THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1921

Brief Local Items

—Get ready for Acton Fall Fair.

—Autumnal tints are appearing early.

—Labor Day was observed as a real holiday.

—Another good rain now would be acceptable.

—Carelton Place tax rate has been fixed at 41 mills

—Now the tang of ol' September starts to coquette with the air.

—Labor Day, Monday, and Farmers' Day yesterday, were popular fair days.

—Attention to the roads in this section lately has considerably improved them.

—Monday's showers, the first in nearly three weeks, were much appreciated.

—Edwards & Co. have reduced the price of bread to 19c. at the store or 20c. delivered.

—"Motor unto others as you would have others motor unto you," is the autoist's golden rule.

—A number of vacant lots and rear premises still have noxious weeds growing luxuriantly.

—An unusually large quota of the people of Acton and vicinity have attended Toronto Fair.

—Now that the vacations are over let us get down to business and to study in real earnest.

—Quite a number of Acton people attended the Old Boys' and Girls' Re-Union at Kilbride on Monday.

—The cooler weather on Sunday was gratefully received after the previous ten days of humid atmosphere.

—Rev. I. M. Moyer preached a very edifying and appropriate Labor Day discourse last Sunday morning.

—The U. F. O. of Haldimand County are planning to have a Farmers' Run tent at every fall fair in the county.

—The next holiday will be observed on September 21st—Acton Fall Fair day. After that comes Thanksgiving.

Guelph Decorated Memorial in Cemetery

Ten thousand people took part Sunday afternoon in decoration services held at Guelph Union Cemetery, and the Roman Catholic burying ground, when the cenotaph erected in the former cemetery in memory of the local soldiers who died overseas, and the graves of those who have died since returning from the Great War, were decorated. The ceremony was conducted by the local military authorities and officials of the Horticultural Society. At the cemetery a special service was conducted by Rev. (Capt.) G. A. Little, Rev. (Capt. C. H. Buckland, M. P. P., and Rev. (Capt.) G. P. Scovil, Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Dominion Minister of Militia, was to have delivered an oration, but was unable to attend owing to pressing Cabinet business. His place was taken by C. L. Dunbar, K. C., who made an impressive address. The Horticultural Society had charge of the decoration of the graves, and the wreaths were laid on them by members of the G. W. V. A.

The Old Man asks to be excused from the contribution of his weekly reminiscences this week. He said that he and Mary desired to see Toronto's big exhibition once more, and spend a few days with friends, and in wandering around to see the city's latest improvements. He appeared to be very anxious to have a look at the lake shore improvements and the big board walk at Sunnyside, and try to figure out how so many Toronto folks could go in bathing there so as to contaminate the lake water and make swimming dangerous.

The Old Man says with his advancing years, and the twinges of rheumatics which come now, he could not possibly go to Toronto on a visit and write his usual column and a half of reverise the same week. He says his hand is getting stiff, and his recollections come more slowly now than when he commenced his weekly letters three years ago.

It may be that shorter letters will necessarily be forthcoming in the near future, and perhaps a week or so be skipped altogether occasionally. The Old Man is certainly deserving of credit for his regularity and volume of weekly contributions, for he has never missed a week since he commenced his old-time letters.—Editor.

The New Books Which are Being Placed on the Market This Fall

Rather an interesting story as to why Sir Hall Caine's pen has been silent for eight years comes with the publication of his new novel, "The Master of Man," this fall. During the war, and for a year or so subsequently, it appears, Sir Hall Caine had been somewhat strenuously engaged in preparing allied propaganda. While his work was effective, how much so some of the press despatches regarding this sort of thing revealed, his own hand was not in evidence in any personal way. He had a large share, so it is said, in the material distributed in Italy and later on in the matter utilized in the United States with a view to creating and holding a more sympathetic spirit toward Britain. The new novel is, in the opinion of some of the English critics, and as well in the author's own feeling, the greatest of his career.

Canada's scenic beauties as well as the wonders of her mountain and forest inheritance are certainly being brought to the fore these days in the new novels. The latest to cite these is Edison Marshall, who, two years ago a young Eastern newspaper man, made a striking success with his first book and has since confined his attention entirely to novel writing. The new novel, "The Sinwashee Trail," is laid in the forest wilds of British Columbia and frankly pays tribute to the beauties as well as to the other wonders of this section.

Contrary to the usual picture of successful novelists being given a great deal of attention by their publishers and revelling in publicity are stories told of Knut Hamsun, the Swedish genius, whose "Hunger," and "Growth of the Soil," have been almost universally proclaimed. Recently Mr. Alfred Knopf, who publishes the Hamsun books in the United States, made a special trip to northern Europe to get acquainted with his new author. Negotiations for a meeting were altogether unavailing and the facts as to Hamsun's habits as a recluse were then made known. It appears that he will not under any consideration see a newspaperman and that negotiations with even his Scandanavian publishers are carried on largely by mail. Hamsun's books, including new editions of "Pan," and "The Dreamers," are being issued in Canada this fall by the Ryerson Press, who now publish the Knopf "Borzoi" books in Canada.

Reflections of the war continue to come out in unique ways. Here is an entirely new one. Readers of Mary Borden's "The Tortoise," have wondered where the vividness of the descriptions of hospital life in the book came from. When one learns that the author is really Mrs. Spears, wife of General Spears, who occupied a prominent part in the French campaign, glimmers of appreciation begin to come. But going further one finds that Mrs. Spears was not at all satisfied to bask in borrowed honor and, being fairly well to do, she outfitted herself an emergency field hospital in France and furthermore ran this herself for the better part of two years. It is said that dozens of our Canadian boys were looked after in this hospital and that the hands of the clever lady with strong literary genius has rested often on the head of some pain-wracked lad. No wonder the hospital descriptions are vivid.

500,000 copies of Harold Bell Wright's "Helen of the Old House," is announced as the first edition for America. This constitutes a record which in all probability will be carried out also by the actual sales. Notwithstanding the fact that this author is frequently criticised by the authorities for his lack of literary style he does seem to have the faculty of getting under the skin of the book-buyer for his previous novels have had the largest sale within specified periods of any volumes published. The new novel is strongly democratic in tone, and while most strongly human, outlines with what one supposes is a bit of propaganda, the modern relations between capital and labor.

Some years ago Miss Ethel Greening was exceedingly well known as a society leader in Toronto. Then, during an around-the-world tour came a bit of spirited romance, with a marriage to a Roumanian gentleman. Ten years' residence with her husband in that little-known but most romantic country has given an unusual background for letterpress description and this has been taken full advantage of in a new book "Roumania in Light and Shadow," which has just been placed on the Canadian market by the Ryerson Press. The book may be considered to be a standard work so far as its treatment of Roumanian life and manners are concerned. The second part of the volume deals in an intensely interesting way with revolutionary days in Russia and cites particularly the career of a remarkable Canadian, Colonel Boyle of the Klondike.

A girl pirate, foundation for romance surely, is one of the outstanding characters of Jeffrey Farnol's new novel, "Martin Conisby's Vengeance." This is the long-expected sequel to "Black Bartlemy's Treasure," and, like the earlier book, is a romance of the high seas in the roaring, bounding Elizabethan days.

HE WAS FROM MISSOURI

The children will doubtless be grieved to learn that the "wild man of Borneo," who has been in the circus business so many years, is dead. He was recently buried in Missouri, near the old farm on which he was born.—Odessa Democrat.

Fancy Dress Carnival

Innovation at the Oakville Fair

The Oakville Fair, already admitted to be one of the best rural fairs in Ontario, this year promises to surpass all previous efforts. The people of the town and surrounding districts have entered right into the work and are planning to make the three days of the fair, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, September 15th, 16th and 17th, three days of rejoicing and celebration.

In addition to the splendid horse show, prize competitions and exhibits which this year will be better than ever special attractions have been arranged for each day. Thursday evening the first day of the fair, an immense fancy dress carnival will be staged in which everyone is invited to take part. The prizes will be presented for the best group of six to twelve persons in costumes, either comic or character, also individual prizes for the best costume and most humorous costume for both ladies and gentlemen. In the large dance hall which is being provided this year, dancing competitions will also take place. The 48th Highlanders band and one of Toronto's leading orchestras will be in attendance. Thursday will certainly be a night long remembered. Friday, which has been allocated as children's day, will be taken advantage of by the children of the town and township. Special arrangements are being made for bringing in the children from the rural schools so that they will have an equal opportunity for taking part in the special competitions. The fancy dress carival for children on Friday evening will be an occasion of much enjoyment.

Saturday, the last day of the Fair, will undoubtedly draw a "bumper" crowd. The evening will be celebrated by a jamboree with the "lid off" and "sky the limit." Every day will furnish something new and attractive.

The following is the present programme of special attractions, and events:

Thursday

Afternoon—Wrestling on Horseback (open); 48th Highlanders Band.

Evening—Fancy Dress Carnival; Tilting on Horseback; Motor Races; Dancing Competitions; 48th Highlanders Band.

Friday (Children's Day).

Afternoon—School Children's Parade; Potato Race on Horseback (open); Catching the Greasy Porker (children only.)

Evening—Children's Fancy Dress Carnival; Children's Competitions; Pillow Fight (senior boys); Dancing.

Saturday

Afternoon—Horse Races; Catching the Greasy Pig (open); Best looking lady on the grounds (to be judged by three prominent local bachelors).

Evening—Wild Jamboree.

Other Attractions for all Three Days

Horse Show; Dancing Pavilion; Enlarged Midway; Moving Pictures every evening; Musical Attractions.

Entries for the special events outlined above may be made on the grounds.

National Railways At the Fair

Unique and Instructive Exhibit Depicting Extent of Government-Owned Railways

If there is any single exhibit at this year's Canadian National Exhibition that will prove to be a Mecca to visitors, it is that of the Canadian National-Grand Trunk Railways. Both from the standpoint of interest that it will excite and the wide knowledge it will disseminate the exhibit is of outstanding importance.

The exhibit occupies two of the large circular rooms in the Railway Building. As the display in each room is fundamentally different, each has, of course, its own particular feature.

Canada's National Way

The large circular room at the north-west angle of the building is devoted to one particular purpose; the conveying to visitors a conception of the extent and importance of Canada's "Great National Highway," with its 22,375 miles of steel rails, and an ocular demonstration of the vastness of the country and the rich resources peculiar to each of the nine Provinces of the Dominion. The provision made for attaining this two-fold object is both unique and elaborate.

Hilting in circular form about two-thirds of the room is a painting nearly a hundred feet in width by nearly twenty feet in height. On the left, or eastern side, as the visitor enters is depicted a section of the Pacific coast extending from south of Portland, Ore., to north of Prince Rupert, while its view inland extends well into the prairie country. Within this area are shown the location of the principal cities, rivers, lakes and that vast range of mountains stretching eastward some 400 miles. There is also shown in heavy red lines the various routes of the Canadian National Railways System operating in that part of the country.

At the other, or western, end of the picture is depicted the Atlantic coast from south of New York to Labrador. Hudson's Bay, with its various feeding streams, stands out in bold relief. So, in a modified way, do the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence and other important rivers of the area covered by the picture. Standing out in bold relief, in red, are the gridiron of railways owned and operated in Eastern and Middle Canada by the Canadian National Railways—the largest single system whose lines run wholly through the Dominion from coast to coast. The location of the principal cities is also shown.

Appropriately grouped in the centre of the picture between the scenes depicting the Pacific and Atlantic Coasts are large paintings representing each of the nine Provinces. A forest of giant trees depicts the lumbering resources of British Columbia. A vast herd of sheep grazing upon the prairie emblematic of Alberta. Standing sheaves of wheat, with fields and elevators in the background, represents Saskatchewan. The Fort Garry Hotel, standing near the remaining section of old Fort Garry, indicates the growth of Manitoba. A magnificent painting of Niagara Falls is indicative of the resources of Ontario in hydro-electric power. A striking picture of the Citadel of Quebec, with the river at its feet bespotted with vessels, represents the Province of Quebec. A river flanked by rich verdure and carrying logs down stream to mills, represents the lumber industry of New Brunswick. A harbor scene, with vessels moored at a dock, represents the maritime resources of Nova Scotia; while a [illegible] represents Prince Edward Island, the "Garden of the Gulf."

Directly in the centre of the picture is a bright, blank aluminum-surfaced sheet on which movie pictures of Canada from coast to coast are thrown as a lecturer carries visitors across the vast Dominion.

On the northern wall of the same room are two other important large and interesting pictures. One of these, in neutral colors, and about 20 by 10 feet in size, shows Mount Robson, the highest in the Rockies, reaching as it does an altitude of 13,069 feet. With Robson occupying the centre of the picture and flanked on either side by subordinate mountains and the foot of its glacier washed by a deep blue lake, the scene is not one to be forgotten. The other picture has a map of the world as its centre, while around it, sailing upon a blue sea, are the steamers of the Canadian Merchant Marine, the Government-owned service of over 60 vessels operated by the Canadian National Railways.

Industrial and Operating Exhibit

The exhibit in the second circular room is designed to represent the industrial and operating end of the Canadian National Railways. A new feature in this room is a section designed to depict the operation of the elevator system of Port Arthur and Fort William. In the foreground is a model of the Canadian National Railways elevator, the original of which has a capacity of ten million bushels—the largest in the world. At this elevator a vessel is in the act of being loaded, while, in order to increase the realism of the scene, trains and steamers, by a mechanical device, are kept in motion. Another section has elaborate displays, in huge glass jars, of a full range of Canadian fruits, while hanging in the background are transparent scenes of various phases of Canadian life. Across the room from this display is a large section devoted to exhibits of Canadian wild animals of practically all kinds, while in the background is a picture of heroic size of the famous Algonquin Provincial Park and game reserve. On the western wall, covering 40 by 18 feet of space, is a topical map of Canada from coast to coast, and showing not only the main and branch lines of the Canadian National System, but the principal cities and towns. The letters showing the principal town are automatically brought into bold relief by an ingenious electric device.
