NAPOLEONIC IDEALS

Prince Victor's Manifesto to the French Nation

In view of the crisis among French Royalists particular interest attaches to an account in the "Figaro" of a conversation which a representative of that paper had with Prince Victor Napoleon. The Prince begins by saying frankly that men were mistaken when they credited him with a blind and systematic species of opposition. He would never join in intrigues which would compromise the nation's interests and paralyze the action of the French Government abroad. Yet it must be admitted that trouble was rife in many quarters, and that authority was lacking.

He thinks, and many politicians, he says are of the same opinion, that Parliamentarism has reached its last phase. The Prince recalls the situation with which the first Napoleon dealt, and of the attitude of the Second Empire towards the social crisis, when it allowed to the working class the right of coalition, which the Republic of 1848 had refused. What France now needed, Prince Victor continued, was a Government of concord and of action, with no more quarrels of parties and coteries.

It was such a Government that the Party of Appeal to the People wished to give to France. It was much keener for reform of institutions than for a change of the personnel. He had not a staff around him anxious for places and favors; he had no cupidity to satisfy. Reaction was never a solution, and the very name of Napoleon was a programme.

"I claim no dynastic right. I am a son of modern France. I remain faithful to the traditions of the French Revolution: sovereignty of the nation, civic equality, liberty of conscience, social progress. I have as little to do with Jacobinism on the Right as with Jacobinism on the Left. I should like to see all the persecutions cease, and never be followed by others. France, who would reject a master, awaits a leader, and it is for her alone to select him freely. The party of the plebiscite is not for revolution, but for evolution. Whatever conception one may have of it, the Republic ought to have at its head a Government that governs."

The Prince concluded by saying that he firmly believed that France would soon return to the great principles represented by the name of Napoleon, which alone could assure order and progress.

Reading for Resting Time.

A glance over the "Table of Contents" of August Canadian Home Journal assures one of many hours of most interesting reading. Under the heading "Fiction" are some excellent short stories. "At the Gate of Silence" is full of the atmosphere of the East with its unfathomable psychological mysteries. "A Visit to the Beaver Dam" not only contains excellent nature sketches, but an unusually clever study of human nature. "May Apples" is a bright sketch, and "Charlie Chipmonk Career," an animal story especially attractive to children. "The Serials," "A Honeymoon in Hiding" and "The House of Windows" grow more interesting every month. "A Woman Rancher in Alberta," by Gertrude E. Seton Thompson is the history of one woman's success and a sketch of farm life in the West. "The Slum Disease and It's Cure" is a subject that may not vitally effect any but large city residents, but is worth reading as a study of city life which will interest every one.

Where the Orange Lillies Grow.

My mate and me are working,
We ain't get time to blow,
And gathering for the winter
The time of frost and snow.
And in the mild September,
When election's on the go,
We'll vote for God's own country
Where the orange lillies grow.

We're Mc Guinnis to the bone,
Our brains are well in front
And we ain't so cursed slow
And we'll vote for God's own country
Where the orange lillies grow.

We like our glorious country
Get your mind up in the blue,
This is not a lynching country;
We will to ourselves be true.
Then, hurrah for Canada's beaver,
The beast can never fail;
There are no flies to speak of,
Not you can't call his tail.

AFTER 7 YEARS SUFFERING

I Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Waurika, Okla.—"I had female troubles for seven years, was all run down, and so nervous I could not do anything. The doctors treated me for different things but did me no good. I got so bad that I could not sleep day or night. While in this condition I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and began its use and wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice. In a short time I had gained my average weight and am now strong and well."—Mrs. Sallie Stevens, R. F. D. No. 3, Box 31, Waurika, Okla.

Another Grateful Woman

London, Ont.—I feel as if I could not tell others enough about the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was so weak and tired that I could not rest nights. A friend recommended your Compound and I soon gained health and strength and could not wish to sleep better. I know other women who have taken it for the same purpose and they join me in praising it.—Mrs. Wm. A. Buffy, 905 Dame St., London, Ont.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has surely cured many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, and nervous prostration.

ELECTRICITY AND BEAUTY

The Electric Age Will at Least Add to Cleanliness

It remains for the philosopher to decide whether the natures of men and women as they exist in the electric age will be, more or less fine than those that were bred in days of greater simplicity, harder work, and less luxury. But this one can say with certainty, that much of the squalor and filth, the dirt that makes both buildings and people look ugly and hideous in our great cities, will have disappeared, and our smoky dens will have become as clean and wholesome as a country glen, trees will grow in our city streets, and if environment counts for anything in the development of the human being, one may say, without much doubt, the people will be a happier, happier, and less sordid race than they have been under the domain of steam and coal. It is to electrical engineering, we believe, that one must look for much of the progress we hope for in the beautification of our towns, the preservation of our buildings, and the reduction of useless labor, and if some of the eerie mystery of a dimly-lighted side-street disappears, and the more garish blaze of an electric lamp shining on a clean and brightly-lighted street takes its place, it is the artist who must accept and the common man who must rejoice.—Railway News.

Mrs. M. Barrett, 692 Mcean St., Montreal, says:

"A horrid rash came out all over my baby's face and spread until it had totally covered his scalp. It was irritating and painful, and caused the little one hours of suffering. We tried soaps and powders and salves, but he got no better. He received his face, got quite thin and worn, and was reduced to a very serious condition. I was advised to try Zam-Buk, and did so. It was wonderful how it seemed to cool and ease the child's burning, painful skin. Zam-Buk from the very commencement seemed to go right to the spot, and the pimples and sores and the irritation grew less and less. Within a few weeks my baby's skin was healed completely. He has now not a trace of rash, or eruption, or eczema, or burning sore. Not only so, but cured of the tormenting skin trouble, he has improved in general health."

Zam-Buk is sold at all stores and medicine vendors, 50c. a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price, 6 boxes for $2.25. A certain cure for all skin diseases, cuts, burns, etc., and for piles.

Moral Effect of Morphine.

North American Journal of Homeopathy: Morphine stands unequalled as a perverter of the moral sense. Whiskey may disturb the imagination and judgment, causing many foolish and unwise actions to follow its use, but morphine strikes deeper and creates a person whom the father of lies may recognize as kindred to himself.

Stories that are the creation of a disturbed brain, told in a manner to appear so intrinsically true that the stories become works of art, are what you will obtain from the habitual user of morphine or cocaine. I know of nothing that will appeal to one of these sufficiently to enable you to get an honest reply to any question of moment you may address to him. If you should receive a truthful reply it will be by accident.

LONG THREADS OF ASBESTOS

They are Now Manufactured a Hundred Yards Long—Discovery of Deposits in Canada

All asbestos lands in Canada which belong to the Crown can be acquired either by purchase or concession or may be occupied and worked under a mining license. Any person may prospect without a license, however.

In 1877 a farmer named Fecteau discovered deposits of importance, and the first real mine began operations shortly afterwards. It is said that the enterprise was a paying one from the start. Seven mines in all were opened in the first few years. One of these is said to have paid $24,000 in one year upon an investment of $6,000.

Asbestos was first mined in Italy, and prior to 1880 it was the only country that produced it at a commercial profit. The Italian asbestos is very silky in appearance and grey to brown in color. Often the fibres are several feet in length.

Asbestos upon leaving the cobbing sheds is sent to the spinning mills in bags holding about a hundred pounds. Upon its arrival, it is first forecarded by a machine similar to the saw-tooth gin used in cotton mills. This separates the tangled fibres, after which a final carding takes place on a regular carding machine. When the asbestos leaves the carding machine it is combed smoothly and the fibres laid parallel in a uniform mass. This mass is treated in a rotary spinning machine.

This first spins it into a coarse yarn, and then draws and spins this yarn until it becomes fine and quite strong. Where a hard, strong thread is required for certain fabrics the asbestos yarn is put into a doubling and twisting machine, where two or more of the yarn threads are combined. Of course, if the asbestos is to be impregnated with rubber a smooth, hard-finished thread is not desirable.

The spinning of asbestos for a long time seemed of great difficulty owing to the manner in which the threads persisted in slipping past each other. Finally it was discovered that under the microscope a thread of asbestos showed a notched surface, and that by means of special twisting the spinning could be made successful. Now, after much experimenting, manufacturers are able to spin a single asbestos thread of 100 yards in length not weighing over an ounce.—India Rubber World.

SOUVENIR FURNACE
(New Idea Series)

Every sale brings others because the Souvenir pleases. The Souvenir is built different—built simply, because scientifically. The firepot cannot leak gas, dust cannot get into the diffusing chamber; the hot air is forced to every room just at the temperature you want it; the grate prevents ashes and trouble.
