Never Again.

(Stouffville Review)

One day this week two young ladies who live not more than a mile from Stouffville Junction took a horse and buggy which had been left in the hotel yard at the junction, and started off in the line. Upon reaching the tracks the horse became frightened at a passing engine, wheeled around and started for home at a lively gait. It got stuck in the road at Hammond's Corner and in trying to get out broke the rig up pretty badly and the girls were pitched out in the mire. This is where the fun ended and when they had to fork up $7.50 for repairs they swore they would never attempt to steal a horse again.

Another Colony of Foreigners.

Acton has been the objective point of a good many emigrants from the countries of Northern and Southern Europe the past year or two. The latest arrival was a lot of sixteen of the natives of the island of Malta, who came to town on Monday to work in the tanneries. They are domiciled on Beardmore Crescent.—Acton Free Press.

MACHINE DISPLACES THE SCRUB WOMAN

A New Invention Spreads Clean Soapy Water, Scrubs up Dirt and Dries Floor in Few Moments

An automatic scrubbing machine has been invented which is claimed to do as good work or even better than a skilled scrubwoman can do on her knees with hot water, soap, brushes and cloths. Little motors run by electricity are placed on wheels and that tanks of hot water and revolving brushes and felt drying cloths are so adjusted that this machine may be run over a floor and the surface thoroughly scrubbed and dried.

This machine is the invention of a New York janitor. It spreads the soapy, clean water, brushes scrub up the dirt, cloths dry the cleaned place and the dirty water is absorbed into another reservoir. The machine may be connected with an electric light fixture after the manner of vacuum cleaners. The motor drives the cleansing brushes at a speed of about 400 revolutions to the minute, and there is an arrangement whereby the pressure of the brushes on the floor may be regulated, bearing down hard over the dirty spots and lighter on the clean places. The scrubber is pushed across the floor as one would push a carpet sweeper or lawn mower, and it does not have to be turned around—the handle is merely swung over. This reverses the pressure on the bristles of the scrubbing brushes and keeps them straight. The inventor claims this is more sanitary than the hand-scrubbing method because it lifts up the dirt and carries it away instead of grinding and rubbing it into the floor. At the same time it looks as though the scrubwoman would still find work to do cleaning out the corners of rooms, the stairways and other such nooks and corners as the machine is too large to work into the corners, where half the dangers from germs are to be found, or to scrub stairs, for obvious reasons.

Early Masonic.

Toronto claims to have the fifth oldest Masonic lodge in Canada. The lodge is Union No. 7 and is 114 years old. Like most of the early lodges it had difficulty in collecting the lodge dues, as real money was scarce in the pioneer days, but there was always a good supply of whiskey on hand. The use of liquor was viewed in a different light in those days and no lodge would think of meeting without spirituous refreshments.

A constitution was drawn up and approved of by the lodge on December 27th, 1799. Amongst other clauses, the following may prove of interest:

The lodge shall meet at John Cook's tavern at the Forty Mile Creek on or before the full moon, on every Thursday on or preceding the full moon.

Every brother shall appear in a decent rig, properly attired, clothing and shoes, otherwise a due decorum will be lost while the lodge is engaged in what is serious and solemn.

If any member be absent one hour after the time appointed he shall be fined 1s. 6d., lawful money of the province, and if absent the whole night, one Spanish dollar, except sickness, or if he live more than three miles from the place of meeting, one good and sufficient excuse. The fines thus paid are to be disposed of for the relief of indigent brethren.

Any member passing (excepted) refusing to serve in any offices of the lodge shall be fined as follows: For the Master, 2s. 6d.; Wardens and Secretary 2s. 6d.; for Deacons, 1s.

If any brother in the lodge curse or swear, or offer to lay wagers, or use any improper language in designated foul manner or corrupt good manners, he shall be fined at the discretion of the Master and the majority.

If any member come disguised in liquor, he shall be admonished by the presiding officer for the first offence; the second offence of a similar kind, he shall be fined one Spanish dollar and the third offence of like kind, he shall be reported to the Lodge, and that member shall be expelled.

UNWRITTEN LAW GOVERNS WARFARE

At Least a Good Many Principles Are Supposed to be Adhered to by Combatants

War—that is, warfare between civilized nations—has its code of etiquette, known as the customs of war, some of which are written, others tacitly agreed to. Obvious examples of fighting etiquette are the rules which protect the Red Cross flag of the ambulance and forbid the use of explosive or, within limits, expanding bullets.

Nominally, a General may use any means in his power to bring his foe to subjection, but there is a well defined boundary line. A leader may cut off his enemy's food and water supply. He may subject him to all the horrors of famine and thirst, but he must not poison his food or water. Suppose a place is besieged and that outside the walls are wells which the besiegers cannot effectively hold and which the besieged can reach under cover of night. The besieger would be justified in sending parties to fill up the wells with earth and stones or to destroy them with dynamite. On the other hand, to pollute the wells with poison or to throw dead animals into them would be an infamy.

A "prisoner of war" has his rights. He may be asked to give his parole to promise not to escape, but he must not be forced to give his parole and is not to be punished for refusing to do so. A prisoner on parole who attempts to escape is liable to be shot, either when escaping or if retaken alive. An unparoled prisoner may also be shot while in the act of escaping; but if recaptured it would be murder to shoot him, and he should not be punished for his attempt, though he may be placed in more rigorous confinement. A prisoner may be compelled to earn his "keep" by working at his trade, if he has one, or by doing work for his captors not of a purely military nature. Thus, he may be ordered to assist in draining the camp in which he is a prisoner, but it would not be fair to put him to building fortifications.

The customs of war justify the employment of spies, but under certain rules. If a soldier voluntarily turns traitor, the other side is entitled to make use of him, but it is not considered proper to tempt a soldier to betray his own side. It thus tempted a man may pretend to turn traitor and deceive the enemy with false information. On the other hand, voluntarily to go over to the enemy, pretending to be a traitor or deserter, would be dishonorable conduct, that is, if the pretended traitor is an officer or soldier. A spy, of course, has no rights, and is at all times liable to be shot or hanged at sight. An officer, or soldier, however, caught in the enemy's camp, must not be treated as a spy, but as a prisoner of war, provided he is not disguised.

If a commander takes part in a charge or persistently exposes himself to fire he must take his chances of being shot, but in big affairs it is not the "game" to detail marksmen to try to "pick off" your opponent's general, though every effort may be made to capture him.

When a city or a town is bombarded public buildings, unless used for defensive purposes, are supposed to be spared so far as possible. When a place is captured, the victorious foe is entitled to seize all treasuries and to on and so sold them to safety, unless to destroy them would be the act of a vandal. When a country is invaded the invader can compel inhabitants to supply him with food and other supplies, and to act as guides, workmen and drivers.

A person who, not belonging to any recognized military force, takes up arms against an invader is liable to be shot when captured. Retaliation is sanctioned by the customs of war. It is military vengeance, and takes place when an outrage committed on one side is avenged by the commission of a similar act on the other.

BLACK DIAMONDS VERY VALUABLE

Costly Stone Used in Drills Composed of Same Material as the Flashing Gems of Commerce

The black diamond is said to be about the substance known [illegible] These gems, though more valuable than the [illegible] white diamond, are used for industrial purposes, as they have no attractive appearance [illegible] than an ordinary bit of stone or fragment of coal, being dark in color and opaque without crystalline form. They are irregular in form and are found in sizes ranging from one-half to 500 karats.

The origin of the black diamond is a subject on which science remains silent. They are found in but one spot on the earth's area of not over 225 miles square in Brazil. Here they are recovered from the gravel and washings of the river beds.

No fine specimens of the gem diamond have ever been found in the black diamond fields. Yet and this is the point over which science has vainly puzzled both black and white or gem diamonds are simply pure carbon, being of practically identical composition.

The gem diamond is transluscent and crystalline in form, while the other is not; the black diamond is harder, tougher, and not so brittle, and there lie the difference ends.

Practically the entire output of black diamonds is used for tipping diamond drills, the precious bits of carbon being set in pieces of soft steel or iron. These diamond-pointed drills will cut through any substance known, and have eaten their way through the hardest known rock down to a depth of 6,000 feet. Ordinary gem diamonds would be crushed under the enormous pressure it is necessary to put upon the drills when the bore has gone to a great depth.

No substance is known which could be used in place of the black diamond for drill points used in boring for mineral deposits, and should the supply become exhausted there would be no more deep borings, as there was none before the black diamond was discovered.

The diamond drill is a decidedly expensive tool, as it is usual to place eight stones in each bit or drill point, and fair-sized stones of three or four karats each are more satisfactory and economical in the long run than small ones. As the carbon is worth about $85 per karat, a single drill armed with stones of medium size would cost in the neighborhood of $2,500.

JUDGING MEN'S AGES

Bachelor Claims Young Women Cannot Do It Correctly

"Women—especially young women—seem to have no capacity for judging a man's age." This is the mature opinion of "Bachelor of Forty," who has made some exhaustive tests in the matter, and has some interesting conclusions to advance. The truth of his statements, he says, can be tested by all, and he is convinced that anyone who cares to take the trouble to find out will discover that men between the ages of 25 and 50 always appear from five to ten years older to the ordinary young women in her twenties. After 50 and up to 65 men appear to these same young women as being from five to ten years younger than they really are. There is, however, a period in the middle thirties when young women seem to judge a man's age fairly exactly.

NOVEL CHEESE KNIFE

Movable Blades Mounted on Rod That Runs Through Middle

An ingenious method of cutting cheese has been designed by a New York woman. A rod has three broad, movable blades slidably mounted upon it. The cheese—the cutter is designed for use on round cheese, by the way—is placed on a dish and the rod thrust through the center. The three blades, being light in weight, can rest on top of the cheese. When a slice or wedge of cheese is desired it can be cut quickly and accurately by pressing down two of the blades with the requisite width between them. Another advantage of this device, and the probable reason for the third blade, is the fact that it keeps the remainder of the cheese fresh by closing the cuts against the air. The blades are about the depth of the usual round cheese and two of them can be kept pressed against the cuts where the inside is exposed.

KEEPS CHEESE FRESH TOO

HAD BAD SORE FOUR YEARS

ZAM-BUK HAS HEALED IT!

Mrs. Wilson, 110 Wickson Ave., Toronto, says: "About four years ago a sore spot appeared on the right side of my face. This spot increased in size until it became about half an inch in diameter and very painful. I went to a doctor, but the ointment he gave me did not have any good effect. The sore continued to discharge freely, and was most painful. I had it cauterized, tried poultices and all kinds of salves, but it was no good, and I continued to suffer from it for four years!

"A sample of Zam-Buk was one day given to me, and I used it. Although the quantity was so small, it seemed to do me some good, so I purchased a further supply.

"Each box did me more and more good, and, to my delight, before I had been using Zam-Buk three weeks, I saw that it was going to heal the sore. In less than a month it was healed!

"I know a lady in the east of the city, whose husband suffered for years with an open sore on his leg. On my recommendation, Zam-Buk was tried in that case. The other day, when I saw her, she told me that it had healed the sore completely.

"My daughter, who lives in Lethbridge, Alta., has also used Zam-Buk with the same satisfactory result. I think it is, beyond all doubt, the finest healing balm known."

Such is the opinion of all persons who have really tried Zam-Buk. It is a sure cure for eczema, piles, abscesses, ulcers, scalp sores, ringworm, cuts, burns, scalds, bruises, and all skin injuries and diseases. 50c. box, all druggists and stores, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. In case of skin disease use also Zam-Buk Soap, 25c. tablet.

MOTHERHOOD SUGGESTIONS

Advice to Expectant Mothers

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for herself. Of course nearly every woman nowadays has medical treatment at such times, but many approach the experience with an organism unfitted for the trial of strength, and when it is over her system has received a shock from which it is hard to recover. Following right upon this comes the nervous strain of caring for the child, and a distinct change in the mother results.

There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children, and indeed child-birth under the right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. The unexplainable thing is that, with all the evidence of shattered nerves and broken health resulting from an unprepared condition, and with ample time in which to prepare, women will persist in going blindly to the trial.

Every woman at this time should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong.

FOX FARMING

Prices Paid for Breeding Purposes Exceeds Pelt Values

A return of three hundred per cent. on the capital involved is what silver-farmers in the Maritime Provinces received, according to a report on fur-farming in Canada. The fur value of a silver fox varies from about $300 to about $2,500 according to the quality of the pelt, but the prices paid for foxes for breeding purposes far exceed this. Ultimately the value of the silver fox must be determined by its fur value and not by the prices now being paid for breeders. It is plain, also, that, in the course of a few years, the numerous ranches in process of formation and which are creating such a demand for breeding stock, will be producing pelts for the market. The principal points at which the industry is carried on are around Alberton, Summerside, Charlottetown and Montague in Prince Edward Island; Quebec city in Quebec; Port Elgin in New Brunswick, and Wyoming in Ontario.

NOBLEST SCIENCE BEST INSTRUCTION

Deep Sympathy Manifested for the Higher Critics.

Pastor Russell In a College City Advocates Bible as Text Book—Value of Learning—Its Cost—Various Kinds of Knowledge—The Most Important One—The Best Teacher—The Most Successful Pupils—Graduation Day.

PASTOR RUSSELL

Ithaca, N. Y., March 16.—Pastor Russell is here; and in view of this being the seat of Cornell University he took as a text the words of the philosopher: "Wisdom from Above, the noblest science, the best instruction." It must be said, however, that the Pastor used various Scriptures, any one of which might have served for a text.

Once the colleges represented, not merely secular education, but the religious sentiment of their founders, usually religious men. To-day, however, colleges are ashamed to acknowledge any religious affiliations; and although they represent high moral principles, nevertheless, they are hotbeds of infidelity—disbelief in the Bible as the Divinely-inspired Revelation. This condition is deplorable.

In the Pastor's opinion the great institutions of learning, so well equipped for the inculcation of faith in God, are doing more to overthrow faith than are all other influences combined. The increase of knowledge he believed to be accountable for the increase of vice. He explained that the undermining of faith in the Bible as the Word of God and the inculcation of the Evolution theory tend to destroy all faith in a personal God and in rewards and punishments from Him. One of the most peculiar things was that very wealthy men have richly endowed leading colleges, thereby destroying faith and unintentionally leading mankind to social revolution and to the precipice of anarchy.

Sympathy For Higher Critics.

Nothing in the Pastor's words indicated condemnation; on the contrary, he manifested a deep sympathy for those entangled in the snares of Occultism and Evolution. He had been entangled once himself, he said, but had gotten free. Had he gone so far as to doubt the existence of God, he believed that he would have been as lost in Evolution as are many of the noble men occupying college chairs.

The Pastor believes the difficulty is that many cannot accept the Bible as the inspired Record. So also he had once rejected it; for he had thought it to be in harmony with the absurd creeds of the Dark Ages. Now he is a most firm believer in the inspiration of the Bible. One of the surprising things his Bible study has revealed is that the Bible supports none of the creeds; and that none of the creeds or sects use all of the Bible. Each sect has selected doctrines from the Word of God, and uses these in its own defence. But each finds there teachings which do not fit in with its creed.

Evidently none of the sects manufactured the Bible. Had the Calvinists done so, they would have omitted texts teaching Free Grace. Armenians would have omitted Election. Catholics would have added something to teach the immaculate conception, indulgences, high and low mass, holy water, holy candles, apostolic succession, etc. All would have put in texts telling about the Trinity.

All would have omitted text teaching that the dead are asleep, to awaken in the resurrection morning. Indeed, it is most difficult for them to explain how there can be a resurrection, if those who seem to die are really more alive than ever. Evidently the Bible was not made by man.

My prayer and effort is that thinking Christians may see that this wonderful Book, while out of harmony with the creeds, is fully in harmony with itself. The great Plan of salvation which the Bible sets forth towers far above all the efforts of puny men, represented in the creeds of Christendom. The glorious fulness of the Bible Message could not have come from elsewhere than Above.

Learning's True Value and Cost.

Learning along all lines of present day instruction is surely valuable. The applied sciences are doing much for the world. But while very important and helpful to human progress, these alone are not sufficient. The human mind must have a theory respecting its future destiny and the object of its present existence. The searched for knowledge along these lines is usually referred to Plato and Socrates. None seem to think of progress in mental philosophy beyond these giants of the past. Yet, if the Evolution theory be true, these men were much nearer the monkey state than we are to-day.

The Pastor sought to impress the propriety of beginning Bible study afresh, ignoring the creeds of the Dark Ages, and permitting the old Book to explain itself. He pointed out, however, that the Bible specifically declares that without the Holy Spirit it cannot be fully and clearly understood. Those who consecrate their lives to God and thus enter the School of Christ will be taught of Him.

He believes that, unless the highest organs of the human brain—those appertaining to religion and morality—be cultivated, the student is poorly prepared to withstand the storms of life.

VARICOSE VEINS CURED

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on Varicose Veins. When I worked hard the scourge would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only relief—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out what they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I did not think so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skilful. I wrote them and got THE NEW METHOD TREATMENT. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never loose a day. I wish all sufferers know of your valuable treatment."
