Conservatives And Temperance

From The Meaford Mirror

Some time ago Premier Drury asserted that the election campaign would be fought on the O. T. A. Since then attacks by Liberal and other organizations on the Conservative party have been along the line that it was anti-O. T. A. and anti-temperance.

These attacks were based on Leader Ferguson's caaual remark, made in British Columbia, that he would produce at the phychological moment a temperance policy that would please everybody, or something to that effect.

There has been no lack of Assurance from Conservative newspapers, in which we would like to join, that there must be no trifling with the O. T. A.

The Conservative party gave to Ontario the O. T. A., in response to a strong demand, from the voters, after the Liberal party had attempted similar legislation, and had been rejected at the polls.

Premier Hearst, in response to a petition of more than half the entire number of voters in the Province, enacted the legislation

Whatever the cause of his defeat, the recent history of the Conservative party has been one of steady progress in temperance reform. If a small portion of the party in the last Legislature happens to have been rather wet in its predilections, and decidedly wet in its public utterances, it should not be considered that the Conservative party is a "wet" party.

Assuredly, the O. T. A. is not an issue in this election, and Mr. Ferguson is playing a dignified part when he declines to be dragged into a discussion of the O. T. A. as an election issue; he was minister of the cabinet enacting the O. T. A., and there is no dissussion as to the advisability of relaxing its restrictions in any way.

Jack Miner On Conservation

"I am a forest conservationist first, last and all the time," said Jack Miner, the noted wild-life advocate, in a recent interview. "A man couldn't run fast enough to give me a home where the trees are already grown. I want to grow my own. I have studied the woods all my life and, while I have never read any books on forestry, I have done some tall thinking and studying in the woods themselves. In the last ten years I have planted fully ten thousand trees on my own place at Kingsville, and I want to say that I consider it one of the most important and satisfying jobs I have ever done. The last four thousand trees I got I planted in clay soil where trees wouldn't grow. This had been proved because another fellow's father and Uncle Dave had tried it and found it couldn't be done; but my old backwoods education refused to be discouraged, I planted these trees in 1914 and although when planted they were no higher than ordinary tomato plants- they are now, in eighth year, twelve to sixteen feet high and the naked clay field, as it was in 1914, now attracts the public from far and wide that I have had to fence it in, something I never dreamed of doing."

Another case of not knowing it was loaded occurred at Clarksburg Monday afternoon of last week when John Mitchell, the twelve year old son of G. H. Mitchell, was accidentally shot by a rifle in the hands of his chum, Oscar Brown. The bullet entered Mitchell's right breast and passed through, leaving the body on the right side of the back. Medical aid was immediately summoned and the little chap is making favorable progress.

IN MEMORIAM

In honored memory of Lt. J. O. Allison, R. A. F., who sleeps at Alton Kempis, Mesopotamia.

Winds of the night, whisper tenderly,
tenderly,
Where he now sleeps.
Nightingale, happy be,
Flit not too silently,
Sing thou a song for me,
Where he now sleeps.

Moon of the night, guard thou faithfully,
faithfully,
Where he now sleeps.
In that far land of Fears,
In that sad place of Tears,
Keep watch through all the years,
Where he now sleeps.

C. G. Nomination On May 23rd

Nomination Day for the Centre Grey U. F. O. political organization will be in Rocklyn on Wednesday of next week, May 23rd. It is believed that Col. Carmichael, Minster without portfolio in the recent Ontario Cabinet, will again contest the riding in the interest of the Farmers. The Col. has had a good record in parliament and can be complimented on the stand he has taken at the Parliament Buildings in the past, especially with Hydro affairs. A number of names are mentioned as likely candidates, but Col. Carmichael will be the choice no doubt.

Cemetery Plots For Sale

Those who contemplate purchasing plots in the Flesherton cemetery should do so at once at the $25 rate, as the price of the plots will be raised on the first of June. Considerable work has to be done on the property this year in building a new fence, clearing the property, etc., which will entail quite an expenditure. Apply to T. Clayton, Flesherton.

Pastor Is Unwell

Owing to continued illness of the pastor evening service in the Methodist church was withdrawn on Sunday. The morning service was taken by a local supply. Rev. Mr. Oke is in poor health and fears are entertained that he will not again be able to take his work this conference year. He is due for superanuation and will probably apply for it at the coming conference. There is universal regret that Mr. Oke will be unable to continue his work here.

In 1922 there were cut, in Canadian forests, 4,024, 826 cords of pulpwood. This wood, if piled four feet high and our feet wide, would reach in a continuous line over 6,000 miles, or the distance from Vancouver to Halifax and out over the Atlantic to Queenstown, Ireland.

Failed To Get Their Man On Bigamy Charge

Provincial Police officers Jones and Beckett af Owen Sound and Gardiner of Collingwood endeavored to arrest Edward Gordon at Feversham on Monday evening on a charge of bigamy but were unsuccessful. Gordon lit out hurriedly for parts unknown ab about ten o'clock at night. The young man came from Thornbury about a month ago and opened up a shoe repairing shop at Feversham Previously he married a miss Bradbury, whose relatives authorized the arrest, believing Gordon to have been married previously in the States and his wife still living. It is not known what steps will be taken now by the police.
