QUEER RESULTS FROM FLOODS

In the disasters from floods caused by excessive rainfall in Europe, recorded by cable in the past few days, Holland has not escaped. As a great portion of the Netherlands is under sea level, there will be a busy season of pumping. Holland is only protected from the ravages of the sea by the strong stone walls that are around her; the canals have no flowing outlet; and so soon as these water thoroughfares threaten to overflow their banks, the steam pumps, which replaced those operated by manuel labor, are set to work night and day, to throw the water over the dykes into the North Sea or Zuyder Zee. One island, that of Marken, is the only section of the hundreds of thousand of acres of Dutch mainland that was engulfed by an ocean tidal wave in the middle ages, and its picturesquely attired residents have only managed to keep their houses from being swamped by a strong wall. Even as it is, the main portion of the island is often deluged by tempestuous seas, and the people are given an involuntary bath in salt water that is duly returned to the ocean by pumping when the waters are in a less turbulent mood. There is not fresh water in the island soil, but there is an almost daily rainfall which supplies the islanders with a domestic supply. The resourceful islanders many years ago, at great labor, imported soil for an artificial mound, placing it in the centre of the island. Herein they deposit their dead. If the bodies were buried in orthodox manner, they would be kippered by the oozing salt water!

EDITORIAL NOTES

Turkey has discovered that Great Britain means to carry out the decision of the League of Nations on the question of the Mosul territory. The Turk knows it is better policy to wait, like Micawbar, for something to turn up than to force a conflict with world wide sentiment as well as Britain's strong arm against him. Thus in these last days even the Turk learns.

Now for the sizzle in the Parliamentary arena at Ottawa.

Rumors persist that in the next Ontario election the government will re-establish liquor control with local option proviso. But Mr. Ferguson winks the other eye and says the question has not been even considered by him. One thing is certain. 4.4 has been a decided failure.

Now let us all pull to keep the revival of trade and confidence going.

Most people put their New Year resolutions in cold storage. What are you doing with yours?

Seventy-five per cent. of the Canadian electorate voted at the recent general election. That is a better record than our usual municipal records. This should not be. The man or woman who fails to vote for the best candidate offering does not deserve to have good government.

The first municipal elections in this part of the Dominion were held in Surrey township, Bay of Quinte, in 1790. This is a long time ago; but there has been much progress in these 136 years.

DEER DAMAGE WHEAT

(Durham Chronicle.)

The tale in a local newspaper of this district last week about a deer having been seen on some ones farm in Sullivan township, brings to mind the fact that in this particular section around Durham, the sighting of half a dozen is not considered a novelty any more, sometimes as many as eight or ten being reported among the cattle of some of the farmers of the neighborhood.

Last Saturday night we mentioned the matter to Mr. H. W. Hunt ex-Reeve of Bentick, who said that all fall there have been three of these elusive creatures on his farm three miles West of Durham and that they have been making themselves fully at home in a field sowed to fall wheat. The trio consist of a buck, a doe, and a fawn and Mr. Hunt says that one day recently, when his son Bert was going over the farm with the dog which gave chase when he saw deer and chased them off the place. In leaving, however, the buck manoeuvered around until he got the dog to follow him, thus giving the doe and fawn a good chance to escape. Going across the farm, the buck easily cleared all the fences, and in running on the level he was clearing 36 feet with every jump over the ground. This distance has been verified by actual measurement.

These particular deer have pretty well cropped off the field of eight acres of fall wheat, and being protected, Mr. Hunt can do nothing to keep them away. The question now arises whether or not the Provincial Government should not be responsible for a nuisance that they protect and which in this instance has done quite a lot of damage for which the government is responsible.

A Flesherton man told his wife he thought he was getting ahead at last. "Well, heaven knows, you need one," she replied.

To those who found it impossible to support me I regret that without you we will be unable to adopt and institute a more economical and progressive plan of road improvement in this township.

Might I suggest that in the year we forget our previously formed opinions and prejudices and, with confidence in ourselves and trust in our fellows in both our private and public activities, strive to contribute something to our own and each other's material prosperity and happiness.

Sincerely yours
—ALEX. CAMERON
