WHAT'S IN A NAME?

A young man came over to this country from England last week whose name apears to have caused a lot of trouble' to the officials. This arose from the fact that the young man did not wish to use his real name while on the trip. He wished to travel incognito. Now, why? It was broadcasted far and wide that the Prince of Wales wished to be known by the name of Lord Renfrew.

This young man's great grandmother owned the plebeian family name of Wettin His great grandfather was Prince Albert of Saxe Coburg-Gotha, a German principality His real title is the Duke of Cornwall.

The changing of a name at will is a perquisite of royalty. He is at liberty to choose any name he wishes. When the perfume of a name becomes a little bit tiresome a new one can be created, and it is nobody's business. In this case we would think just as much of the young man if he called himself Edward Albert Wettin as we do of him as Lord Renfrew. The latter is too lordly a title for a young man, anyway. There is too much stand-off about it for a democratic young man who wishes to live on a farm and study roots and pigs. Edward Albert Wettin would be good enough for a rancher or a king at play. But, after all, as Shakespeare remarked, "what's in a name anyway? A rose by any other name would smell as sweet." And the prairies would smell just as sweet to him if he came to us without any name and allowed us to dub him "Skipper," "Admiral" or plain Ed. It's the personality that counts and our affection would go out to him just the same no matter what his name. The authorities need not have troubled themselves searching for a title.

STRUCK A SNAG?

Three or four months ago the Owen Sound daily said it was making arrangements to get correspondents at Durham, Hanover and Markdale. Something appears to have gone wrong with the arrangements. The management evidently struck a snag. Can it be that the literatii of these places are so loyal to their own home papers that they refuse to assist an outsider to come in and play havoc with their own local institutions. If so we would like to donate a few medals.

A WAIL FROM TORONTO

The Toronto Star wails this wail:

"Perhaps Mayor Maguire will tell us why Toronto is paying $9 more for the power it buys from the Provincial hydro than it did, while the rates in other municipalities are being reduced."

Why mourn, dear Star, why mourn? Your rates are still less than one ralf what those outside the city corporation have to pay. We are gradually—very gradually—getting you worked up to a just proportion. We are doing it so gradually that the operation is supposed to be painless. So why mourn?

Mr. Ferguson will not recognize Mr. Drury as leader of the Opposition, although the U.F.O. leader has the largest opposition group in the House Well, Mr. Drury has the satisfaction of knowing that defeat will sometime come to Mr Ferguson, as it did to him.

Toronto Winter Fair is now being boomed. If that gay city could have a fair every week, $12 electricity, thosands of visitors with millions of money coming into town every day, all the railways in Canada running in special trains three or four times per diem, and a few little things like that, how happy it would be!

The Globe last week printed a story from Sudbury regarding a potato plant which bore "well defined green tomatoes on its vines." Had the Globe's flimsy editor submitted that dispatch to its agricultural editor, the latter would, if he knew his business, have pronounced the tomatoes ordinary potato seed balls, and the article would have been suppressed. The joke is on the Globe.

School Fair Successful

200 CHILDREN IN PARADE WON BY FLESHERTON SCHOOL WAS BETER THAN EVER

The Artemesia annual School Fair was held in Flesherton on Saturday afternoon last when fully three hundred people attended to see the work of the children and to join the sports provided. Nine schools took part in the exhibits in the hall,an increase of four over last year, while seven schools joined in the parade these being Flesherton, Orange Valley, Springhill, Victoria Corners, Ceylon, Proton Station and Rock Mills. Great difficulty was exprienced in the selection of a winner for second prize and Ceylon, Springhill and Proton Station had to march in a body in order to announce a winner. Competition was so keen that each was deserving of a prize. Proton Station school livened the march by the adidtion of two excelent mouth-organ players, who kept perfect time and unison. Only three chools took part in the parade last year and it is noped that every school in Artemesia will be at the Fair next year.

The public speaking contest was much improved this year when five took part and each gave a fine five minutes address. Cora McFadden of Flesherton school took first in the girls' competition with 36 out of a possible 40, and Melville Sled, also of Flsherton, won in the boys' competition with 34 points. We print Cora McFadden's speech in another page.

Seven boys took part in the driving contest and a real good exhibition was given, Gordon Acheson of Proton winning first prize.

The hall was well filled with the display and the interest taken in this, speaks well for the future fairs that will be held. Fully twice as many exhibits over last year were in the hall and of real quality.

Six prizes were given in most of the exhibits and events of 1st, 50c.; 2nd, 40c; 3rd, 20c; 5th, 10c; and 6th, ribbon.

The prize list is printed elsewhere in this issue.

The Onion In Our Diet

This simple garden vegetable can hardly be valued too highly or used too freely. From some peculiarties of the onion, its nourishing properties more than double those of the potato. Without regard to its peculiar flavour the onion should be much more eaten than it is. An eminent physician once said, "If health is desirable, and if you wish to live long, eat oninos."

Onions are said to be the best nervine known and tone up the system of one suffering from nervous prostration as nothing else can do

Another physician says: "The safest and quickest prescription for clearing the blood, is to eat a raw onion finely minced, at breakfast. Finely chopped onions eaten with salt and vinegar as a salad. are an excellent tonic to the stomach and especially beneficial to those suffering from dyspepsia. Its value, too, as a poultice, in cases of inflamation. is well known.

If onions are so valuable and the above are facts which cannot be disputed, not one is eaten where 10 ought to be.

An old lady who lived to the remarkable age of 104 years. when asked, a short time before her death, to what causes she attributed her long life among other simple and healthful rules given one was that she had eaten onions every day of her life since she could remember. The onion certainly should have a prominent place among our garden vegetables and upon our table. —L. R. S.

Noble Croft of Owen Sound lost three valuable Jersey cows from eating alfalfa hay when it was wet after a heavy rain.
