Struck Three Times

Does lightning strike the same place twice? The following from the Wiarton Canadian Echo would tend to show that it does:

During the worst electrical storm, accompanied by a heavy rainfall, which has occurred in this district for many years, the solid stone residence of W. J. Davidson, on the Oliphant Road, was struck by lightning three times Friday evening last.

One bolt entered a window on the second storey and started a fire in the curtains and in some clothes nearby. These were quickly thrown outside and a fire averted.

Another bolt struck the chimney and considerable damage was done to the ceiling and walls of one room, while a third bolt struck a screen door downstairs, split the casing, entered the kitchen and split some base boards.

Had the house been of frame construction it is doubtful if it would be standing today, and as it is the damage will be but one hundred dallars, which is covered by insurance.

The bride, who was given away by her father, entered the drawing room and looked pretty in a gown of crepe de chine with bugle trimming and veil and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and sweet peas. The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome necklace. After the ceremony the guests retired to the dining room, where a sumptuous dinner was served. The house was artistically decorated with roses, sweet peas and ferns. The bride and groom left for Toronto, Niagara and other points amid the good wishes of their many friends On their return they will reside on the groom's farm near Wareham.
