BOTH CHURCHES CONTINUING

Church Union came into effect on Wednesday of last week, June 10th, but so far there has not been any change in church services in Flesherton, both Presbyterian and Methodist churches continuing as before. The committee from the both churches, which was working on the problef of union had the the church and prea cher selected, but that seems to be as far as negotiations have gone. The outlying appointments,two of the Presbyterian and one Methodist cannot be allowed to drift off and the two ministers are needed to administer to the field and the Methodist conference has appointment a new minister to come to the Methodist church until details are worked out.

This will allow the churches to combine services and cut down overlapping, which is expected will be accomplished within a few months.

THE CHRYSILIS OPENS

Last week the Christian Guardian ceased to exist as such after 95 years of continuous publication. It first appeared in November 1825. At the same time the new butterfly,under the name of The New Outlook, broke from its chrysalis, a wonderful number, giving a synopsis of the activities of the three churches, which have entered the Union. The Guardian in its farewell article says: "Had the end come in any other way it surely would have brought great sadness of heart to many people; coming as it does, and as a result of the consummation of the great enterprise of union, all sorrow that there might have been is swallowed up in a sense of gratitude and rejoicing."

No. 1 of The New Outlook is a paper worthy of preservation as a record of the consummation of the greatest church forward movement ever known in Canada.

Garden Party A Succsss

Success, was the result of the garden party, held at the home of W. J. McFadden, Orange Valley on Friday evening last. The beautiful home and grounds were thrown open to the public in aid of the Markdale Ladies' Aid of the old Methodist church, which we must now call the United Church.

Flesherton and Markdale High school girls played soft ball, which resulted in a win for the Flesherton damsels, the score being 14—8. An excellent supper was served and music throughout the evening was supplied by the Markdale band.

The program was good and varied from "I love them all a little bit." by a soloist from Durham, to "Women's Influence," commented on by Agnes C. McPhail, M.P., and "Church Union," by Hon. Dr. Jamieson, M.P.P. The Durham quartette interspersed the program with some well rendered selections. The proceeds amounted to over $150.

Grey County Beekeepers' Association Meets

Grey County Bee Keepers Association held their spring meeting in the Department of Agriculture office in Markdale on Friday, June 12th, which was attended by about fifty bee keepers from all parts of the County.

President Showell of Owen Sound opened the meeting in his usual capable manner and called on Professor F. Eric Millen of the O.A.C., Guelph, who addressed the members on Registration, Apiary Inspection, special restrictions on beekeepers, selling and buying bees and supplies in which he explained that anyone is liable to prosecution, if he sells bees without first having them inspected by an authorized inspector, after which he must receive a permit from the department of Agriculture.

The inspector for this district is Otto G. A. Knoerck, R. R. 4 Elmwood Ont., and application blanks may be secured from T. Stewart Cooper, Markdale Ont.

These special restrictions are being placed in an effort to clean up bee diseases and thus eliminate to a great extent the losses of tremendous sums of money each year throughout the province.

Professor Millen described the three diseases, namely, American Foul Brood, European Foul Brood and sac brood, giving symptoms, causes, results and treatment, which may be studied by obtaining a bulletin from the department of Agriculture on Bee diseases. Prof. Millen pointed out that anyone who was not or apparently could not make a success of beekeeping was very foolish to pursue the vocation but to sell them to someone who could handle them with pleasure and profit. He gave illustrations of diseased combs being infectious after being out of the hive for twenty years, showing that all diseased comb should be burned or melted down into wax. The safest burn the bees and contents of the hive. This leaves no chance for further infection.

Inspector Knoerck gave a clever and witty talk on co-operation and described the need of funds, to be should be used to pay the expenses of professional inspectors, and that a levy of nine cents per colony tax, would enable the government to spend thousands of dollars for the benefit of the beekeppers.

Mr. Knerock spoke of the Ontario explained how much easier it is to sell all your honey in one day than it used to be to sell three pounds to one customer and one to the next. With the present system of grading and marketing, the consumer gets a guaranteed product, and the producer gets an honest price for his production.
