ACCIDENT NEAR CORBETTON

Fred Porter had a very narrow escape from death Saturday noon last at the railway crossing on the C.P.R. south of Corbetton. In driving a horse over the crossing the driver failed to see the northbound express till it was within a few feet of him—too late to avoid an accident. The animal was killed the buggy smashed and the ocupant thrown violently to the ground in an unconscious condition. Outside of a severe shaking up, Mr. Porter sustained but slight injury. The train was stopped and the crew rendered what assistance they could.

It appears that Mr. Porter who was at a neighboring farm across the track had received a message from home that one of the children had been hurt and for him to hurry home. He proceeded to do so with the above result. It was his own fault, Mr. Porter admits, and feels thankful that his life was spared.

Great Britain has declined a proposal from United States to appoint a customs attache, one of whose duties would be to investigate the prices asked of American buyers by British exporters, claiming the right to inspect the books of the British firms concerned.

KIMBERLEY

We wish the successful entraance pupils our best congratulations. Misses Ora Stafford (hon) Alberta Weber, Hazel Stuart and Milton Flood. We are sorry that so many failed who wrote at and from Kimberley. We had 12 to write and only 4 successful. Also out of the other 7 who tried from other schools, only one was fortunate enough to get through. We cannot understand how it is, as there are some of our best teachers teaching these pupils. Some one from Meaford thinks perhaps other attractions take the attention of many of the pupils. We feel it is not so in most cases here, as many of the pupils were from farms far enough away from such attractons. There were 19 pupils tried at Kimberley in all twelve from the home school. Two from "Rome" are from Duncan, two from Epping school, one from Woodehouse and one from "Sligo." In all there were six different teachers and only two teachers succeeded in getting any through. We know for a fact that the homework was attended to and reports from many of the pupils through the year was good. We have not any axe to grind but are very much interested.
