[illegible] and care and sorrow
[illegible] better to be alone,
[illegible] all the cares of life then less—
[illegible] again the smile of morn.

[illegible] songs, though rude and simple,
[illegible] to sight the gentle forms
[illegible] whom, on life's swift river,
[illegible] life's winds and storms;
[illegible] they take their vacant places—
[illegible] vacant they have been—
[illegible] round my cosy fireside, and
[illegible] near my sister Jean.

[illegible] when night's long shadows
[illegible] down the distant hills,
[illegible] the pale stars, heaven's daisies,
[illegible] in the morning rills,
[illegible] tremulous lyre the touches
[illegible] sings these simple lays
[illegible] bring to my remembrance
[illegible] happy, dreamy days.

A LINE ON HER AGE

[illegible] gasped the beautiful woman she fell back, clutching at her heart, [illegible] twitting the telegram to flutter to the floor.

Her fashionable guests rushed forward, crying:

"What is it? Has your husband met with an accident?"

"No, no," she moaned. "It is from my son-in-law. I am a grandmother!"

STRANGE FOG SIGNAL.

When fogs prevail in Boston harbor, the attention of passengers on the Nantucket Beach line of steamers is attracted by a faint metallic sound which might be mistaken for the sound of a bell. But it is not the clanging of a bell which the passengers hear. Suddenly through the mist there appears ahead, like a specter, a huge tripod, from the apex of which is suspended a big steel triangle. It is this which causes the strange sound and Signal's vessels as to how to guide their course through the difficult channel of the fog.

COAL DUST VALUABLE.

Great are the uses of coal dust in Belgium. A system for compressing coal dust into briquettes and oval blocks is successfully dealing with the large masses of coal dust of Belgium's mines and sheds. The briquette industry of Liege has become important, the exportation reaching almost all the coal consuming countries of the world, amounting for the first seven months of the past year to 230,011 tons. The Belgium state railways alone consumed about 250,000 tons in one year. The domestic use of briquettes is increasing yearly. Many persons use them for kitchen stoves as well as for furnaces.

WHAT HE WANTED.

"How will you have your hair cut, sir?" said the talkative barber to the victim in the chair.

"Minus conversational prolixity," replied the patient.

"How's that, sir?"

"With abbreviated or totally eliminated narrations."

"What?"

"Without effervescent verbosity. Let even diminutive colloquy be conspicuous by its absence."

The barber scratched his head thoughtfully a second and then went over to the proprietor of the shop and whispered, "I don't know whether that man in my chair is mad or a foreigner, but I can't find out what he wants."

The victim had to explain that he wanted the job done in silence.

It Will prolong life.—De Soto, the Spaniard, lost his life in the wilds of Florida, whither he went for the purpose of discovering the legendary "Fountain of perpetual youth," said to exist in that then unknown country. While Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil will not perpetuate youth, it will remove the bodily pains which make the young old before their time and harass the aged into untimely graves.

The greatest good is that which leads us to know the greatness of true goodness.

Always Keeps Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in His House.

"We would not be without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is kept on hand continually in our home," says W. W. Kearney, editor of the Independent, Kearney City, Mo. That is just what every family should do. When kept at hand ready for instant use, a cold may be checked at the outset and cured in much less time than after it has become settled in the system. This remedy is also without a peer for croup in children, and will prevent the attack when given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears, which can only be done when the remedy is kept at hand. For sale by all druggists.

BATHING A BABY.

Many fathers stand aloof from the common domestic duties, not because they are so busy or because they are not willing, but because of ignorance.

How many men are there who would not gladly drop their business at any time and stay at home and give the baby his bath, if they only knew how!

Yet in reality it is much simpler than it seems. Fill the bathtub full of any good water, first carefully removing all germs. Put your elbow in occasionally to see if it is the right temperature. If ice forms on your elbow you may know the water is two cold. If there are blisters then it is too warm. Be moderate in all things.

Take the baby firmly by both feet and shake him loose from his flannel moorings, until you begin to see safety pins ahead. Then remove the safety pins with gas nippers, and unroll until the baby looms in sight.

Now, having put on your rubber coat, put one hand firmly under the baby's chest and the other on his back, and launch him on the still waters. When he has kicked all the water out of the bathtub, renew as before.

Be careful, while you are manipulating the baby, to keep him face down. Otherwise, you would not be able to put water anywhere else but in his mouth.—Tom Masson, in the March Delineator.

In a leading editorial on the liquor license investigation in Toronto the Globe on Monday said: "The licensing system, instead of curing the evils of the liquor traffic, only creates a powerful monopoly, which in turn promotes the liquor habit on the one hand and is an agent of political corruption on the other. But this constant breakdown of the license system, its tendency to political corruption and private graft, and its failure to meet the requirements of social reform, raises serious questions. Is license, after all, a reasonable system? Where total prohibition is not practicable is it reasonable that a few licenses which create a monopoly, especially when those licenses are attached to the entirely distinct business of keeping hotel, will either weaken the liquor traffic as a force in politics or regenerate it as a feature in social life? Is it not time that liquor-selling be separated from hotelkeeping as it was seperated from storekeeping years ago?"

Nervous Women

Their Sufferings Are Usually Due to Female Disorders Perhaps Unsuspected.

A MEDICINE THAT CURES

Miss I. Stowell

Can we dispute the well-known fact that Canadian women are nervous?

How often do we hear the expression, "I am so nervous, it seems as if I should fly;" or, "Don't speak to me." Little things annoy you and make you irritable; you can't sleep, you are unable to quietly and calmly go from your daily tasks or care for your children.

The relation of the nerves and generative organs in women is so close that nine-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous debility, the blues, sleeplessness and nervous irritability arise from some derangement of the organism which makes her a woman. Fits of depression or restlessness and irritability. Spirits easily affected, so that one minute she laughs, the next minute weeps. Pain in the abdominal region and between the shoulders; loss of voice; nervous dyspepsia; a tendency to cry at the least provocation—all this points to nervous prostration.

Nothing will relieve this distressing condition and prevent months of prostration and suffering so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Miss Lelah Stowell, of 177 Wellington St., Kingston, Ont., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Your Medicine is indeed a Godsend to suffering women, and I only wish that they all knew what it can do for them and there would be no need of their dragging out miserable lives in agony. I suffered for years with bearing-down pains, extreme nervousness and excruciating headaches, but a few bottles of your vegetable Compound made life look new and promising to me. I am light and happy and I do not know what sickness is, and I have enjoyed the best of health now for over four years. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has sent sunshine into thousands of homes and hearts."

Will not the volumes of letters from women made strong by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound convince all women of its virtues? Surely you cannot wish to remain sick and weak and discouraged, exhausted each day, when you can be as easily cured as other women.

He who refuses to remedy a wrong is guilty of a second wrong.—Mencius.

LOW MINDED BLACKGUARDS.

When you hear a man impugning the honor of all the rest of his fellows, shift your pocketbook to a safe place. When you find a man claiming that chastity is a name only, and that virtue is an unknown quantity in women, give the leprous creature a wide berth. "Honi soit qui mal y pense;" "as a man thinketh in his heart so is he," is the scripture translation of this old French proverb. It is the scoundrel always who desires to see everything brought to his own dead level, that cynically sneers at good and sniffs at purity. It is the polluted rotten heart that scents carrion in every other life. The pure hearted and true find everywhere wholesomeness and truth; the honorable and just find plenty of probity and righteousness even in this world. My friend, condemn not thine own self by the estimate thou puttest upon the worth of thy fellows.—Baker and Confectioner.

The creed of a church must be a step to the divine and not a substitute for it.

The Demon, Dyspepsia. — In olden times it was a popular belief that demons moved invisibly through the air, seeking to enter into men and trouble them. At the present day the demon, dyspepsia, is at large in the same way, seeking habitation in those who by careless or unwise living invite him. And once he enters a man it is difficult to dislodge him. He that finds himself so possessed should know that a valiant friend to do battle for him with the unseen foe, is Parmelee's Vegetable Pills which are ever ready for the trial.

WEAK TIRED WOMEN

How many women there are that get no refreshment from sleep. They wake in the morning and feel tireder than when they went to bed.

They have a dizzy sensation in the head, the heart palpitates; they are irritable and nervous, weak and worn out, and the lightest household duties during the day seem to be a drag and a burden.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS are the very remedy that weak, nervous, tired out, sickly women need to restore them the blessings of good health.

They give sound, restful sleep, tone up the nerves, strengthen the heart, and make rich blood. Mrs. C. I got four boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and after taking them I was completely cured.

A Small Pill, but Powerful. — They that judge of the powers of a pill by its size, would consider Parmelee's Vegetable Pills to be lacking. It is a little wonder among pills. What it lacks in size it makes up in potency. The remedies which it carries are put up in these small doses, because they are so powerful that only small doses are required. The full strength of the extracts is secured in this form and do their work thoroughly.

LIVER COMPLAINT.

The liver is the largest gland in the body; its office is to take from the blood the properties which form bile. When the liver is torpid and inflamed it cannot furnish bile to the bowels, causing them to become bound and costive. The symptoms are a feeling of fulness or weight in the right side, and shooting pains in the same region, pains between the shoulders, yellowness of the skin and eyes, bowels irregular, coated tongue, bad taste in the morning, etc.

Burdock Blood Bitters

CURES Dyspepsia, Boils, Pimples, Headaches, Constipation, Loss of Appetite, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scrofula, and all troubles arising from the Stomach, Liver, Bowels or Blood.

Mrs. A. Lothangue, of Ballyduff, Ont., writes: "I believe I would have been in my grave long ago had it not been for Burdock Blood Bitters. I was run down to such an extent that I could scarcely move about the house. I was subject to severe headaches, backaches and dizziness; my appetite was gone and I was unable to do my housework. After using two bottles of B.B.B. I found my health fully restored. I warmly recommend it to all tired and worn out women.

IN PROCESS.

The man in the faded brown overcoat had been growing more and more care-worn for the last six months. The man who sat with him on the way to the city every morning and on the way home at night had noticed it. At last he learned the reason of the change.

The care-worn man dropped into his seat with such a heavy sigh one evening that it would have been impossible for his friend not to hear it.

"I guess you're glad you're going home, where you can get a good comfortable chair and have a quiet evening," he said cheerfully.

"Quiet evening!" echoed the care-worn man. "We don't have any quiet evenings nowadays."

"Don't you?" asked his friend, uncomfortably. "Why—er"—

"There's no domestic trouble," said the sufferer, dolefully. "There's nothing I'm ashamed to speak of. It's only that my wife's been reading a series of articles on 'How to Make Home Attractive,' and she's carrying out all the ideas—with me to help her.

"You needn't think of me sitting in an armchair before the fire, with my feet up; now I can tell you. You can picture me stringing dried peapods to make a beautiful hanging, or covering an old apple barrel with wool wadding ready for the pink muslin that's going to turn it into a charming mirror stand. If it isn't that, I shall be engaged in giving a hardwood finish to some of the floors with a preparation that I saw my wife mixing in a tin pail this morning.

"Our home may be attractive if we ever get it done and I'm alive to appreciate it, but I'll wager the woman that writes those articles lives in a hotel or boards in a hall bedroom," and the careworn man gave another heavy sigh as the brakeman called out, "Paradise Center," and he gathered up his bundles.

Afflicted With Rheumatism.

"I was and am yet afflicted with rheumatism," says Mr. J. C. Bayne, editor of the Herald, Addington, Indian Territory, "but thanks to Chamberlain's Pain Balm am able to attend to business. It is the best of liniments." If troubled with rheumatism give Pain Balm a trial and you are certain to be more than pleased with prompt relief which it affords. One application relieves the pain. "IT'S ONLY A COLD, A TRIFLING COUGH"

Thousands have said this when they caught cold. Thousands have neglected to cure the cold. Thousands have filled a Consumptives grave through neglect. Never neglect a cough or cold. It can have but one result. It leaves the throat or lungs, or both, affected.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

is the medicine you need. It strikes at the very foundation of all throat or lung complaints, relieving or curing Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, Sore Throat, and preventing Pneumonia and Consumption.

It has stood the test for many years, and is now more generally used than ever. It contains all the lung healing virtues of the pine tree combined with Wild Cherry Bark and other pectoral remedies. It stimulates the weakened bronchial organs, allays irritation and subdues inflammation, soothes and heals the irritated parts, loosens the phlegm and mucous, and aids nature to easily dislodge the morbid accumulations. Don't be humbugged into accepting an imitation of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, and price 25 cts.

Mr. Julian J. LeBlanc, Belle Cote, N.S., writes: "I was troubled with a bad cold and severe cough, which assumed such an attitude as to keep me confined to my house. I tried several remedies advertised but they were of no avail. As a last resort I tried Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and one bottle cured me completely."

It is better to put warm clothes on a few folks than to talk about celestial garments for many.

You determine the blessings you will receive by the size of the door at which your benefits go out.

There never was and never will be a universal panacea in one remedy for all ills to which flesh is heir. What would relieve one ill in turn would aggravate the others. We have, however, in Quinine Wine, when obtained in a sound, unadulterated state a remedy for many and grievous ills. By its gradual and judicious use the frailest systems are led into convalescence and strength by the influence which Quinine exerts on Nature's own restoratives. It relieves those to whom a chronic state of morbid despondency and lack of interest in life is a disease, and by tranquilizing the nervous diseases to sound and refreshing sleep—imparts vigor to the action of the blood, which being stimulated, courses through the veins, strengthening the healthy, animal functions of the system, thereby making activity a necessary result strengthening the frame and giving life to the digestive organs which naturally demand increased substance—result, improved appetite. Northrop & Lyman of Toronto have given to the public their superior Quinine. By the opinion of scientists, the wine approaches nearest perfection of any of the market. All druggists sell it.
