Fire which broke out Thursday evening last in the barn of George Francis, a half-mile from Mt. Forest while threshing operations were in progress, destroyed the entire season's crop, building and machinery. This was considered one of the best equipped barns in the province. The loss is estimated at seven thousand dollars over insurance carried.

Priceville Garden Party

A very successful garden party was held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of Priceville Methodist church on Friday evening, Aug. 31. The weather man favored the promoters with the most beautiful evening that could be desired—the air was balmy and the moon was bright. It coaxed the farmers, busy with the harvest, to put away Dobbin and get out Lizzie and take their wives—or sisters for a pleasure trip. They all agree that it was well worth while from every standpoint.

Supper was served on the parsonage lawn from 6 to 8 o'clock and then it was dark enough to go into the church for the purpose of listening to the numerous entertainers present. Rev. J. H. Oke of Flesherton made a most amiable and efficient chairman, interspersing his witty remarks through the program instead of making a lengthy address. It would take too long to give an account of the various numbers on the program. Let it suffice to say that there was not one selection that did not hold a high standard of excellence. The male quartet of the Durham Methodist church consisting of Messrs. McCrae, Smith, Stinson and Glass, accompanied by Mrs. Macdonald, organist of the Durham church, rendered four selections besides encores and a special number by request. Miss Smith, a dainty little maid of 12, also of Durham, is a child wonder in vocal music. She was heartily encored. Mrs Herman McLean of Priceville rendered two selections in the way that always delights her numerous friends. Miss Sarah Tucker of Ebenezer church gave two readings that were loudly applauded, especially the one that declared the Ladies Aid to be an indispensable department of any church. Robert Dingwall of Salem appointment, a budding Methodist minister, recited two stirring numbers that showed up his platform ability. Rev. C. Sinclair Jones pastor of Priceville Presbyterian church, arrived late from holding preparatory service at Swinton Park and gave a short address of greeting from his congregation. Rev. Albert Bushell, pastor of the Methodist church, spoke a few words of greeting to the crowded audience and made the announcements. We have left to the last the Flesherton Hawaiian orchestra consisting of Messrs. Bunt, Armstrong and two Large brothers. This orchestra is in a class by itself, because we do not know of a similar group in this part of the country. Consisting of violin, guitar, mandolin and ukulele, the most weird and wild music was rendered, calling up to one's mind the half-clad natives and medicine men in the far away Pacific islands. Every number was encored and by special request the orchestra led the admiring audience back to the moonlit lawn and played for half an hour after the program was over. Everybody present conceded the program to be one of the best they have heard, and the ladies of the Methodist church are congratulating themselves on the successful evening brought about by their effort.
