The Canadian Champion

MILTON, May 19, 1904.

English office, 30 Fleet Street, London, E. C., where Messrs. E. and J. Hardy & Co. will receive for us news, subscriptions and advertisements, and where our readers can, free of charge, see our paper when in England.

The application of E. A. Dunlop, M. P.P. for North Renfrew was heard al the Court of Appeal, Toronto, on Monday, before Chief Justice Moss. Mr. Dunlop asked for the committal of Rev. J. A. Macdonald, managing editor of the Globe, for contempt of court in publishing an editorial headed "A Celebrated Election Case," which commented on the large amount of Mr. Dunlop's expenses. Mr. Aylesworth, on behalf of Mr. Macdonald, pleaded justification. Judgment was reserved.

At a meeting of the town council held on Monday evening it was decided that sections of sidewalk on several streets, which are in bad condition, shall be replaced with cement walks instead of being repaired. Altogether considerably over one thousand yards of cement walks will be laid down. At the same meeting steps were taken for the municipal ownership of the electric light plant, which will be purchased from the company which owns it, if this can be done at a reasonable price. Milton has a progressive council, backed up by progressive citizens.

The appointment of a County Crown Attorney for Wentworth to succeed the late John Crerar, K.C., has been made by the Ontario Government with commendable promptness, and the choice of the Government, S. F. Washington, K. C., is approved by the bar of Wentworth and all the Hamilton newspapers.

Halton's late County Attorney died on the 20th ult., some time before Mr. Crerar, but so far no appointment has been made. The vacancy is one which should have been filled promptly and no good reason is apparent for the way in which its filling has been delayed.

THE WAR.

The startling news that two Japanese vessels, one a battleship the other a cruiser, struck mines off Port Arthur on Monday and sank, will be received with great reserve, and it is likely to be merely another attempt of the Chefoo romancer to maintain his reputation.

The official announcement from St. Petersburg that General Kuropatkin is abandoning his positions around Liaoyang and preparing to retreat to Mukden—or Harbin, if necessary—definitely marks the end of the first stage of the war. That the Japanese will press the retreating Russians, cutting off detachments wherever possible, is a matter of course, but unless they can cut the railway north of Mukden and meet the Russians there within a few days the retreat will be safely made. There have been heavy rains for some time and the roads have been impossable for the Japanese artillery. This has affected the Russians also in their retreat, for a story comes to hand to-day that near Mukden the torrential rain caused a washout and a train was wrecked at the spot, with the loss of thirty lives. The greatest difficulty the Russian General has to overcome is the disposition to be made of supplies. There must be thousands of tons of foodstuffs lying around the base at Liaoyang, and much ammunition and equipment. The bulk of these things will have to be burned, for the Japanese are too close to warrant the encumbering of the army with them.

When Kuropatkin withdraws to Harbin, and the cross of St. Andrew flies only over Port Arthur in all southern Manchuria, the Japanese will be in a position to spend the rainy season in getting a good grip of the country so that they may meet the foe returning next fall, as he no doubt will, with a mighty army.

The reduction of Port Arthur will be the task of the summer months. Already the Japanese are closing in on the defences. The Russians have dismantled the forts at Kinchow, the point where the peninsula is only three miles wide. There has been some serious fighting in the vicinity, in which the Japanese had 146 casualties, including nine officers killed. As Dalny has been destroyed and evacuated, the garrison at Port Arthur holds now less than twenty miles of the extreme point of the Liaotung peninsula. The Japanese say they have no intention of carrying the city by storm, but that may be taken with a grain of salt. If the Baltic fleet ever sails from Europe the War Board of Tokio would willingly pay 10,000 lives for the possession of Port Arthur, and we have seen enough of the Japanese national spirit to know that the army would make the sacrifice without for a moment flinching.

Wentworth Vacancy Filled.

S. F. Washington, K.C., of Hamilton, has been appointed County Crown Attorney for the County of Wentworth, to succeed the late John Crerar, K.C. Mr. Washington was a candidate for the Ontario Legislature at the last general election, but was defeated by Lieut.-Col. J. S. Hendrie, M.P.P.

The Butter Trade.

The butter trade of Canada is demoralized at present. Commission houses are overstocked and there is no demand for export butter. It is explained that Australia and New Zealand have increased their shipments to Britain by thousands of tons over those of last year. It is impossible to say how long the present state of affairs is likely to last.

At Philadelphia C. D. Warren of Toronto was elected President of the reorganized Lake Superior Company.

BONE FOOD

Soft and crooked bones mean bad feeding. Call the disease rickets if you want to. The growing child must eat the right food for growth. Bones must have bone food, blood must have blood food and so on through the list.

Scott's Emulsion is the right treatment for soft bones in children. Little doses every day give the stiffness and shape that healthy bones should have.

Bow legs become straighter, loose joints grow stronger and firmness comes to the soft heads.

Wrong food caused the trouble. Right food will cure it.

In thousands of cases Scott's Emulsion has proven to be the right food for soft bones in childhood.

"They Were Men in Those Days."

According to a writer in The Guelph Herald, the athletes of the present time are not to be compared with the men who performed on the field and track in the "good old days." In an entertaining article anent the prowess of Charles Biggar, of Toronto, who was a champion of champions, the reminiscences as follows:—

"I saw Charlie Biggar in town yesterday." It was a well known resident who spoke—a good amateur athlete himself in his day, and still a warm patron of honest sport.

"Charlie was the best all-round lightweight athlete that ever donned a pair of running shoes," the speaker continued. "He was a top-notcher in a hundred yards dash, and was even better in the Sheffield distance. Did you ever see him go over the hurdles? Instead of stopping, he seemed to gain speed at every hurdle. As a matter of fact he could give Charlie McIvor one hurdle in five, and McIvor was the greatest speed merchant on the flat in his day."

"How old is Charlie Biggar?" inquired some one.

"Go and ask Tom Buck, who works for the Guelph Foundry Company. He knows. Charlie was born in Halton county some time during the last century. That's all I'm certain of. He may be seventy, but he does not look more than forty, because he has always lived a regular, abstemious life and has taken good care of himself. Charlie's first race, I have heard him say, was in Milton and in that contest he beat Tom Buck out by an eyelash."

"What about his contest with Johnston?"

"Oh, that was in 1879—yes, September, 1879, I think. The match took place on the Maple Leaf grounds. E. W. Johnston was then the recognized lightweight champion of the world. There were nine events, and Biggar, if I mistake not, won five. Some world records were broken that day. They cut out the sod twenty-five feet from the take off for the running long jump. Johnston laughed as he looked at it, but Biggar said, "I'll put my toes to that sod to-day, Johnston." And he did. His actual jump was 24 feet 1½ inches. Standing jump with weights he covered 13 feet 5½ inches. I would like to have a photograph of Biggar in the air on a long jump. He seemed to gather himself together like a ball. He often cut himself in both forearms with the outer spikes of his shoes in the act of jumping.

"Over in New York he made a foolhardy record. To get to the dressing room the runners had to climb up the front or walk to the end of the grand stand. Biggar stood on the fence in front of the grand stand and jumped across and up to the first railing of the stand, several feet from the ground. It was a long and a high jump, but its daring lay in the fact that he had to balance himself perfectly on lighting. Many athletes have pointed out that jump, but none has attempted to repeat it to this day. I have often seen Biggar turn two tumblers upside down on a bar and from the floor light on them as easily and as accurately as if they were a foot in diameter.

"Charlie Biggar's career as an athlete virtually ended with his trip to England. He won two big handicaps at Blackburn, with over sixty starters. He also won the Preston Handicap and several private matches. No, we are not producing athletes like Charlie nowadays." And the old sport lit his pipe and turned to analyze the day's baseball scores.

NOTE.—Charley Biggar made his athletic debut in Milton in the early '70's, at a celebration of the 24th of May, when he won a number of prizes and beat Wm. Stewart, a crack local runner in the 100-yd. dash. Stewart was dissatisfied and made a match for $5 a side same day, which Biggar won. Later Biggar ran here against Tom Buck, of Lowville, for $25 a side, 100 yds., and won handily. At a later 24th of May demonstration here he won a silver medal, offered to the athlete who won the greatest number of prizes. The late John Orr, who was a fine general athlete, and a crack shot putter, sledge thrower, &c., was a close second.

THE BIG CIRCUS COMING.

The announcement that Ringling Brothers' World's Greatest Shows will exhibit in Toronto two days, commencing Monday, June 6, Hamilton, Wednesday, June 8, will be received with more than usual interest by the people of this neighborhood. The Ringling Brothers have a name that stands for all that is new, novel and entertaining in the circus line, and the management announces that this season the show has been enlarged to such an extent that a whole extra train is used in addition to the four trains of last season. The show is now transported from place to place in eighty-five seventy-foot cars, constructed especially for the Ringling Brothers. In connection with the circus proper, in which the arenic performance is marvelous, the Ringling Brothers are this season presenting the beautiful and sublime spectacular production of Jerusalem and the Crusades. This pantomimic play necessitates the use of 1,200 actors and actresses and of almost three hundred horses. It is presented on the largest stage ever used for exhibitional purposes. Special excursion rates have been arranged for on all lines of travel by Ringling Brothers, and those who desire to go to Toronto or Hamilton, where this great circus exhibits, can do so at a comparatively small cost. These will be the only points in this vicinity where the circus will exhibit this season and no one should miss the opportunity to see it. Watch this paper for additional announcements.

Alleged Cattle Thieves.

Guelph, May 17.—Early this morning High Constable Merewether and Constable W. Young arrested Henry and Geo. Roth, of Pilkington. They are charged with having stolen a Jersey heifer from S. N. Lasby, of Nassagaweya, in December last. The animal in question was advertised as found by Mr. Watson, having strayed onto his farm.

It is alleged that Henry Roth called to see the heifer in answer to this, but was unable to satisfy Mr. Watson that the heifer was his. He gave his name as Mr. Dickieson, of Pilkington. After having seen the heifer he was able to describe it to his brother, who a day or two afterwards, under the name of Roy L. Weaver, obtained it by paying $5 for its keep.

In the meanwhile the true owner communicated with High Constable Merewether with the result that the heifer was returned to Mr. Watson, and the supposed identity of the alleged buyer traced after considerable trouble. The prisoners were brought before Police Magistrate Saunders, and in the absence of the crown attorney were remanded for a week, bail being furnished, each for $200 and two sureties for similar amounts.

The Champion's Practical Suggestion.

Globe.

The charge of manslaughter against the young man shot a lumberman in mistake for a deer has been dismissed at Parry Sound. Prosecution in such cases is admitted to be useless, but some method of prevention should be devised. Farmers and lumberman are afraid to venture abroad during the hunting season, and wisely so. One practical suggestion is the prevention of the killing of does. That would make every hunter careful to see what he was shooting at.

A London doctor on the British physical inquiry commission says high buildings are in part responsible for the physical degeneration of the city children.

THE POPE'S DOCTOR.

AN INTERESTING SKETCH OF A FAMOUS CHARACTER.

How He Differs From His Canadian Colleagues—An Example Worthy of Being Followed.

Dr. Lapponi, the famous physician to the Vatican, whose name has recently come so greatly to the front on account of his unremitting attention to His Holiness the late Pope, Leo XIII., and the high esteem with which he is regarded by the present Pope, His Holiness Pius X. is a man of commanding genius. But he is something more than that. He is more than a mere man of science. He is a man of original and independent mind. He stands out among medical men of all nations, themselves the flower of the world's intellect, by reason of his fine independent personality. He has had differences with his fellow scientists. But no one has ever disputed for an instant the remarkable nature of his professional attainments or the unflinching integrity of his personal character. He is afraid of no man. But he has a higher courage still. He is not afraid of the bugbear of professional etiquette which frightens even some of the greatest doctors.

As an example of this may be mentioned one very interesting respect in which he has differed from the medical men of his country. The latter are trammelled by medical etiquette. No one disputes their scientific skill or their unselfish devotion their work. But they are limited in their labors by one remarkable scruple. They will prescribe and experiment with drugs of all kinds sanctioned by the Pharmacopocia or newly introduced; but where a medical discovery, even when it is the life-work of a regular practising physician, is recommended to the general pubic by a manufacturer, professional etiquette steps in and frightens them. No matter how overwhelming the evidence of what such a discovery, when sold as a proprietary medicine, has accomplished, they look coldly upon it and will rarely admit that they have used it with success. It would be "unprofessional" to do so! Dr. Lapponi is troubled by no such scruples. For instance, the numerous remarkable cures which have been proved by newspaper reports, independently investigated, to have been accomplished by the medicine sold in Canada under the name of Dr. Williams's Pink Pills for Pale People, must be well known to all Canadian doctors. They have been published far and wide. There can be no doubt of their accuracy. The names and addresses of the men and women cured are freely published. Their statements have been investigated by some of the most important newspapers in this country and abroad. No one has ever attempted to dispute the facts. But Canadian doctors have never cared to admit publicly that they have availed themselves of this discovery. Dr. Lapponi, however, has availed himself of Dr. Williams's discovery, and has, in his own fearless way, had no hesitation in making the fact publicly known. The following letter, with his signature, freely avows the facts and endorses the value of Dr. Williams's Pink Pills with an authority no one will venture to question.

TRANSLATION.

"I certify that I have tried Dr. Williams's Pink Pills in four cases of the simple anaemia of development. After a few weeks of treatment, the result came fully up to my expectations. For that reason I shall not fail in the future to extend the use of this laudable preparation, not only in the treatment of other morbid forms of the category of anaemia or chlorosis, but also in cases of neurasthenia and the like.

(Signed) Dr. Giuseppe Lapponi,

Via dei Gracchi 332, Rome.

The "simple anaemia of development" referred to by Dr. Lapponi is of course that tired, languid condition of young girls whose development to womanhood is tardy, and whose health, at the period of that development, is so often imperilled. His opinion of the value of Dr. Williams's Pink Pills at that time is of the highest scientific authority, and it confirms the many published cases in which anaemia and other diseases of the blood as well as the nervous diseases referred to by Dr. Lapponi, have been cured by these pills, which, it need hardly be mentioned, owe their efficacy to their power of making new blood, and thus acting directly on the digestive and nervous system. In all cases of anaemia, threatened consumption, decline, indigestion, kidney disease and all affections of the nerves, as St. Vitus dance, paralysis and locomotor ataxia, they are commended to the confidence of the public, and now that they have received the emphatic endorsement of so high a professional authority as Dr. Lapponi, the trusted physician of the Vatican, they will be accepted by the medical and scientific world at their true value.

The Upright Judge.

A New York magistrate and his friend were returning from a banquet arm in arm and were giving way to mirth and song when they found themselves confronted by the police. The magistrate made his escape, but on the following day as he sat on the bench, "grave, dignified and alert, as usual," he saw his dear and valued friend charged with being drunk and disorderly. He listened to the charge unmoved beyond a pained expression on his face and, after calling upon the prisoner to explain his conduct, addressed him in his most severely judicial manner and in scathing tones. Never had he heard a more disgraceful case, and it was so much the more disgraceful from the fact that the prisoner evidently was respectably connected and moved in what was called (here he became very sarcastic) good society. He felt it was a matter where leniency would be surely out of place, and the fine must be the maximum which the law allowed.

Extraordinary Legal Document.

One of the most remarkable legal papers on file in the archives of the world is one now in the National museum of Paris, labeled "Sentence on a hog, executed by justice in the copyhold of Clarmont-Avin and strangled upon a gibbet at that place." It is sealed with red wax, kept under a glass, bears date of June 14, 1494, and reads as follows: "We, the jury, in detestation and horror of this crime and in order to make an example and to satisfy justice, have declared, judged, sentenced, pronounced and appointed that the said hog, now detained in the abbey as a prisoner, shall by the executioner be hung and strangled on a gibbet near the gallows which now stands within the jurisdiction of the monk, being near the copyhold of Avin. In witness of which we have sealed this present with our seals." Following the above are the signatures of the jurors and the prefect of the department de la Aisne.

Old Italian In Corsica.

The Italian who travels in Corsica is delighted to hear almost everywhere around him the obsolete expressions and terminations of Dante, while even the Englishman unacquainted with the "Comedy" is surprised at the sound of Latin words which he thought had fallen entirely into oblivion, such as "Nimo" for "Nessuno" and "Greve" for "Pesante," or with Latinized forms of current words, such as "Piuva" for "Ploggia," "Ista" for "Questa" and "Ejo" for "Io."

The Corsican, however, is an older Italian than that even of the mediaeval poet. It is less specialized on the whole than his, having points of contact with the other dialects, particularly those of Calabria and Sicily, and with the literary languages of Spain and Portugal.—"Studies In Corsica."

The Funny Bone.

A most unpleasant sensation is caused by the violent excitation of the ulnar nerve due to a blow on the elbow. This nerve passes down on the inner side of the arm and then rather inconsiderately bends round and enters the forearm at the back of the elbow joint. Any one who has felt his neighbor's elbow sticking into his ribs knows that the elbow is remarkably deficient in flesh. The nerve is therefore at this point very near the surface and has little to shield it from a blow. If we are so unfortunate as to give our elbow a smart tap we obtain a practical confirmation of the fact that the ulnar nerve is the principal sensory nerve of the forearm and hand.

People Who Rarely Wink.

There are people who rarely wink. How they manage to get along without doing so is a marvel, but somehow or other they do. Some eyes are naturally more moist than others, and the very moist eye does not so much need the assistance of the lids to keep the eyeball bright. It is a constitutional matter, for winking, though under the control of the will, is done so quickly that it is practically an involuntary action. Men wink when they feel that the eye is uncomfortably dry, and when it does not become dry the necessity for winking is not felt.

To Preserve the Color of Flowers.

A way to preserve the colors of flowers when pressing them is to immerse the stem of the fresh plant in a solution of 31 grains of alum, 4 of niter and 186 of water for a day or two, until the liquid is absorbed, then press the plant in the usual way, sift some dry sand over the flower and submit to a gentle heat for about twenty hours.

Eggs in the Nest.

All birds have a systematic arrangement in depositing their eggs in the nest, and there are very few species, if any, in which some peculiarity is not to be seen, if careful observation is made. Many birds so plainly and invariably show a tendency to a set arrangement that their habit is generally known.

Dodge the Shadows.

Why destroy present happiness by a distant misery which may never come at all, or you may never live to see it? Every substantial grief has twenty shadows, and most of them shadows of your own making.—Sydney Smith.

Double Action Springs.

First Patient (at the fashionable springs)—What are you here for? Second Patient—To flesh up a little. And you? First Patient—To reduce my weight.

The One to Be Considered.

"Did she consult the groom in fixing the date for the wedding?"

"Oh, no; only the dressmaker."—Chicago Post.

Just the Thing.

Mr. Goodheart—Regarding those kittens, my dear, the president of our society says the most humane way to drown kittens is to put them in an ordinary earthen flowerpot and then suddenly turn the flowerpot upside down in a pail of lukewarm water. Mrs. Goodheart—Why, yes; that is a good idea—isn't it?—because you know there is a hole in the bottom of the flowerpot for the poor little things to breathe through.

Approved of the Idea.

Mr. Ferguson (in wrath)—If you're going to bring a lot of club women to this house to spend the day, you'll have to entertain them yourself. I wash my hands of the whole affair. Mrs. Ferguson—Well they look as if they need it.

London's Cockney District.

"I am a cockney, born in the sound of the great bell of Bow, in London," said an Englishman. "I am a genuine cockney. That term can be properly applied only to a native of east London—a man who was born within the sound of the bell of Bow. The district is composed of foreigners, who take refuge there while fleeing from countries where they do not have liberty. This floating population, composed of anarchists, nihilists, and, in fact, every one who cannot live elsewhere, composes the largest proportion of the inhabitants of the true cockney district."

His Culinary Qualification.

Sir Horace Plunkett once told a story of his ranching days in the west. Riding into camp one evening he turned his horse loose and got some supper, which was a vilely cooked meal, even for a cow camp. Recognizing in the cook a cowboy he had formerly employed, Sir Horace said to him: "You were a way up cow hand, but as a cook you are no account. Why did you give up riding and take to cooking? What are your qualifications anyway?" "Qualifications!" he replied. "Why, don't you know I've got varicose veins?"

Naval Torpedoes.

Torpedoes for the destruction of vessels were first used in the spring of 1861 by the Confederates in the James river. In 1865 the secretary of the navy reported that more ships had been lost by torpedoing than from all other causes. General Rains, chief of the Confederate torpedo service, put the number at fifty-eight, a greater number than has been destroyed in all the wars since.

Portuguese Characteristics.

The men of Portugal are as fond of show as are the women. Their fingers are nearly always loaded with rings, and about their bodies, which are often as round as the bowls of their tobacco pipes, hang chains as thick as ropes, from which are suspended bunches of trinkets.

The Portuguese dandy is very fond of anything that will attract public attention to his much esteemed person. Above his snowy vest he wears a cravat of gleaming colors, while in his buttonhole is stuck a full blown rose of inordinate size. I think I am pretty safe in saying that most of the promenaders I have seen strutting about in the chief thoroughfares on Sunday with a riding whip in their hands and handsome spurs on their heels have never set foot in the stirrup. The spur is to them a sign of nobility which they arrogate to themselves—a relic of the privileges of the old chivalry.—London Standard.
