Baseball's Good Example.

Montreal Witness

There is a common assumption that gambling must go hand in hand with professional sport. The baseball magnates, who are the keenest group of men who have ever got together to please the public, are convinced that there is no natural relation, in fact, that in the long run the one is the foe of the other. The other day they dismissed permanently one of their big umpires who had been seen to enter a professional gambling house. Gambling, should it turn to betting on the results of games, must very seriously impeachate an umpire for his task. Any open gambling on the results of the game has always been effectively prohibited at baseball grounds. Even private betting on the grand stand they have done their best to interfere with. Now these managers have made a rule that no one known to gamble may enter a ball field as a player, and tickets are sold under a pledge from you that they may refuse admission to whom they see fit at the gate without explanation by simply returning the cost of the ticket. This is an entirely attitude for managers to take, and one not easy to take, and one that they may find it difficult to maintain for a time, but it has been found the only way to keep the game clean and the players honest. It would be a great advantage if those who are trying to run professional sport in Canada, either hockey or lacrosse, could score as good results for the game. To get their player and fan to learn to put their money in action as to have regard to the by-laws of sport is the thing.

Memorizing and Forgetting.

[illegible] Chicago have found a [illegible] for forgetting. [illegible] the average person forgets [illegible] he has learned. [illegible] that two or three [illegible] after he has learned [illegible] the process of forgetting [illegible] and that only two months about one-fourth has been forgotten. [illegible] only twenty-four hours [illegible] half is gone [illegible] the end of the week. From this on the process of forgetting is slower [illegible] at the end of one hundred and twenty days the pupil still remembers [illegible] of what he learned.

That good learners are just as apt to remember well as slow learners, and that for most people night is best [illegible] in the morning is the best time for learning, are two other conclusions these investigators have drawn from their results. Some persons have other hours for their best work in memorizing, but, on the average, the morning is found to require thirteen per cent more time to learn some [illegible] than the afternoon.

Microbes in Your Scalp

Authorities say that a microbe causes baldness. If you are losing hair try our remedy at our risk.

[illegible] of Germany, and [illegible] the great French [illegible] claim that a microbe causes baldness, and their claims have been verified by eminent specialists. This microbe destroys the hair follicle so that even using the [illegible] of the scalp to become sound. This is to believe nothing and expect the impossible to be realized. If [illegible] are Doubters may be convinced.

We know of a remedy that has given such universal satisfaction in treating the scalp and hair as Rexall '93' Hair Tonic. It has been designed after long study to overcome the cause of falling hair as discovered by Prof. Unna, Dr. Sabouraud and other noted hair specialists, and we believe it will do more than any thing else to prevent dandruff and stop falling hair, and if an honest agency can promote a new growth of hair it will do that, too.

We want you to make us prove it. We will pay for a month's treatment of Rexall '93' Hair Tonic used during a trial, if you will use it according to directions, and are not thoroughly satisfied. When we will do this, you surely should not hesitate to at least try it.

Start the treatment today. Your mere request will get your money back if you want it. Two sizes, 50c and $1.00.

You can buy Rexall '93' Hair Tonic in this community only at our store:

Refuse in Towns and Cities.

Refuse disposal is usually a serious problem for the small city or town to solve. In such cases public incinerators are not always economical and the ordinary dump needs careful regulation to prevent it becoming a nuisance.

Burning or burying is the most desirable method of disposing of ashes, rubbish, manure and garbage in cities. Of these, burning is the most sanitary, and no other means should be used in cities having a population of, say, 20,000, or more. Refuse incinerators are of two main types (1) the coal fired or, "low temperature," and (2) the high temperature. The latter is designed to handle mixed garbage without the use of coal. Very few of these have as yet been installed, and their advantages have not been entirely proven. For the coal-fired incinerator a long-flaming coal of good quality is essential. This, of course, makes the cost of operation all but prohibitive for most small cities and towns.

In such cases, other means of refuse disposal must be obtained. To simply dump garbage in an unrestricted manner on some vacant lot should be classed as a criminal offence, and punished accordingly. The practise of burying refuse, where it is carefully done is found to be cheap and at the same time effective.

The principle upon which refuse burial rests, especially as applied to garbage, is, primarily, a bacteriological one. The action of the soil on bacteria is to mineralize the organic matter in the refuse. In order to prevent the occurrence of putrefactive or other objectionable odours the mineralizing process must be carried out in the presence of sufficient oxygen of air. To secure these conditions the following points should be observed: 1. The garbage should not be buried too deep; nor should it be spread in too thick a layer on the ground. (2) The ground used should be sufficiently porous and well drained to admit the air readily. (3) The garbage should be mixed with enough other refuse to prevent overloading the soil.

These conditions are obtained in different ways. In some cities the refuse is spread on the ground and then ploughed under. Another method is that of digging a trench, covering each day's collection of refuse with the soil, removed for the next day's supply. In any case, refuse that can be burned should be so treated and garbage and other organic waste can be more effectively handled by burying it with other waste such as ashes, street sweepings, etc. It is claimed that 1 cubic yard of garbage properly handled can bury 50 tons of garbage permanently. The soil can be reused at the end of two years. Conservation.

The Young Men's Christian Association Extending Its Activities.

It is cheering to note that the Young Men's Christian Association is [illegible] together upon their great work of assisting young men. They are now finally reaching out far beyond the bounds of their immediate membership, and are now doing a work which benefits the world in its effort to give the helping hand to any young man needing assistance.

A new department of the work recently organized in the Toronto Central Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association is one which should be known to every one. It is a co-operative effort between the Christian churches and the Young Men's Christian Association in which they unitedly undertake to look after all young men going to Toronto as strangers, putting them in touch with employment, good rooming and boarding places, proper companions and with promise of being invited to the church.

Keen men are being appointed in every church in Toronto, men who are the responsibility of looking after new men who come, whose names may be given to the Secretary of the week. Keen men are also being appointed in outlying municipalities within a days notice to notify the Secretary of the Inter-Community work of any young man leaving his home town and intending to come to work, etc. In [illegible] the young men come from [illegible] Canada, United States and the British Isles as to young men going to Toronto, and hundreds are already being looked for.

Parents and friends of young men going to Toronto will be glad to know of the support at now on the part of the Y.M.C.A. and the churches, and will doubtless take the opportunity of writing the Secretary of the Inter-Community work, F. P. Trimble, at the Central Y.M.C.A., Toronto, of any friends going to Toronto to live. We understand that, without any publicity or special effort, the Central Branch of the Toronto Young Men's Christian Association has assisted in [illegible] more than 5,000 men during the year ending May 1st last, [illegible] of these being assisted in every conceivable way. That being the possibilities for good in this new departure, with the churches [illegible] in every way are beyond calculation.

We are pleased to give this information to the public through the columns of our paper, knowing that by doing so we are assisting in one of the greatest movements the Young Men's Christian Association has ever undertaken.

Cleanliness a Modern Virtue.

[illegible] in some of the portraits we see painters that the nails of the personages are painted, even though they be of a high rank, are delicately [illegible] black. Pictures of Queen Elizabeth are extant show that she delighted in them, with any substitute for nail varnish not yet to be invented nailbrush. There could be no better illustration of the fact that clean hands are a modern innovation. Not only do we admire them for esthetic reasons, but we believe that they have an important bearing upon health.

Now, all this has this perception become that one of the Chicago meat packers employs in his establishment a professional manicurist, whose business it is to keep the hands of the women operatives who handle the products put up in tins and glass in proper condition. Experience of these women is required before one can be entrusted to the manicure at [illegible] a week.

Pretty, quaint dainty girls clean hands. The [illegible] that put up breakfast food, sausages that other goods underlying handling all processes being performed by machinery. Some manufacturers of these and other kinds of foods have regulations posted, positively requiring every person who leaves the working rooms to wash his hands with soap and running water before re-entering.

Knew All the Jail Birds

The late Joseph H Jobbin, turnkey at the Montreal court house was known to every lawyer in the city, and looked upon by the prisoners, of whom he had charge, as their friend. He knew almost every criminal in Montreal and by his familiarity with the criminal world, he was a great help to the police and detectives, as with one glance he could always tell whether the prisoner was "an old hand" or "a first offender." He was a big man, weighing over 300 pounds.

HANDY CANDY BOX

Separate Compartments Display Every Piece at Once

An Illinois man has designed a candy box which displays each piece of candy when the box is opened. The receptacle is made in three sections, two of them hinged, and each section is divided into two compartments. The middle section is hinged on the lowest section and folds in upon it, a lid closing it so that the contents are not spilled. The top section is hinged to the top of the body of the box and folds in upon the middle section. This also has a lid to keep the contents in. For assorted candies such a box provides good display, as the different kinds of confections may be kept separate. Furthermore, with every sweet in view it is possible for a fastidious woman to select which she likes best without having to burrow down to the bottom of three or four layers.

NEW SPOONHOLDER

Will Not Upset and Contents Are Always in Neat Design

To the old-fashioned spoonholder several objections have been raised; none of them serious but they set a young jeweler to thinking and he designed a holder which overcomes them. One objection to the old type of receptacle was the ease with which it overturned and spilled its contents on the table. Another fault was the manner in which the spoons sometimes became entangled so that when you removed one you brought others with it.

The holder shown herewith has a relatively long base and is quite stable. The interior is in the general shape of the bowl of a spoon and the latter fits smoothly into it, with the handle projecting through a slot. As each spoon is put into the holder it rests exactly upon the one below it and a neat pile is formed. Of course, the holder is made in different sizes for different size spoons.

LOOK YOUR BEST

A statistician living in France the other day announced after years of investigation, he could tell the average amount of time a woman spends before her mirror between the ages of six and 70. The average per day he proudly announced was about as follows: Six to 10 years, 7 minutes; 10 to 15 years, 15 minutes; 15 to 20 years, 22 minutes; 20 to 30 years, 30 minutes; 30 to 40 years, 24 minutes; 40 to 50 years, 18 minutes; 50 to 60 years, 15 to 16 minutes. There he proudly announced that the figures for a lifetime showed that woman spent the total of 242 days before her mirror. To which the answer is: Let her.

TIMBER AND LUMBER

Vancouver Has Great National Forest Wealth

Vancouver Island is endowed with a wealth of varied timber and diversified minerals. They have been the main source of the country's revenue for many years, and yet not a third of its area has been exploited, so that what present and contemplated surveys may reveal, it is impossible to conjecture. It is perfectly certain, however, that the Island in these respects, as in many others, is only beginning to evolve a splendid future of internal greatness and commercial influence. That the potentials lie within herself is without doubt. Her timber resources surpass those of any other area of similar magnitude in the world. Her forest area is not only vast in extent, but it has a phenomenal growth of abnormally large and splendid merchantable timber. This represents an average, and is not by any means indicative of rare or isolated instances of enormity in size; for the Island's timber growth has aroused the wonder and admiration of travellers from all parts of the world. And still, it is certain, the unrevealed and unexploited interior, has in this, as in other respects, the mightiest and greatest residuum of unrevealed wealth and of commercial and industrial potentials preserved for the brilliant epoch of progress on which the Island has entered. The indigenous trees of the Island include Douglas fir, red and yellow cypress, western white pine and black pine, spruce of two classes, western hemlock and white oak, poplar, maple of various kinds, alder and many other species of deciduous but valuable trees.

PASTOR RUSSELL

Toledo, Ohio, April 13.—Pastor Russell is here today, addressing Bible students. We report one of his addresses, from the text: "Humble yourselves therefore under the mighty hand of God, that He may exalt you in due time."—1 Peter 5:6.

The Pastor declared that the Bible everywhere holds up the Lord Jesus Christ as the glorious Pattern of what is most pleasing to the Heavenly Father, to be copied by all desiring God's favor. He reminded his hearers that certain steps are necessary before any can come into that favor, and properly be called God's children. Both our Lord and His Apostles make this point very clear.

Very few have God's favor at the present time, said the Pastor. In God's due time, however, all shall be brought to a knowledge of Messiah, and privileged through Him to enjoy everlasting life. But what is coming and what is here are two different things. No one has authority to make the Narrow Way a Broad Way, or to say that many will find it, when the Scriptures declare, "Few there be that find it."

The Pastor showed clearly that his text related only to the consecrated few who, during this Age, heard and accepted the invitation to become footstep followers of Jesus. These have their sins forgiven as a result of faith in the precious blood of Christ, and of consecration to do God's will. These have the Redeemer as their Advocate.

To These Our Text Applies.

These are exhorted to come boldly to the Throne of Heavenly Grace, to obtain mercy and to find grace to help in every time of need. These may know that their prayers are always heard. The exhortations of the Apostles are to these alone — not to the world.

In our context, the Apostle holds up the Lord Jesus as the great Pattern of humility. St. Paul tells us that our Lord was rich, yet in obedience to the Father's will He laid aside His riches and became poor. He divested Himself of His spirit conditions and glories, and took instead human conditions.

From being above angels, He willingly took a nature and place "a little lower than angels." He did this, knowing that it was only a preliminary step, and that others of self-denial and suffering would follow. A man—Adam—had sinned, and had involved a race in his death sentence. Only an uncondemned man could redeem him. It was for this purpose that Jesus left His glory, and was "found in fashion as a man." He was holy, harmless, undefiled. Otherwise, he could not have been the Redeemer.

At thirty years of age, our Lord went forth, declaring the Message which He knew would be misunderstood—the Message that He was the Sin-Offering, and that as the result of His sacrifice, the Millennial Kingdom would come, which would bless all the families of the earth. The Jews were not ready for that Message. As the Scriptures foretold, they crucified Him—ignorantly. (1 Corinthians, 2:8).

Rewards of Humility and Loyalty.

According to St. Paul, the Father set before our Lord a joy as a reward for His sacrifice. The details of that joy we may infer to be: (1) The joy of the Father's smile of approval. (2) The joy of bringing many sons to glory. (3) The joy of restoring mankind to their original perfection. (4) The joy of an exaltation to a still higher station than His former one. See Hebrews 12:1-3.

Since His exaltation, our Redeemer awaits the glorious time when all sons of righteousness shall be brought low, and righteousness exalted. But first must come the completion of the Church of Christ. Then will follow the blessing of all mankind.

Satan's Course In Contrast.

Notice the contrast between Satan's course and our Lord's. Instead of humbling himself and willingly doing what was pleasing to God, Satan took the opposite course. He was proud, haughty, and sought to exalt himself. Lucifer was rich before he became Satan, the adversary. Yet he was not so rich as the Logos, through whom Divine energy operated in the creation.

Mark well the course of pride, which led to sin, and will ultimately lead to Satan's destruction. Mark well the course of Jesus, which led through humility to the highest glory. Which example shall we follow? What folly it would be to permit pride to gain a place in our hearts!

Caustic.

"She married for revenge."
"For revenge on her husband?"
"No, on an old sweetheart."
"But if it was revenge she was seeking why didn't she marry the old sweetheart?"

Sizing Up Dad.

"Son, you will never be rich unless you learn to profit by your mistakes," counseled the millionaire. "Dad, you must have made a big bunch of errors," said the admiring scion.

Salt Bed in the West

The discovery is reported of an extensive salt bed at Kwinitsa, Mile 45 on the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific east of Prince Rupert. The importance of this find lies in the fact that about the only other deposits of commercial value in Canada are situated in Ontario at Kincardine, Goderich, Windsor, Parkhill and on Lake Huron so that, so far as the western Provinces are concerned British Columbia may be the distributing centre for this essential of the culinary art.
