PAPER AND FIRES

Within the past week The Advance has been notified of an increase of one cent per pound for all classes of printing paper. No explanation for this raise has been given, but it is probably caused by the growing scarcity of timber suitable for making paper, government taxes etc.

The great fires which swept the north country recently have again contributed largely to this scarcity. And this notwithstanding the huge sums spent annually by the Department of Forests and Mines for fire protection. The Government calls off its fire rangers on Sept. 15, and had they been allowed to remain this abnormal year while there was any menace of danger, probably many of these fires might have been prevented and an incalculable property loss saved. The exceedingly hot and dry season was a menace to any brush country and the fire fighters should have remained at their posts

For a long time the Ontario Government has been trying to educate the people of the north in the proper handling of fire, but their admonitions appear in a great measure to have fallen on deaf ears. Think of a man setting out fire in a large town to burn up potato tops while a heavy gale of wind was blowing ! No person but a reckless fool would be guilty of such an act. Yet we are told that this was the cause of the Hailey bury fire which caused the destruction of hundreds of thousands of dollars of property and some deaths, with the accompanying terrible distress and sorrow.

Others of the many fires covering the district were started, probably by the railway and others by settlers, who did not realize the gravity of their act until too late. Between forty and fifty deaths resulted and four or five million dollars worth of property was destroyed, including a vast acreage of timber waiting to be converted into paper. The criminality of somebody started something going that is felt directly by every Canadian citizen and will probably continue to be felt in higher costs for all time to come.

Two workmen on the highway north of Durham got into an argument. One hit the other a smash in the face, doing considerable damage. The court costs and bill of repairs amounted to $30 50—a costly poke.
