The village council has placed a silent policeman on the main corner. But it is too silent and too lenient. We notice numbers of motorists disregarding his presence altogether. So far as some motorists are concerned the investment need not have been made. Perhaps a lesson will have to be taught them, Village ordinances are not made to be flouted, although some people appear to think so.

Fall wheat in this country gives promise of an excellent crop, but Mr. Geo. Cornfield of Kimberley has a field that may be classed as something abnormal in growth. On the 23rd of May H. Down of Flesherton measured the grain in this field and found it to stand three feet four inches high. If it yields accordingly Mr. Cornfield will have a little gold mine in that field.

Last week we mentioned about buying a water tank to sprinkle the streets and keep down the clouds of dust that arise from each auto that passes. So far we have not heard a whisper whether any such thing is to be done or not, and if any relief is to be given this year now is the time to get at it. Come on Councilmen and do something about this.

Still Member of Commission

Hon. Dougal Carmichael's bill to make several minor amendments to the Power Commission Act, including a new arrangement proposed by the Hydro Commission, to govern the creation of rural power districts, was given second reading in the Legislature on Thursday last. Churches Have United

Meetings for the purpose of uniting the Methodist and Presbyterian Churches into one pastoral charge were held in Eugenia on Saturday, May 27th. Rev. F. L. Brown outlined the plan to the Methodist people and Rev. J. D. Byrnes to the Presbyterians. At the close of both meetings a vote was taken and the result was a unanimous approval of the plan. There will be a joint meeting of two congregations sometime before the end of June to arrange some of the minor details. There was a splendid spirit manifested at both meetings, and evidently it is regarded as a step in the right direction. Grey Regiment To Camp in Sarawak

Word was received last week by Lt.-Col. G. D. Fleming of Owen Sound that the annual military camp would be located at the Sarawak rifle range, about two miles from the centre of Owen Sound, commencing on June 20 and ending on June 28. This announcement will be received with satisfaction by all the officers and men of the regiment, and particularly those who attended the camp in 1908, when the 31st held their annual training on this fine camp ground.

The orders call for 260 officers and men, but the number will likely be exceeded. There will be the usual quota from Meaford, Owen Sound, Durham, Thornbury, Flesherton and Markdale, and with the camp in Grey county there should be no trouble in securing the full complement of men.

The site chosen is ideal, being located only half a mile from the bay shore, and on a nicely wooded and well drained lot of 60 acres. There is excellent spring water, a good athletic field and almost every convenience that one would wish for. The camp would be considerably cooler than the Niagara camp grounds and much more enjoyable.

The county council will be in session during the time that the camp is being held and will undoubtedly take an afternoon off to see the camp. The county council has always been generous to the men who formed the Grey militia unit, and the unit will endeavor to show its appreciation.—Sun Times.

An Act of Heroism

An act of heroism that cost him his life was performed by John Murchison of Arthur when attempting to remove an iron gauge from the path of an approaching C. P. R. train. He was hit by the locomotive and hurled down an embankment. When picked up by his fellow workmen life was extinct.

Murchison was one of the section gang working on the right of way six miles east of Arthur and was engaged putting in ties. The signal had been given the train, freight No. 90, in charge of Conductor Connell, to proceed through the part being worked, and it was fully under way when Murchison noticed that the iron gauge had not been removed from the track. He attempted to beat the train to the danger spot but was unable to dodge the engine before it was up to him.

The deceased was for many years a prosperous farmer of Arthur township before he moved to Arthur, and his tragic death is deeply deplored by the entire community. He is survived by his widow and two sons, Walter of Arthur township and Roderick of Arthur, and three daughters, Mrs. Gilder of Fergus, Mrs. Cook of Orangeville and Miss Isabelle, a recent graduate of Lord Dufferin hospital at Orangeville.

They Oil Their Streets

Grand Valley Main Streets received their annual oil dressing last week; and the result is being debated by some. This year's weather conditions were about the same, for no sooner had the oil sprinkling begun, than rain began to fall, and continued for a couple of days. The resulting mess of road dirt, oil and water thoroughly stirred up by traffic made a great muddle of the roads. However it looks as though this experience is to work out satisfactorily for a little sunshine and wind left the streets in fine shape. This year the council had a 400 gallon wooden tank made especially for this work, which proved quite satisfactory. To the ordinary ratepayer it may be of interest to know that approximately one half more oil was put on than last year, at a less cost, including material, labor, and tank. In connection with the road question, the benefits of oiling is only equalled by persistant use of the road drag. Wherever the drag is used you will find a smooth surface that makes for comfortable travelling, and longer life for the road for no water is held.—Grand Valley Star
