EUGENIA

Quite a number pass through the village each day enroute to the Black Creek, but while some seem to be successful in bagging a number of suckers others come back with no luck. Altogether there are not nearly as many fish caught as in other years.

A number from here attended the "Dumbells" at Owen Sound on the 9th, and report a good time.

Miss Blanche Hammond and Ruth Stuart of Kimberley visited their grandmother, Mrs. MucMullen, over the week end.

Quite an excitement was caused in the vllage on Saturday morning when it was learned that the Munshaw House was on fire. There being only a few men in the village at the time, the ladies all turned out and played no mean part in extinguishing the flames. The fire was caused by a spark from the chimney and the wind being so high the fire soon made headway, but was got under control by the bucket brigade. The men of the pipe line were phoned for and were on the scene in ten minutes from the time they received the message. Very little damage was done outside of the roof itself, which was badly burned.

CAR ACCIDENTS HERE

Two light car accidents occurred this week in this vicinity. While driving near Kimberley on Monday afternoon something broke on the steering gear of Dr. Turnbull's car, and it unceremoniously headed for the ditch where it suffered considerable damage. It took a few hours for repairs to be made.

Tuesday at the noon hour when Mr. John Fawcett, mail carrier, was at the station a front wheel came off his car while crossing the railway track. No special damage was done although some hustling had to be done to get the car out of the way of the noon train, which was approaching.

The man who trots around the room all night with a crying infant in his arms and happens to remember that of such is the kingdom of heaven is likely to backslide.

Commercializing Mother's Day

That Mother's Day, which was observed last Sunday, is being so commercialized by the florists and others that the true sentment of the occasion is being threatened by greed, was quoted from the Anglican pulpit here on Sabbath morning last by the rector, Rev. R. Perdue. as being the open charge made by Miss Anna Jarvis, of Phiadelphia, founder of Mother's Day and President of the Mother's Day International Association commerciaization of Mother's Day is growing every year," says she. "Since parts of the world, many things have tried to attach themselves because of its success."

"The white carnation is the emblem of Mother's Day because it typifies the beauty, truth and fidelity of mother-love. But it does not mean that people should wear a white carnation. This false idea has led to florists flagrantly boosting the price of white carnations for the Mother's Day trade."

"The red carnation has no connection with Mother's Day. Yet florists have spread the idea that it should be worn for a mother who has passed away. This has boosted the sale of red carnations."

That the real spirit of Mother's Day may survive the greed and commercialization, Miss Jarvis suggests that it be observed in the true sense, as a day of deed and sentiment—a day to inspire deeper feeling toward the home and especially its motherhood.—Bruce Herald and Times.
