Former Resident Of Wareham Dies In Calif.

Miss Tena Henderson received a paper from Calfornia this week announcing the death of her uncle, W, J. Percy, at Ruckner, that state, at the age of 75 years, death coming very suddenly from heart failure. The deceased at one time lived near Wareham and married Miss Margaret Morton, a sister of Mr. Wm. Morton of Wareham.

He first went to California in 1867, after serving with the Canadian volunteers. He returned to Canada, and 31 years ago again went to Santa Clara valley, locating at Rucker, where he has ever since resided, and was a blacksmith and wheelright by trade. He was a member of Keith Lodge A. F. & A. M., having demitted from the lodge at Flesherton, Ont., where he was made a Master Mason before going to California. Mr. Percy was engaged in fruit growing, and was a fine type of citizen. He was proud of his family of ten children, six of his sons being in the recent war. Mrs Percy died in December, 1922 and Mr. Percy has been failing in health since her death.

Goes To Ottawa When Parliament Opens—Is Only 11 Years of Age and Gave Fine Address — 15 In The Contest

It is many a day since the auditorium of the high school has seen such a crowd as congregated within its walls on Saturday afternoon last to witness the public speaking contest mothered by Miss McPhail, M.P., with the object of promoting this art among the school children of the county. The large audience of 400 people is all the evidence required to prove that her efforts have been amazingly successful.

There were sixteen contestants present, only one of the list failing to enter, the prize winner of Collingwood township school fair, Harold Bowser. Had this young man been present every township in the county would have been represented except Normanby. It was a revelation to the large audience when they realized the wonderful quality of the talent displayed by these sixteen little people, and the judges had one of the hardest jobs they have ever undertaken. The gentlemen who held this unenviable position were Rev. P. T. Pilkey, Presbyterian minister of Owen Sound, Rev. W. J. Gallagher, Presbyterian minister of Meaford and Mr. Dorrance, Agricultural Representative at Orangeville. These gentlemen had an arduous task before them, and one which we believe they did well.

Miss McPhail, as was her right, acted as Mistress of Ceremonies. She explained how she had conceived the idea and paid a high tribute to Mr. Cooper of the Agricultural Department for his hearty co-operation.

Rev. H. H. Eaton of Flesherton conducted community singing while Miss Dunham presided at the piano. After every three or four speeches had been given the singing was indulged in, to relieve the monotony, which was effectually done. It was a great big happy gathering that did not tire during the two and a half hours that it took to complete the program. There were three prizes: First a gold medal or trip to Ottawa, as chosen; Second a bronze medal, and Third a silver medal. The first was won by Miss Maxine Lyons of Markdale, and this clever little lady of course chose the trip to Ottawa. She knows how, but she wants to see with her own eyes, "How Canada is Governed." The second place was given to Miss Madge Abercrombie of Griersville, winner in the St. Vincent school fair, while third place went to Miss Doris Taylor, daughter of the Reeve of Osprey, and honorable mention was made publicly of the speech on "Citizenship" by a tiny girl, Margaret Donovan of Sullivan.

The proceedings closed with the National Anthem, everyone feeling that it was time well spent in listening to these wonderful little budding public speakers, and also feeling that the idea of competitions of this kind is a good one and an education of the right stamp for the children of the public schools.

The prize winner had her five minute speech timed to the second, which of itself was quite an accomplishment.

SPEECH BY MAXINE LYONS ON SATURDAY AFTERNOON

To understand how Canada is governed we must first remember that Canada is a part of the British Empire and all the white man's lands of the Empire have parliaments of their own, and their citizens are free to elect those who make the laws and levy the taxes. Though our Governor-General is appointed by the Imperial Government to represent the King, Great Britain has given to us the fullest right of self-government and legislates for us only upon those matters which are of concern to the British Empire as a whole.

Canada's form of government is federal; thas is to say, it consists of one general or Dominion government having jurisdiction throughout the whole Dominion of Canada, over certain matters that are common concern to all the provinces and secondly of nine local or provincial governments having jurisdiction within their respective provinces over matters of local concern.

The Dominion Parliament controls the criminal law, the militia, post offices, railways, tariff, inland revenue, trade relations with other countries and in general, all matters of national interest.

You ask me, "Just how do the people control these matters?"

Well, the government of the Dominion is carried on by a Governor-General, at present Lord Byng of Vimy; an Executive Council and a Parliament composed of two houses, the Senate and the House of Commons. The members of the Senate are appointed by the Governor-General, that is, in practice, by the Executive Council. The members of the House of Commons are elected by the people of Canada, on the franchise of both sexes, the Dominion being divided into constituencies for the purpose of election.

While the House of Commons and the Senate, with the consent of the Governor-General, enact the laws. Their enforcement is entrusted to the Executive Council, which is really the government of the country. The Executive Council or Cabinet, whose members are chosen from the House of Commons and the Senate, has as its leader the Premier or Prime Minister, at present Hon W. L. Mackenzie King. Now the Executive Council must possess the confidence of the House of Commons and thus you see it is the direct representation of the people.

I shall tell you next about the management of the Provincial Parliaments. The Provincial Parliaments control all Provincial officials, elections, caritable institutions, administration of justice in the province and matters of a merely private nature in a province. The government is administered by a Lieutenant-Governor, who is appointed by the Governor-General on the advice of the Dominion Cabinet, an Executive Council chosen from the members of the Legislative Assembly and a Legislative Assembly elected by the people of the province.

The Executive Council must possess the confidence of the Legislative Assembly or else resign.

Every British subject man or woman over twenty-one years of age and a resident of the province has the right to vote and to become a candidate for a seat in the Legislature.

So you see most assuredly it is we, the people, who govern Canada, and when we look back to the time when the first Dominion Parliament met at Ottawa on the Seventh of November, 1867, and see our growth from weak and divided provinces to one great united Dominion, it encourages us to look forward to a still wider federation when all the nations of the world shall live in peace.

THE PEPTIMIST

The peptimist is one who works with most exceeding vim and sets example to the shirks who may keep tab on him. So many men with dragging feet go to their tasks each day, with frowns they shuck the ears of wheat and thresh the bales of hay. With scowls they ply the shining saw or wield the useful churn; they're only happy whenk they draw the pay they think they earn. And when there is a slump in trade, and workmen must be fired, these delegates are first to fade—they've made the bosses tired. The peptimist has taken pride in labors safe and sane, whatever tool he may have plied, a corkscrew or a plane. He did not go with dragging step when morning whistles blew; in every motion there was pep, no sulky fits he threw. And when a slump in trade appears, and workmen are laid off, the boss announces through his tears, "We'll keep this hustling toff. We can't afford to let him go he's such a useful man; we'll keep him, though to Tom and Joe we must attach the can." This peptimist is in demand wherever commerce dwells; he makes his progress through the land, and wears his string of bells.—Walt Mason
