Death of Arthur Pedlar

A gloom was cast over this cemmunity on Saturday of week before last when it was learned that Arthur Pedlar, eldest son of Mr and Mrs A F Pedlar had passed to the great beyond after a brief illness of but a few days at the early age of 16 years. Arthur was one of our brightest boys, always ready with a joke, and a leader among the boys. During his public school days he won the love and admiration of all with whom he came in contact. For the past three years Arthur had been attending Flesherton high school where he was a successful pupil and will be greatly missed by his fellow students. The funeral, which was largely attended, on Tuesday of last week, took place to Salem cemetery after the service at the house, conducted by Rev Mr Fowler. The pall bearers were six of the high school boys —Edgar Sprott, Rob Whittaker, Reg Hutton, Malcolm McDonald, Ted McDonald and Elford Watters. Those who attended the funeral from a distance were Miss Rita Marshall, Meaford ; Mrs Hugh Clark and Mrs John Beecroft, Owen Sound ; Mrs Ed Pedlar, Harvey and Willis Pedlar, Singhampton ; Mr and Mrs H D McLoughry and daughter, Millie, Markdale, and Ed Graham of Thornbury. The Flesherton high school also attended in a body, as well as Eugenia public school. The flowers were very beautiful, including wreaths from the family, 8th line neighbors, and Eugenia friends ; sheaf from Flesherton high school ; sprays from Miss J Ellis of Elmvale, Miss Jean Wright, Junior Red Cross of public school, Mrs W Hawkins and the Large boys. The sympathy of the community is etxtended the bereaved family.

Unique Scrap Book of Grey Bops In War Days

Mrs Adam Smith has just completed a very unique scrap book of clippings and pictures taken from the Flesherton Advance and other papers during the war. Mrs. Smith saved every clipping from the beginning that had to do with the Grey regiments or the boys who served overseas. There are also interesting news items from the trenches taken from other papers, but all concerning our Canadian boys. Though it has taken great patience and a great deal of time to arrange and complete this wonderful collection, it will no doubt be a book of great interest not only to this generation but generations to come.

52 Below in Sask

An esteemed subscriber at Grace, Sask., says :

As we are situated some 1900 miles from your burg I thought a few lines might be in order. We are always pleased to get your newsy paper, as it keeps us in touch with the many changes that are always taking place. The first half of December was very cold. Then we had a fine winter with lots of snow for sleighing. Starting Feb. 1st. we had heavy storms, but when we landed at 12, 13 and 14, it was both cold and heavy snow. The thermometer dropped to 52 below zero. Then you froze up quick. The oldest settlers say this was the steadiest cold with snow that they had experienced in the West. This section of country has never had a complete failure, but a great many in Sask. are suffering from the great expense of production and small prices for wheat.

The Double Life

James Hales, K. C. of the Dept. of License Commissioners, and General Williams, head of the Provincial Police, investigated conditions in Peterboro arising out of a lax enforcement of the O. T. A. and noninterference of the Police with the houses of ill repute. The commissioners found a shocking moral condition. A score or so of the leading men of the city acknowledged having drunk liquor in a disorderly house in which a girl of sixteen was a frequenter. The commissioners decided to publish the names of the citizens who were leading the double life and had pleaded guilty to the charges against them. Then some of the clergymen and ladies of the city took a hand in the proceedings to try to keep the investigators from publishing the names of the high-class flyers, but all to no effect. The names of the city law breakers and immoral aggregation appeared in Toronto dailies on Saturday. Despite the pressure brought to bear on the commissioners they refused to turn aside from their purpose of letting the light in on the foul social cesspool. The names of the clergymen who tried to induce the commissioners to refrain from publishing the list should have appeared as an appendix to the report.

Still After Biggs

The county of Brant is still after the Minister of Highways. A despatch from Brantford says :

Although roads were drifted level with fences, a representative meeting of ratepayers met in the Court House, Brantford, in protest over the extreme increase in the taxes in the county and endorsed the action of the County Council in asking the Ontario Government to postpone the laying of any cement roads in the county for one year, in order that financial conditions might improve to such an extent as to warrant the expenditure of the people's money. Hon. H. C. Nixon was present and endeavored to point out that the maintenance of the gravel roads would be practically as expensive. However, after considerable discussion the meeting passed a resolution endorsing the action of the County Council in sounding the words of economy

A Legal Mess

Before Police Magistrate Laidlaw on Saturday last, Oscar Mess of North Bentinck charged Albert Spunk, a neighbor, with the theft of a turkey. Mess, it appears, some time previously bought a turkey of a fancy strain, which strayed from his premises and could not be found. At wheat cutting time the defendant found a turkey and nest among the crop. and the plaintiff coming to hear of it, claimed it was his. The other party just as stoutly claimed it wasn't, and there you are. Each side has lawyers employed, but a delay was asked for and the case was adjourned until Saturday next. Meanwhile Constable Fas the turkey in charge and no doubt it is wondering what the fuss is all about—Durham Review.

Allan Campbell, an old resident of Glenelg near Rob Roy, died in his 77th year.
