DIED

Hutchinson—Georgetown, on Wednesday, June 30, 1915, Katherine M., beloved wife of John A. Hunt and daughter of Mrs. John Ryan.

THE GEORGETOWN HERALD

WEDNESDAY EVG., JUNE 30, 1915

If you want to see a face wreathed in smiles just ask the small boy if he isn't glad that school's closed for two months. Occasionally one will answer in the negative, but the average thinker at the fountain of knowledge will beam like a search light at the advent of the holiday season.

HALTON COUNTY has carried the Canada Temperance Act by a fair majority, and 31 hotels and 6 shop licenses will be cut off. The weak point in this measure is that it does not touch the cities, and Stratford remains a big "wet" centre that will be able to operate to spoil to a large degree the effectiveness of the measure

AT THE RATE some automobiles and motor cycles are run through town you would imagine there was no speed limit. It is high time that a stop was put to this practice before some child or grown-up is killed or maimed for life. It is up to the authorities to make motorists understand that our speed limit signs are not put up for ornament, but for the safety of citizens, and they must be observed.

ARE you doing your whole duty to the Empire in this time of crisis? We cannot all go to the firing line, but we can do our share in other ways. [illegible] in their survey this summer, will examine the waters of nearby streams, rivers and ponds as to the possibilities of stocking them with fish suitable for sport and the subsequent table. Mr. A. Sherriff, Deputy Minister, stated that special attention would be paid to the work, and that the survey will probably last all summer. Samples of water from all large nearby sources will be tested, and, if it is feasible, fry of those fish to which the particular water is suitable as habitat will be imported in each case. Nothing has been heard in this town as yet regarding the move, but it would be a good idea for local anglers to have the inspector look over the rivers, etc., in this district with a view to stocking them with fish.

Kendal—Brady.

There was a quiet pretty wedding at the home of the bride's aunt, Miss Brady, west side, Oakville, on Saturday afternoon when only immediate relatives witnessed the marriage of Miss Belle Brady, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Brady, to Ernest Kendal, of Rochester, and son of Mr and Mrs. R. Kendal, of Toronto. The house was prettily decorated, the colors predominating being pink and white. The bride, who looked charming in a three-thirty gowned in white net with overdress of shadow lace, veil and orange blossoms, accompanied by little Misses Thelma Skoog and Muriel Kendal as flower girls. The wedding march was played by Master Willard Skoog. Rev. W. N. Chantler of College Street Methodist Church, Toronto, officiated.

After the ceremony the guests retired to the lawn where a dainty wedding breakfast was served with Misses Annie Steele, Berth Holdworth and Belle Husband, Toronto, young lady friends of the bride, assisting at the tables.

Mr. and Mrs Kendal motored to Toronto and took the boat for Rochester, their future home. The best wishes from a large circle of friends follow them.

OLDER BUT STRONGER

To be healthy at seventy, prepare at forty, is sound advice, because in the strength of middle life we too often forget that neglected colds, or careless treatment of slight aches and pains, simply undermine strength and bring chronic weakness for later years.

To be stronger when older, keep your blood pure and rich and active with the strength-building and blood-nourishing properties of Scott's Emulsion which is a food, a tonic and a medicine to keep your blood rich, alleviate rheumatism and avoid sickness. At any drug store.

THE LATEST FROM THE FRONT

A Metropolitan Daily and Your Favorite Local Paper at a Special Clubbing Rate.

Since the opening of the Great European War last August the cable service of The Globe, Toronto has attracted attention from one end of Canada to the other owing to its comprehensiveness and reliability. Every day the cable news is condensed and interpreted on the front page under the title of "The War Summary." This feature makes plain and intelligible what would otherwise be confusing to the reader. The Globe maintains its position as "Canada's National Newspaper" as is proven by the fact that its circulation of 87,000 is much larger than that of any other morning paper in the Dominion.

Elsewhere in this issue appears an advertisement of The Globe, offering the paper sent to any address in Canada for $3.00 per year. A special clubbing offer of The Daily Globe, and The Herald one year for $3.00 is now made, thus ensuring the best metropolitan daily and the best local paper at a cut rate

Columbia Note the Difference

The Superiority OF TONE

In Columbia Double-Disc Records is due to the Patented and Exclusive Process of Manufacture

Columbia Records are BUILT-UP. Instead of economizing and using one mixture for the whole record, Columbia Records are made in THREE LAYERS, using the cheaper material in the centre only where it doesn't count in the reproduction. The best and most expensive material the world can provide is used on the outer surfaces on which the sound-wave or stylus is engraved.

That's Why Columbia Records Sound Better and Wear Longer

—The same difference in value as there is between an ordinary pine and an expensive built up oak door.

All Columbia Records are double, a different selection on each side.

And yet these records cost you less money than any others.

You are not getting the utmost value for your money or the best value out of your machine—no matter of what make—unless you use Columbia Records.

OF COURSE COLUMBIA RECORDS ARE MADE IN CANADA

If you have never tried Columbia Records, ask to hear the following selections. We will gladly play them and any others for you.

ORIGIN OF "OLIVER TWIST."

Dickens Got His Principal Characters From Cruikshank.

The true story of the origin of "Oliver Twist" is not generally known. It [illegible] of the "Pickwick Papers" Dickens was thinking of following it up by a story of London life, with which he was more familiar than with English country life. Just about that time he happened to visit the studio of George Cruikshank and was shown some drawings the latter had made illustrating the career of a London thief. There was a sketch of Fagin's den, with the Artful Dodger and Master Charley Bates, pictures of Bill Sikes and his dog and Nancy Sikes and, lastly, Fagin in the condemned cell.

Dickens was much struck by the power of these character sketches, and the result was that he changed the whole plot of "Oliver Twist." Instead of taking him through spiritless adventures in the country he introduced him into the thieves' den in London, showed up their life of sin, but brought his hero through pure and undefiled.

Thus it will be seen that George Cruikshank, not Charles Dickens, was the originator of the leading characters that appear in "Oliver Twist."—London Saturday Review.

HAIR AND VITALITY.

The One Acts, in a Measure, as an Index of the Other.

In the course of its continuous growth the hair records the tide of vitality as it rises and falls in the body. When a hair is held up to the light it may be seen to be smaller at some places than at others. There may be a space of one-eighth of an inch perhaps where the hair is so thin as to appear ready to break off.

Such spots indicate an appreciable loss of nourishment, a sleepless night or an attack of auto-intoxication. In the last named cases the general vitality is interfered with, and the roots of the hair, not being developed, are not as strong as otherwise.

The hair grows until the weight is so great that it can no longer be sustained by the root, and it drops out. That is why hairs are of different roots, will grow long, while the vitality is low all over the body the roots are imperfectly developed, and the hair is likely to fall out, as in cases of typhoid fever.

Dandruff is a parasitic disease, and the parasites get down around the root of the hair, which becomes loosened. That is another reason why the hair falls out.—Boston Herald

Spanish Boys' Game.

Spanish lads have a game which they call "Hobbyhull," and it has something on the American kiddies' hobbyhorse, according to those who have seen it. The boys of Malaga and other Spanish cities find an immense amount of excitement and amusement in mock encounters with the hobbyhull, which is merely a framework mounted on wooden wheels and has a pair of horns fastened to its forward end. Armed with a scarlet cloth, one of the boys infuriates the hobbyhull, while another operates the "animal."

If the matador has talent in the art of taunting and teasing and the other lad is spirited the game may become serious. Boys in training to become matadors practice regularly with the hobbyhull and consider such play a part of their training.—Philadelphia North American.

Qualities of the Topaz.

The name of the precious stone inserted in the ring of Gyges has not been handed down to us, but it is probable that it was the topaz, whose wonders Philostratus recounts in the life of Apollonius. An attribute of the air and of fire, the ancients called it the gold magnet, as it was credited with the power of attracting that metal, indicating its veins and discovering the treasures. Heliodorus in his story of Theagenes and Chariclea says that the topaz saves from fire all those who wear it and that Chariclea was preserved by a topaz from the fury vengeance of Arsaces, queen of Ethiopia. This stone was one of the first talismans that Theagenes possessed in Egypt. The topaz at present symbolizes Christian virtues faith, justice, temperance, gentleness, clemency.

Our Moral Codes.

Our moral codes were invented not to prepare men for heaven or for Utopia. They were invented by men who were none too good themselves to protect themselves from people who were not much worse. There are great differences in human beings as to the amount of knowledge and wisdom which they possess, but there is small difference in regard to the amount of goodness or morality that they manifest.—Mowry Hatch in Forum.

A Suffering Case.

"Those detectives have just arrested an osteopath as a felon."

"That must have been a painful duty."

"Why painful?"

"Didn't it give the poor fellow on their hands?"—Baltimore American.

Cure.

"Why do we always speak of the silvery moon?" asked the book.

"On account of its quarters and halves, I suppose," replied the cheerful idiot.—Cincinnati Inquirer.

Housekeeping Is Not the Task It Used to Be

MODERN invention has done away with much of the hard work. For instance, the cleaning and polishing of hardwood floors, the dusting of mouldings, the tops of high furniture, the stairs, under the radiator, etc. These back-breaking tasks are now made easy with the

O-Cedar Mop Polish

With it you can dust, clean and polish a hardwood floor in the time it formerly took you to get ready to do it.

Besides, you do not have to get down on your hands and knees to dust under the bed or other hard-to-get-at places, or to stand on a chair to dust the top of the high furniture. All of the hard work is now made easy with the O-Cedar Polish Mop. It gathers all the dust or oil from anywhere and holds it. The mop is easily cleaned by washing and then renewed by putting on a few drops of O-Cedar Polish.

Try It at Our Risk Try it two whole days with the understanding that if you do not find it satisfactory in every respect we will return your money. The price is only $1.10 and it will last for years longer than any other kind.

NAMES OF OUR EARTH.

It Was Called Ge by the Greeks and Terra by the Latins.

Answering the question, "Who named our planet the earth? Why could it not have had a romantic and beautiful name such as astronomers have given to the planets Jupiter, Venus, Mars or Neptune? Our planet alone has the misfortune, but not graceful name, the earth," Edgar Lucien Larkin of the New York American says:

The good Anglo-Saxon folk gave the same surname to this our world, and the "earth" dwindled the word down to earth. But is this not fully as romantic as the name Ge, given to it by the Greeks, and "Terra" by the Latins? The latter indeed commonplace, but Terra is highly romantic.

Classic mythology tells that Terra was one of the most ancient deities and wife of Uranus and mother of Oceanus, the Titans, Cyclopes, Giants, Titos, Ithos, "Earths," Phoebe, Tethys and Mnemosyne. And she is the same deity as Tellus. But Tellus was the most ancient goddess after Chaos. In later mythic ages she was called by the exceedingly romantic names Cybele, Ithea, Vesta, Ceres, Tithea, Hopa, Dea, Proserpine and others. And when pailing under the sumptuous titles she passed through many very romantic episodes. At times she got into romantic difficulties when circulating around with other goddesses and gods.

POWER OF ELOQUENCE.

Financial Effect of Whitefield's Sermons on Ben Franklin.

Whitefield made seven visits to America. He brought great blessings to our land. Whittier wrote of him thus:

The flood of emotion, deep and strong,
Troubled the land as it swept along.
But left a result of better lives

In Philadelphia he preached with such effectiveness that the dancing rooms were discontinued, and the ball and concert rooms were shut up "as inconsistent with the gospel."

Benjamin Franklin tells that in Philadelphia 20,000 heard him with ease. Ben was caught with the matchless delivery of his sermons. "I happened in a meeting in the course of which I perceived," writes he, "that he intended to finish with a collection, and I silently resolved that he would get nothing from me. I had in my pocket a handful of copper money, three or four silver dollars and five pistoles in gold. As he preached I began to soften and concluded to give the coppers; an other stroke of his oratory made me ashamed of that and determined me to give the silver; and he finished so admirably that I emptied my pockets wholly into the collection dish, gold and all."—Christian Herald.

MYSTERY OF MATTER.

Endless Routine of the Material That Forms Our Bodies.

Mr. Geoffrey Martin has written a treatise on chemistry from which is taken this paragraph from the chapter on "Matter:"

"The endless circulation of matter in the universe is perhaps one of the most wonderful facts with which chemistry has to deal. It is this endless change that causes the history of the most common and insignificant objects about us to be more astonishing than any fairy tale.

"What a wonderful story, for example, could be written of the material that forms our bodies! It came into existence in the immense depth of space millions upon millions of years ago and wandered for ages through darkness and void until it reached our earth. Perhaps it fell upon the earth in a fiery meteorite, or perhaps it merely joined the huge fire mist from which our solid world condensed. Since then it has run round age after age in an endless circle of change.

"First it formed part of that vast primeval atmosphere that surrounded the globe and blew in mighty winds round our planet; then it was absorbed into the body of some humble living being, and when this being died and its body decayed the matter passed into the rich mother earth. Thence it passed into some plant by means of its roots, and from the plant it passed by the process of being devoured into the body of some animal, and from the animal again it passed to earth and thence to plants and animals again, and so on through an endless cycle of change, coursing through the bodies of innumerable multitudes of living forms, which stretch far back in a dim, unending vista into the depths of time.

"Finally it reached man. Yes; the very atoms that thrill and flash in our brains and muscles once formed part of a living plant or animal millions of years ago and will again form part of a living plant or animal millions of years hence. In some form or other the matter that now forms our bodies will exist long after the whole present order of creation has passed away. Indeed, it may well yet blow in the winds of worlds as yet unborn and thrill in forms of life not yet evolved."

ART IN ITS DAWNING.

Primitive Man's First Crude Efforts Toward the Beautiful.

In the beginning man went forth each day some to do battle, some to the chase, others again to dig and delve in the field all that they might gain and live or lose and die—until there was found among them one, differing from the rest, who stayed by the tents with the women and traced strange devices with burnt stick over a gourd.

This man, who took no joy in the ways of his brothers, who cared not for the conquest and fretted in the field; this designer of quaint patterns, this deviser of the beautiful, who perceived in nature about him curious curvings, as faces are seen in the fire—this dreamer apart was the first artist.

And when from the field and from afar there came back the people they took the gourd and drank from out of it.

And presently there came to this man another and in time others of like nature chosen by the gods, and so they worked together, and soon they fashioned from the unfashioned earth forms resembling the gourd. And with the power of creation, the heirloom of the artist, presently they went beyond the slavish suggestion of nature, and the first vase was born in beautiful proportion.

And the toilers toiled and were athirst, and the heroes returned from fresh victories to rejoice and feast, and all drank alike from the artist's goblets, fashioned cunningly, taking no note the while of the craftsman's pride and understanding not his glory in his work; drinking at the cup, not from choice, not from a consciousness that it was beautiful, but because, forsooth, there was none other.—James McNeil Whistler.
