THE CHANGING VIEW

We used to think it rained because we wanted to have fun,
Out in the blossoms of the lane
beneath the glowing sun,
And we were petulant and cross
and whimpered all the day
But now we view the rain that falls in quite a different way.

We used to think the storms were sent to spoil our picnic date,
And keep us penned up in the house or right inside the gate,
And we were angry all the time that things should go that way—
But we have learned to view the storms quite different to-day.

And so in all things here that mark our quiet life—
We see the wisdom of the toil and of the pain and strife,
And we have grown a gentler will
and welcome all He sends For now we take another view of nature's destined ends.

We know, for instance, that the rain is sent to fill a need,
And not to spoil our happy days
and make our spirits bleed,
And through the larger purpose of
His will and wish we know
The blessing of the flying clouds as of the sun's bright glow.

Pure and Wholesome Food Products

A very apparent effect of the work of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa is the improvement that has taken place in the cleanliness and purity of the people's food. Especially is this true of the work performed by the Live Stock and Health of Animals branches. Better equipment at the stock yards has been brought about as well as improved facilities for transportation on the one hand and, on the other, rigid inspection at the abattoirs and slaughter-houses insures healthy and wholesome meats for consumption. It is impossible to over-estimate the value of the work that is thus being accomplished. At the canneries also cleanliness and wholesomeness are assured by the regulations that are enforced by Inspectors and supervisors under the immediate control of the Health of Animals Branch. Eggs and poultry, under the Poultry division of the Live Stock Branch have been advanced in public estimation. In by-gone times householders always had certain suspicions of the eggs supplied at the breakfast table and used in cooking. They usually expected, one, two or three and sometimes more, in a dozen to prove unpalatable, and were rarely disappointed. To-day they buy and cook with confidence. The same is true of all other articles of food watched over by this and other departments. By legislation adulteration has been checked and as nearly as possible suppressed. The capable work not only continues but is constantly being expanded and enlarged in scope.

Mr. J. E. McIlarvin of Mexico City, Mexico, spent a couple of days this week in the old home town. Ed. thinks Acton was never more attractive. He is thinking seriously of disposing of his interests in Mexico and returning to Canada.

Mr. W. Stark, of Vancouver, B. C., has kindly sent the Free Press a descriptive booklet of the splendid Ocean View Burial Park, the new cemetery recently opened near Central Park, Vancouver. Uniform perpetual care has been adopted by the management, and no plot or grave is sold without this care being provided for. The cemetery throughout is kept like a city park, without extra cost. It must be consoling and add greatly to the peace of mind of those who have buried loved ones, to have the assurance that they are laid to rest in a beautiful cemetery which will be kept beautified all the time, whether you continue your residence in the community or not. Such a place will grow more beautiful from year to year and offers the most enduring and sacred form of Christian burial. Free Press.

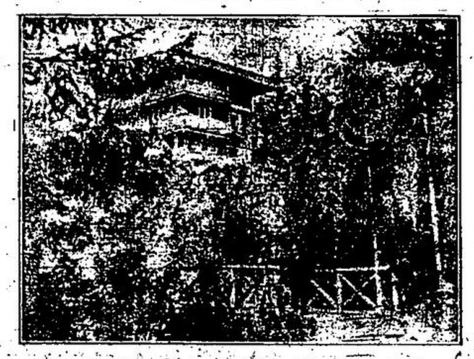
Switzerland in Canada



The Home of a Swiss Guide at Edelweiss, B.C.

A very successful attempt at introducing the Swiss chalet type of architecture into the Canadian Rockies has been carried out at the village of Edelweiss.

Miniatures chalets of the Alps here blend in with the Canadian landscape in the side-hills above Golden as though part of it. The "Swiss-lines" of the little cottages themselves are further enhanced by the use of rustic bridges and hand railings leading up to the cottages tiering one above another ever higher in true "excelsior" fashion.

It is customary in the very nature of his swift passing for the tourists sitting by the window of the speeding "through train" to catch only a glimpse of this hybrid among villages.

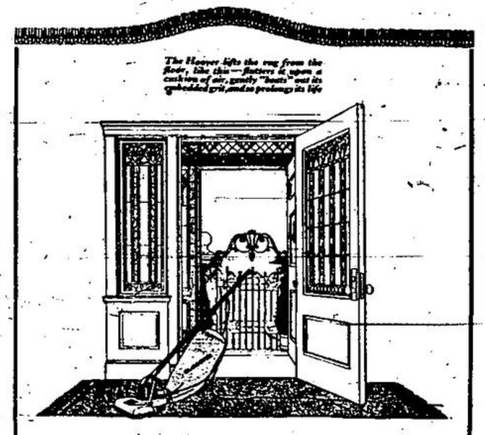
Yet, the natural human-interest felt in the Real Swiss guide at Lake Louise who safely conducts you to The Great Glacier, to "The Valley of the Ten Peaks and by other of those entrancing "Trails" focussing around "The Lake in the Clouds" must often have aroused your curiosity as to where these wonderful mountaineers live when off duty. And you must often have found yourself speculating as to the home-life of the "Guide" so calmly and with such perfect assurance playing the hazardous double-roll of "Trail-Maker" and "Trail-Master."

This foreigner is a specialist. And the fact that his knowledge of our own Mountains is so much greater than the average Canadian's gives him an added interest. At the same time the Swiss Guide represents, in his mountain-ering a gift of Switzerland to us. A happy gift indeed when one thinks of it as a friendly holding out of experience gained in her mountains, a neighborly gift of knowledge which may help to interpret the Canadian Rockies in many of their most romantic and beautiful but "difficult" passages to us, who have so little time . . . a week or two at most of summer holidaying . . . in which to learn the gigantic secrets of these marvellous "Rocks."

Trailing the human interest story of these Swiss Guides leads one straight to . . . Edelweiss. Straight to its revelation of the established presence of the Swiss chalet in Canada.

It leads one too, to a little family gathering of happy wives and little children. The happier for the feeling of home given by the resemblance which these their homes in the West, bear to the cottage, climbing the mountain-side, somewhere over there in the old land of Alpine Switzerland where fathers and mothers and sisters and brothers, still live.

No one would claim that Edelweiss is perfect from the architectural viewpoint. That would be absurd. Rather it has the happy little imperfections which must ever attend beginnings.



Although your reception hall rug receives harsh traffic, it will brightly welcome callers for years longer if you clean it with The Hoover. The Hoover beats out the destructive street grit that becomes embedded. It sweeps straight the heel-crushed nap and picks up the stubborn, clinging litter. It suctions up the color-dimming surface dirt. Only The Hoover does all of these essential things. And it is the largest selling electric cleaner in the world.

Brings the Farm to Town

NOW that he can order it at once by Long Distance from his favorite dealer in village, town, or city, nothing is too good for the farmer. "You advertised a special sale on phonographs in to-day's paper. Ship me one"—he telephones.

Within the same convenient radius of your store are scores of thrifty housewives who would be pleased to have a merchant solicit their trade by Long Distance. Even if a sale does not result, you have advertised your business in a very effective way. They will probably call when they come to town, or order from your advertising. It's human nature.

We know a tire dealer who called up 29 strangers by Long Distance and sold tires to 8 of them. A follow-up letter or personal call later brought nearly all the others to his store.

Don't let your telephone idle. Long Distance can bring suburban prospects within sound of your voice. Turn it into a salesman, and keep it busy. Every other means of communication is substitute for the voice—the voice is YOU.
