The Canadian Champion
MILTON, May 22, 1919.

In the House of Commons, on 14th inst., Mr. Edwards moved, "that in the opinion of this House it is desirable that the British North American Act should be amended so as to secure the establishment of a non-sectarian school system throughout the Dominion of Canada." Dr. R. K. Anderson seconded the motion and took a prominent part in the debate which followed. In his speech he said, according to the census of 1911 there were in Canada 663,453 persons over five years of age who could neither read nor write in any language and according to a census taken in 1916 there were in the prairie provinces 102,425 people who could not speak English. He said segregation prevented education and Canada needed a more progressive policy with regard to education, especially for the children of the foreign born. He gave figures to show that the countries which have national non-sectarian schools have the least illiteracy.

At Last!

There are few cyclists who, when compelled to execute repairs to inner tubes by the roadside, have not longed for unpuncturable tires. This desideratum now seems to have become an accomplished fact in Sweden, where the shortage of rubber has caused great efforts to be made to find a satisfactory substitute for the pneumatic tire. The new device consists of a thin strip of hardened steel supported on the rim by springs, the combination being said to give results comparable with those obtained by the use of rubber. Skidding is prevented by the sharp edge of the steel tread, while such tires are, of course, quite unpuncturable. Whether the new device will survive when rubber again becomes plentiful is perhaps doubtful, but as a war-time measure it has proved very useful.—Chambers Journal.

Disliked His Partner.

He was not a good card player. He admitted it. But that was no reason why his partner should be so disagreeable. After a particularly glaring error the pestering partner turned on him. "Why didn't you follow my lead?" he asked. "If I followed anybody's, sir," exclaimed the novice, hotly, "it certainly wouldn't be yours." His partner snorted and subsided. But in the next hand he threw down his cards in desperation. "Look here!" he cried. "Didn't you see me call for a spade or club? Have you no black suit?" "Yes, I have," cried the novice with warmth. "But I'm keeping it for your funeral."

Saving Paper.

By simplifying the system of tickets given to the passengers on buses in London a saving of 100 tons of paper pulp was effected in the course of a year.

NEEDLE-PRICK CAUSED BLOOD-POISONING

Miss S. A. Wernicke of Hilton, B.C., writes that she is convinced Zam-Buk saved her arm when blood-poisoning set in as a result of an injury. She says:

"I was sewing when the needle slipped and penetrated my finger to the bone. Soon my finger and then my hand began to swell, and became so stiff that I could not use it. I became anxious and tried remedy after remedy. As each one failed I tried another, but my hand only got worse and the poison spread right up my arm. Large lumps appeared, and the pain was awful. Then a friend recommended Zam-Buk and I lost no time in trying it. It wasn't long before the pain grew less and less, the lumps disappeared and then the swelling was reduced. Zam-Buk drew out all the poison and then healing commenced. I continued using Zam-Buk until I was completely cured, and am convinced that if it hadn't been for this wonderful balm I should have lost my arm."

No matter how small the injury, it should have immediate attention if you would avoid serious consequences. Apply Zam-Buk at once and you will have nothing to fear. Zam-Buk is equally good for burns, scalds, cuts, eczema, ulcers, rashes, boils, and piles. All dealers, 50c. box.

Deer, or Sheep?

Is the deer forest doomed? During the past four or five years the Highland landowner, whose main source of income has been rents from his sportings, has been very hard hit, and apparently the get-rich-quick man of the war is not showing any desire to take costly shootings in the north. Not long ago Lord Lovat decided to convert his deer forest of Braulen, in Inverness-shire, an area of 50,000 acres, into sheep and cattle pasturage, and now a large part of Mar Forest, the Princess Royal's big Deeside domain of over 100,000 acres, is being let for sheep-grazing. Deer are wasteful feeders, and spoil a great deal more grass than they eat. On the area necessary for one deer a dozen sheep or three cattle could live.

YOU CAN'T RUB RHEUMATISM OUT

It is Rooted in the Blood and Must be Treated Through the Blood.

The pain of rheumatism is something that you cannot rub out. Every sufferer from rheumatism has been advised to rub this liniment or that on the affected part, but after all the rubbing the pain remained. Rubbing did not cure it and can't cure it.

Thin blood and rheumatism come together and if they are properly treated they will go together. Rheumatism is rooted in the blood, in poor, watery blood. Sometimes cold, damp weather starts the aches and pains, but it is the condition of the blood that is at fault, and only by correcting this, and making the blood rich and red can the rheumatic poison be driven out. This is exactly what is done in the treatment of rheumatism with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Acute and muscular rheumatism show improvement as the thin blood is built up, and when the blood has been restored to its normal condition, the rich and red. There is no part of Canada in which some rheumatic sufferer has not been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and they do not hesitate to express their thanks for what this medicine has done for them. As an example, Miss Annie S. Dedrick, R. R. No. 2, St. Thomas, Ont., says:—"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured me of rheumatism after a great many other remedies had failed. The pain in my arms and shoulders was so great that I could scarcely sleep. I could not raise my arms to comb my hair, and could not dress myself without help. In this condition I read of a cure of rheumatism through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to try them. I got half a dozen boxes and I am thankful to say they not only cured my rheumatism, but that my general health was greatly improved. My appetite was increased and I gained in weight. Since then a number of cases have come under my observation in which cures have been made by this splendid medicine. As for myself I shall always speak a good word for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any medicine dealer, or you can get them by mail at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville.

Few Flowers in London.

Only princesses and profiteeresses wear flowers in London nowadays. Oh, and brides, of course, and one or two very popular actresses, but just folk, no longer dream of buying them. Why, a big bunch of roses cost as much as a fur scarf, $25, and even a modest cluster of violets brings $2.

To the English this dearth of flowers is a real deprivation and no wonder. Most rooms are darkly papered, and even those originally light have grown dingy with the war, so a vase of flowers helped to dispel the winter gloom.

Women have invented all kinds of fanciful decorations for their dinner tables which have long since been endless of white cloths. Among the most successful of these are the bunches of silk oranges or to-matoes or grapes which are fastened to satin centrepieces edged with gold filigree lace to simulate a golden dish. These were first introduced by a royal princess and the idea raged right over London. It takes exceptionally clever fingers and time, too, to make this satin fruit, so there is not much of it about.

Disabled soldiers have taken up the notion and make the most natural imitation, and somehow the men seem more clever than women in grouping their pieces though they usually need advice about color blending.

A table set of a centrepiece of grapes and plums on mauve satin edged with silver and individual doilies each with a tiny Dolly Robin border of silken fruit all made by a soldier with one arm, sold at a recent bazaar for $50.

The World's Laziest Woman!

The world's laziest woman, according to the London Daily Express, is Mary Jane Toone, of near Market Bosworth, Leicestershire. In the courts of Market Bosworth it has been stated that she has stayed in bed for more than three years and has refused to get up, though perfectly healthy.

She had allowed her house to get into such a dirty condition that it had become a public nuisance. The Market Bosworth District Council have prosecuted her several times without obtaining an improvement. Her husband told the court that the last time he induced his wife to get up he only did so by throwing water over her.

As a last resort the police were called in and dragged her out of bed and took her to prison.

Hyphenated Occupations.

Gardening, which has for generations been a recreation for the wealthy in England, has been quiescent during the last four years, but is again looking up. An English periodical devoted to flower culture announces that it will insert advertisement free gardeners, or those who require them, without charge among three advertisements, curious enough, are several which call for a man who will combine garden culture with other useful work about a "gentleman's place"—these men being called "groom-gardeners," "chauffeur-gardeners," and "cowman gardeners."

Stainless Steel Cutlery.

The making of stainless steel cutlery, which originated in England, was suspended during the war. The result is achieved by adding about 15 per cent. of chromium.

OVERWORKED, TIRED WOMAN TOOK VINOL

Now She is Strong and Hearty

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I was overworked, run down, nervous, could not eat or sleep. I felt like crying all the time. I tried different remedies without benefit. The doctor said it was a wonder I was alive, and when Vinol was given me I began to improve. I have taken eight bottles and am now strong and perfectly healthy in every respect, and have gained in weight. I can not praise Vinol enough."—Mrs. Sarah A. Jones, 1025 Nevada St., Philadelphia, Pa.

We guarantee Vinol to make overworked, weak women strong or return your money. Formula on every bottle. This is your protection.

VILLAGE FOR VETERANS.

Disabled Men Will Live Amid Healthful Surroundings.

The first village centre for disabled men, at Enham Place and Park, near Andover, will be opened in April or May. As announced, the British Red Cross Society has made a grant of $50,000 for the building and equipment of the medical block. Help is expected also from the Ministry of Pensions, which has approved the scheme, and the Board of Agriculture has promised its aid. The estimate is that a centre for 1,000 men will cost $500,000, but 150 men with the necessary staff can be housed in existing buildings, and on this scale, with an expenditure of $250,000, the experiment will begin.

Enham Place is a large, handsome house in the middle of some of the most beautiful scenery in Hampshire, England. The whole estate covers 1,027 acres, and contains four farms, three big houses, two smaller ones, a village hall, post office, smithy, and over 20 cottages. The Village Centres Council chose it with a view not only to what may be called its practical advantages, but to its suitability for men with shattered nerves needing rest and fresh air.

The future occupants of the centre will be those who are suffering from the effects of shell-shock, or are crippled by wounds, or have lost a limb, or are recovering from illness, or have been recommended a country life. It is not proposed to receive men who cannot reasonably be expected to recover any capacity for work. Some of the new villagers will be instructed in various branches of farming and gardening, dairy work and poultry keeping. Others will be taught carpentry, furniture and boot making, tailoring, motor repairing, building, painting and plumbing. The intention of the council is to establish many small workshops and classes rather than a few large ones, the aim being to bring out each man's individuality and provide opportunity for his tastes. The community hopes to supply most of its own wants and to lay out its own land. The characteristics of the "institution" are to be avoided. The men themselves will have a voice in the management of the centre, and the real communal idea will be fostered.

It will be gathered that the essence of the scheme is to combine curative treatment with vocational training. A man will be put on the road to recovery, while he is "finding his feet" industrially. Nor is it intended that during this period the patient and pupil should be segregated from his wife and family. If he possesses them. As soon as funds allow, more cottages will be built, so that the family man will be able to set a home and a piece of land on fair terms during his progress to recovery, which in many cases, may take a long time.

Palace Chimney Sweeps.

Soot is not worth half what it was twenty or thirty years ago. At that time farmers gladly paid five shillings a sack, using the sweepings of town chimneys to fertilize their fields.

Mr. Jenkins, whose firm, of Lowndes-court, Golden square, holds the royal warrant for sweeping the chimneys of Buckingham Palace, puts down this drop in value to the increased manufacture of artificial manure.

Discussing the statement made at Bow County Court that a chimney-sweep earned not less than £7 weekly, Mr. Jenkins said: The small master sweep, whose outlay is confined to £5 for his outfit, may make £7 weekly. The journeyman sweep who works for master sweeps probably earns a fixed wage of not more than £4 all the year round.

The more general use of gas fires has not hit the sweeps' business as much as people think. There is still sweeping to be done where a grate is installed, but the soot is brown instead of black.

Conditions of work are so hard and disagreeable that boys are refusing to be apprenticed to sweeps.

OBITUARY.

MRS. MARY MITCHELL.

Mrs. Mary Mitchell died suddenly last Saturday evening at her home at Toronto. She had been in apparent good health, had been busy in her garden during the day and had gone back to her housework. Her children were out. On their return they found her dead. Mrs. Mitchell was the eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Robson, of Milton, and was born here. She left two children, a daughter aged about 12 and a son about 8. Her husband died some years ago. She is survived by two brothers, Wm. T. and John Robson, and a sister, Miss Mabel, all of Toronto. The funeral took place here last Monday, from Grace Church to Evergreen Cemetery. Mrs. Mitchell's rector, Rev. R. J. Moore, M. A., of Toronto, conducted the services, assisted by Rev. O. F. Cooke.

A Chinese Altar.

There is no altar on earth which vies in marble majesty with the altar of heaven—Tien T'ian—in the south of the Chinese city of Pekin, which Emperor Yung-le of the Ming dynasty reared in A.D. 1420, with its triple balustrades, stairs and platforms of pure white marble carved miraculously, its great circle covering a wide area in the midst of a vast inclosure. There the emperor knelt once a year and worshipped "the only being in the universe he could look up to"—Shang-ti—the Emperor of the world above, whose court was in the sky and the spear tips of whose soldiers were the stars.

Labor Saving Equipment for the Barn

I have very much pleasure in announcing that I have taken the agency for B T BARN EQUIPMENT for Milton and vicinity.

I have taken this agency because I know that the shortage of help and scarcity of lumber are turning the thoughts of farmers to labor-saving equipment in the barn, and to the use of steel and concrete rather than wood.

The B T line, made by Beaty Bros., Ltd., of Fergus, is complete in every way, and is, I am thoroughly convinced, the best Barn Equipment on the market.

Some of the types of equipment I am able to supply are shown above. The Sanitary Steel Stalls are comfortable for the cow, save much labor in caring for the stock, are durable, absolutely sanitary and fireproof. All stalls are Galvanized.

THESE GOODS PAY BACK THEIR COST

A Manure Carrier outfit and a Hay Unloader cost little, but save their cost many times over in saving of time and labor. Let machinery do the work. Why waste time, energy and labor cleaning out the stable with a wheelbarrow, or pitching off the hay by hand, when equipment (that will last for years) will help you do the work in half the time.

A Water Bowl outfit will pay for itself in three months in the increased of milk production alone. If you keep beef stock the result will be just as striking in the extra increase in weight.

GIVE US A CALL

I shall be glad to measure up your barn at any time and quote you the best possible prices. Give me a call, telling me which type of equipment interests you and get full particulars. You will never regret investigating the matter.

Briscoe
"Go Car with the Wide Milton Stabilizer"

Efficiency with Economy

THE efficiency of the Briscoe Motor has been demonstrated in several ten-day, non-stop test runs, in one of which a record of over 29 miles to the gallon was established.

In less spectacular fashion the Briscoe is proving its capability by year-in, year-out service, on all sorts of roads and under all sorts of conditions.

The experienced motorist, seeking "efficiency with economy," knows that for motoring satisfaction one must always look beyond the external features. And so it is that this new model—thing of beauty though it is—depends for its popularity on that remarkable Motor and its ability to convert a small quantity of gasoline into a tremendous lot of power.
