YOUNG LADY WAS INSTANTLY KILLED

Car Stalled On Hill And The Brakes Refused To Work

5 PEOPLE IN THE CAR

On Friday evening last a fatal accident occurred in Egremont, near Dromore, when Annie Hayes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hayes of the 19th of Proton, was instantly killed when an old Ford car which she was driving went over an embankment and turned over.

There were five people in the car—James Hayes, Mrs. White (a daughter) and babe, Miss Barber and Miss Hayes.

The accident is said to have been caused by faulty brakes. Miss Hayes attempted to change gear while going up a hill when the car stalled and the brakes would not hold. The emergency brake was utterly useless. The car went swiftly backward and over a high embankment, Mr. Hayes jumped before the car went over but the rest of the party went over with it. Miss Hayes had her head crushed and death was instantaneous. The rest of the party were more or less shaken up but none were seriously injured. Miss Hayes is said to have been an expert driver and with the brakes in the condition they were could not prevent the accident.

Besides the members of the Lodges the neighbors were invited to join in the festivities and between seventy-five and one hundred were present. Games and races were indulged in by both old and young. A short concert was held at the close and some excellent numbers were given, among them being a violin solo by Mr. Roy Best; duet by the Misses Preston; reading by Mrs. H. Down; solo by Wes. Armstrong, accompanied by the ukelee, and a delightful address by Rev. Wm. McWhinney of Kamsack Sask., who is on a short visit east. The town tax rate of Simcoe this year is 37 mills, a cut of 5 mills on last year. Simcoe is to be congratulated. Any town which can reduce taxation deserves special mention. It sounds too good to be true.

SHOT 2214 GROUND HOGS AT BADJEROS

Annual Hunt Was Again A Great Success

For the past two years the people of Badjeros and vicinity have put on a scrub hunt of a sensible kind, and this year's affair was an immense success. This hunt is put on with a view to eliminating or at least reducing the number of pestiferous groundhog or woodchuck. This animal does considerable damage to crops and is absolutely useless to humanity from any point of view, and his absence is much more to be desired than his presence. Therefore it entered into the minds of the Badjeros young men that a groundhog hunt would be very much more reasonable than the killing off of the innocent squirrels, chipmonks and feathered songsters, such as has been the practice in some localities.

Last year saw this hunt inaugurated and it caught on immediately. Two captains are appointed and these each choose nine others, the total number of contestants being twenty.

This year the captains were David Macklem and Edward Taylor. On Friday night of last week the score was counted up when it was found that Macklem had nearly 1400 tails while Taylor had something over 800. The total number of brushes gathered in was 2214. This ought to pretty well clean up the groundhogs in that vicinity, but no doubt enough are left to reproduce the species. As a matter of fact these tails were gathered from far and near. friends at a distance busying themselves to assist the captain of their choice. The postal service also assisted.

In this case the prize was a valuable shaving set, and no doubt in future Mr. Macklem will be noted for his clean-shaven chin. The real beneficiaries of thi saffair were the Ladies' Aid of Badjeros church, who gave the supper and a concert on Friday evening at which Dundalk band was present. A good program was given. The whole affair was pronounced a most decided success.

Any truth that prevails in a horse trade is indeed mighty.
