MILTON, Nov. 1, 1900.

Nominations for the electoral district of Halton took place here yesterday before D. Robertson, returning officer. D. Henderson was nominated by the Conservatives and S. F. McKinnon, of Toronto, by the Liberals. A public meeting was held after the nomination, which was largely attended by the electors. Speeches were delivered by the candidates and T. C. Robinette, of Toronto, for the Liberals. All the speakers were listened to with close attention.

Nominations were duly held yesterday in 208 of the 213 constituencies of the Dominion. There were but two elections by acclamation, one going to the Liberals in Quebec, where Mr. Lavergne was unopposed in Drummond and Arthabaska, and the Conservatives securing the second in Ontario, where Mr. Seagram was declared elected for North Waterloo, in the absence of an opponent. The five constituencies in which nominations are to come are Nipissing in Ontario Yale and Cariboo and Burrard in British Columbia, and Gaspe and Chicoutimi in Quebec, all of them of vast extent, and containing each many points difficult of easy access. The acclamations are fewer than usual, there being generally three or four. In 1896 there were four, two Liberals, one Conservative and one Independent.

There were no special surprises in the nominations. In Quebec Liberals and Conservatives have each doubled once or twice, and in South Huron, West Elgin and North Norfolk there are two Liberals in the field. John McEwen is contesting South Huron with Mr. Macmillan; in West Elgin Geo. E. Casey and Mr. McGuigan, Liberals, and Jabel Robinson, Patron, are contesting, and in North Norfolk Mr. Charlton is being opposed by J. C. Ross, also a Liberal.

In Quebec Sir Adolphe Caron, who was crowded out of Three Rivers, is standing for Maskinonge, making it a three-cornered contest.

In Toronto all three ridings will see three-cornered contests, A. McFarren running as an Independent candidate in East Toronto, and Dr. Hargrave and H. Stevenson standing as Independents in Centre and West Toronto respectively. In Winnipeg the contest will be again between Mr. Putee and E. Martin, both running as Independents, as in the case of the last bye-election in that city.

Though not connected with the Federal contest, it may be added that the Ontario Government also carried a seat by acclamation yesterday, namely, in North Waterloo, L. J. Breithaupt, was declared elected in the absence of an opponent.

Manitoba Cabinet Sworn In.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 29.—Hon. Hugh John Macdonald has tendered his resignation of the Premiership of Manitoba to Lieutenant-Governor McMillan, and R. P. Roblin was called upon to form a Government.

The new Provincial Cabinet was sworn in at noon to-day, and consists of the following gentlemen:—

Hon. R. P. Roblin—Premier and President of the Council, and Minister without portfolio.

Hon. J. A. Davidson—Provincial Treasurer.

Hon. D. H. McFadden—Minister of Public Works.

Hon. Colin H. Campbell, Q.C.—Attorney-General.

Hon. Robert Rogers—Minister without portfolio.

Mr. Roblin, in accepting the Presidency of the Council, vacates his seat for Woodlands, and a writ for the bye-election has been issued. Nomination day will be on Thursday, Nov. 8th, and polling on the 15th, the writ being returnable on the 26th.

From South Africa.

London, Oct. 29.—According to a despatch from Cape Town to the Daily Mail, a force of Boers attacked and surrounded a patrol of Cape police with a convoy near Hoopstad, Orange River Colony, last Wednesday, and a sharp fight ensued.

"The police," says the correspondent, "were compelled to abandon two Maxims. Ultimately reinforced by the Yeomanry, they succeeded in getting away with the convoy but lost seven killed, 11 wounded and 15 captured. The Colonials were outnumbered 10 to 1 and the engagement lasted two hours. The Boers have 15,000 men in the field, nearly half of whom are in the Orange River Colony. These are divided into commandoes of some 300 each but are capable of combination for large operations."

The War Office has received the following from Lord Roberts, dated Pretoria, Oct. 28th:—

"Knox successfully engaged De Wet on Oct. 27th. During the Boer retreat Knox caught De Wet in the Rensburg Drift. The Boers lost considerably and left two guns and three wagons in Knox's hands. Another ammunition wagon was blown up by a shell. The British casualties were nil."

Referring to the Jacobsdal affair, Lord Roberts says it was due to the treachery of the inhabitants, who admitted the Boers to their houses at night. They opened fire at daybreak. Fourteen men were killed and thirteen were wounded, mostly Cape Highlanders.

Troops despatched from the Modder River drove off the Boers.

The houses of the treacherous inhabitants were destroyed. Commandant Bosman was killed.

A despatch received here from Pretoria announces the death from enteric fever of Prince Christian Victor of Schleswig - Holstein, a grandson of Queen Victoria. He was born in 1867, and was a major in the King's Royal Rifles.

London, Oct. 31.—A belated despatch from Pretoria tells of the failure of the British negotiations with General Botha for the surrender of the Boers.

Botha received General Paget's flag of truce courteously and admitted his defeat, but said it was impossible to treat for surrender as long as any Burghers wished to continue the war.

President Steyn was more irreconcilable. He refused to even see the bearer of a flag of truce.

A verdict of $750 and costs was given in favor of Wm. Owens in an action against the Town of Owen Sound for damages for injuries sustained through falling over a grating, which had been left on the sidewalk.

COAL WILL STAY UP.

The Secretary of the Wholesale Coal Dealers' Protective Association says:—"It will be impossible for any of the companies to start up all their mines for two reasons. In the first place, many of the miners, who are mostly Welshmen, Italians and Hungarians, have gone back to Europe, and in the next place the protracted drought in the anthracite region has caused a shortage of water. As the mine owners are paying 10 per cent. increase in wages, coal will remain all winter long at least 50 to 75 cents a ton higher than before the strike, no matter how much is mined. The first coal taken from the mines on resumption of work will go to the line trade; next the west will be supplied, because higher prices are obtained in the west, then the Boston market, and, last of all, the north river trade."

ONE OF NATURE'S ODDITIES.

Phenomenon That Follows Digging In Trinidad's Asphalt Lake.

Few people who travel over the asphalted streets of New York are aware of the origin of the black, pitchy mass that goes to make up the basis of the smooth roadway under their feet. Eighteen hundred miles, almost due south from New York, lies the little tropical island of Trinidad, a British possession off the coast of northern South America. At the southwestern extremity of this colony the famous Pitch lake is located on the summit of a small hill less than 200 feet above the level of the sea. In appearance there is nothing phenomenal about this wonder of the tropics, but a visit to the lake, as it is familiarly called, reveals one of the most unaccountable oddities of nature in the annals of travel.

The tourist may take passage to the "land of the humming bird," as Trinidad people like their community to be called, and after securing accommodation at the only decent hotel in the colony proceed to the lake by one of the small government steamers plying coastwise three times weekly, disembark at the Brighton pier and proceed to the scene of the "digging." Of all the crude, rough and ready means of extracting wealth from Mother Earth the Trinidad lake asphalt operations are the most striking. The visitor arrives on a fairly level plateau, spotted here and there with tiny pools of water, beneath which the soft, shiny substance known as asphalt glitters in the reflections of a fierce tropical sun. Scattered over the surface of the lake dozens of swarthy negroes are plying pick and hoe, extracting the tar coaly looking stuff from the earth.

One may sit in the shade of a nearby shrub or under the protecting shade of an umbrella and watch the negroes pile heap after heap of the asphalt into the endless chain of tubs that hurry along to the pier from which one has but recently landed until a yawning excavation of 20 or more feet suggests to the supervising darky that the time has come to move a bit farther on. In the course of a few hours the excavation resulting from the morning's digging begins to look less deep, and by eventide the spot from which more than five or ten tons have been dug is again level with the surrounding earth and ready to be dug over by the gang of noisy blacks. From the point of digging to the pier is but a mile or less of endless chain descent. Moored to the pier are big sailing vessels and sometimes steamers, into whose capacious holds the tubs discharge the pitch at the rate of 200 or 300 tons per day.

On the voyage to Trinidad, West Indies, and during the traveler's stay there many other objects of interest may be "taken in." Within a few miles of the city of Port of Spain is the Blue basin, a lofty waterfall culminating in a valley of gorgeous tropical verdure. Eight miles in an opposite direction are the Maracas falls, of equal beauty and novelty, while all around the city and suburbs are villages of Indians in their primitive gatherings of tribes and castes, but quite alert in their readiness to make money by the sale of queer relics of their craft.

There is but one direct line of steamers to Trinidad and one to the neighboring islands of the Antilles. The rates of passage are reasonable enough, although the accommodation leaves something to be desired. The voyage requires anywhere from 9 to 12 days, according to the point of disembarking, and the cost of a round trip of five or six weeks may be covered by the prudent tourist for an expenditure of $300.

Fatal Railway Accident.

The deadly open switch was responsible for another regrettable and fatal catastrophe on the G.T.R. last Saturday evening. The passenger train due to arrive here at 6 o'clock dashed off the track 1½ miles from Hamilton and plunged into a deep ditch at the switch leading to the Smelting Works' spur line. The train consisted of an engine, two baggage cars and three passenger coaches and was in charge of Conductor Pegg. Engineer Walter Holden was at the throttle and was assisted by Fireman Charles Southerst.

Within a few feet of the scene of the accident the new T. H. & B., smelting works' spur line crosses the N. & N. W. About 50 yards to the west the Grand Trunk's spur line branches off to the north. To control these two places and protect through trains from danger a derailing and switch moving apparatus has been put in. The work was all but completed when the affair happened, under the direction of Foreman Nicholson. Mr. Nicholson stated when questioned that the switch causing the accident had not been connected up with the tower, but was spiked to allow trains to go past on the main line. Two theories suggest themselves, one that the narrow flanges on the engine wheels forced the switch open; the other that the switch was open when the engine struck it.

After leaving the rails the engine bumped along the ties for 20 or 30 yards and then plunged into the ditch on its left side. The tender was completely turned over and covering it were the two baggage cars, the first one with the front end down and the second one in an opposite position, the two forming a pyramid over the cab and tender of the engine. Scarcely a rod or pipe of the latter but what was bent and twisted in odd fantastic shapes.

The warning of danger came so suddenly to the engineer and fireman that they had no time to save themselves and were pinned in under the wreck. Holden was wedged in between the fire box and part of the cab and it took nearly an hour before he could be released. His legs were crushed and scalded, but he bravely stood the terrible strain, fainting only once just before he was released from his perilous position.

It was after fully half an hour of searching before Fireman Southerst was discovered. He was found under the tender completely covered with coal and debris. Shortly after he was found he regained consciousness and talked to his rescuers and suggested to them different means of release. Four men with shovels and axes, were relieved by new workers every five minutes and after two hours of hard labor the debris was removed, the tender propped up by jacks and the fireman removed from what nearly came to be his grave. He was badly battered up and bruised and was taken to the city hospital where Engineer Holden had been conveyed previously. Later the fireman was taken to his home, where he now lies in a precarious condition.

Engineer Holden suffered terrible agony. His left leg was literally roasted from ankle to hip. He was also seriously injured internally. He died on Sunday afternoon.

Rev. Mr. White, of Grace Church, and Mr. Maxted, of Norval, who was on his way here to visit his brother, were on the above mentioned train. They arrived at Milton about 11 o'clock.

As some warm moment of repose
In one rich rose
Sums all the summer's lovely bloom
And rare perfume—
So did her soul epitomize
All hopes that make life wise,
Who lies before us now with lidded eyes,
Faith's amaranth of truth
Crowning her youth.

As some melodious note or strain
May so contain
All of sweet music in one chord
Or lyric word—
So did her loving heart suggest
All dreams that make life blest,
Who lies before us now with pulseless breast,
Love's asphodel of duty
Crowning her beauty.

A Boston teacher with a noteworthy record of long service is Miss Sarah Fuller, who has been principal of the Horace Mann School For the Deaf ever since it was opened, nearly 31 years ago.

Charlotte Bronte was once the governess of the little boy who became the late Professor Sidgwick. It is remembered that she did not particularly enjoy her days of tuition in the Sidgwick family.

Jenny Lind is said to have saved the old Whig party once by singing "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth" in a way that affected the conscience of an opponent who was plotting to stuff the ballot box.

Mrs. Charles H. Stephens of Avondale, O., is said to have the finest collections of palms of any amateur collector of flowers and plants in this country. She has many rare specimens from Brazil and other climates.

Sarah Bernhardt was so displeased with the performance of the Japanese company of players given at Loie Fuller's theater in Paris for her especial delectation that she left in indignation before the show was over, saying the Japanese acted like monkeys. The French are said to be the most polite people in Europe; Japan is said to be the most polite nation on earth.

Lady Hopetoun, the vicereine of the new Australian confederation, is an excellent shot. When she was in New Zealand, she delighted the colonials by exhibitions of her skill. She presented a local club at Auckland with a fine buck which she shot when deer stalking in that district. She also competed at local ranges in different parts of the country, and her frequent bullseyes drew loud applause.

BEE BUZZES.

Combs should always be handled with care, as they are very easily broken.

During the winter a fair sized colony need not occupy more than four combs.

If chaff hives are to be used for wintering, they should have the sides tongued and grooved.

The bee smoker is an assistant in the apiary that makes the handling of bees a trivial matter.

Bees consume more honey when wintering on summer stands, but hardly double the quantity.

If granulated honey is wanted in liquid form, place the vessel in boiling water until the honey is melted.

Bees require salt. One of the cheapest and best ways of supplying it is to take a salt barrel that has just been emptied, dampen it and place it where the bees can have access to it.

An oversupply of drones is objectionable, as they consume a considerable quantity of honey and do not add a particle in laying up stores. The rearing of them may be controlled by the use of worked comb.

Comb building is done but once and undergoes no change thereafter. Good honeycombs, if well cared for, can be made to do service for 20 years or more. When first made they are of pure beeswax.

THE VERDICT.

Chicago is bound to have her finger in the pie. She swiped the tail end of the Texas cyclone.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

The electric car funeral is at last an established innovation. The electric car has made many funerals, and it may very well serve as a hearse now.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

With Lord Roberts as commander in chief and Lord Kitchener war secretary in the reorganized English cabinet there would be a rare old rattling of the dead bones.

The successful propagation of seedless fruits may ring the deathknell of the appendicitis fad, but it will not take the enterprising medicos long to discover something new to cut after.—Denver Post.

The ship that sailed to relieve Peary is lost, but her crew has been saved. Relief ships that themselves need relieving can scarcely do much in aid of arctic research. They cut no ice, as it were.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A love affair in a Seminole Indian camp resulted in the death of four braves and the suicide of the maiden. "'twas ever thus. Contact with civilization robs the noble red man of his stoicism and makes him sensitive as a woman.

THE YOUNG LADY.

Unless she is a hostess a lady need not rise when a gentleman is introduced to her.

"A man is known by the company he keeps;" this applies equally to a woman.

When shopping, do not order assistants about; a lady never forgets to be thoughtful for those who serve her.

When visiting, conform to the rules of the house in which you are staying; a visitor should always bear this in mind.

No lady would turn and look behind her in the street; the girl who does so directly courts unpleasant attentions from men who are passing.

Marble Heart.

"Madam," said the tramp to the farmer's wife, "have you any objection to my lying down in one of your fence corners and dying?"

"No objection at all," replied the lady. "Over in that corner you will find a lot of straw."

"I wouldn't dare to lie on your straw, madam," said the tramp. "I'm so hungry that I'd be sure to wake up and find myself eating it."

"We have plenty more," said the farmer's wife pleasantly as she closed the door.

Lights and Shadows.

"Sometimes," said the single woman of acknowledged years, "I regret that I never married, and again I am glad of it. It is hard to decide, though, whether the pleasure of being one's own boss is outweighed by the absence of some one to be boss of or not."

Tallahassee, the flower bedecked capital city of Florida, boasts that it is the only American city founded by a member of the immediate family of Napoleon Bonaparte. Colonel Charles Louis Napoleon Achille Mu.
