THE FIGHT IS ON

The stage is all set now in South Grey for the contest in the Provincial elections. As Hon. Dr. David Jamieson has been included in Premier Ferguson'a cabinet as Minister Without Portfolio, no doubt he will be in the running strong. F. R. Oliver, the U.F.O. candidate and Dr. Fortune, Liberal nominee, are both in the field to stay and a three cornered fight is on. How the outcome will be is doubtful, but the O.T.A. vote will be split to a certain extent and it should be better for the genial Doctor. In North Grey only one candidate is in the field yet, D. J. Taylor, who has represented the riding in the last two parliaments. Who the Conservative candidate will be is not at present known but as E. N. Cooper, ex-Mayor of Meaford, received the Conservative nomination in the vacant seat of Centre Grey at a convention last spring, it is altogether likely that he will be the choice in North Grey. It is not expected that a Liberal candidate will run there.

GREY STILL LEADS.

A Waterloo correspondent of the Toronto Globe indulges in some crowing over the fact that that county has given to the Dominion some noteworthy sons. He points out that Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, our prime Minister, was born in Kitchener—then the town of Berlin—the county seat of Waterloo County. The late Dr. W. Wilfred Campbell, the distinguished poet and author, know as the "Poet of the Lakes," was a native son of the same town. A few miles distant, in the village of Baden, the late Sir Adam Beck, the great "Hydro Knight" was born. The town of Preston was the birthplace of the late Dr. Otto J. Klotz, Canadian astronomer, one of our "most accomplished" scientists. From Galt, in South Waterloo, came Hon. James Young, an eminent journalist and parliamentarian of his time. The bonnie village of Doon claims as her son Homer Watson, an artist of international fame. Elmira, in North Waterloo, was the home town of the late Dr. A. S. Vogt, founder of the Mendellsohn Choir, whose achievements in the cause of music are unsurpassed in Canada. St. Jacob's is the birthplace of Charles M. Bowman, former Liberal Whip in the Ontario Legislature, now prominent in the business world, and from the village of Conestoga comes Minister of Customs William D. Euler, the able son of sturdy pioneers who helped to build this fair and prosperous county.

This is all very interesting, but neither Waterloo nor any other county in Canada can lay claim to the distinction enjoyed by the County of Grey, in which is the birthplace and constituency of the only woman ever elected to the Dominion Parliament, and who has recently been returned in the third successive contest. "Wha daur meddle wi' her prestige?" Then Miss Cora Hind, the most noted authority on live stock and Western crops, is a Grey County woman. She has no successful rival in her chosen vocation.

OUR COAL SUPPLY.

An attempt is being made to get the railways to bring coal to Ontario from the province of Alberta, in accordance with the pre-election promise of Hon. Mr. Bennett. To do this however, the Dominion Government will have to make a grant of two dollars a ton towards the freight. With the great demand for cars to ship wheat, the present is not a very auspicious time to promote this trade. The time for Ontario to get a coal supply from the West is in the summer months, when the cars are not required for grain. Surely, so soon as the Railway Commission make pronouncement on just how much the railways can carry Western coal to Ontario for, the question will be finally settled. It would be a fine thing if we could get Canadian coal at a price that would make us to be independent of the United States.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Another parking problem is where to stow away the straw hat that still has a lot of mileage left, so that it can be readily found when time comes to put it on the road again next spring. —Manchester Union. Why not let the old black hen continue to use it as a nest?

* * *

Commemoration of the hundred years of peace (1814 to 1914) between Canada and the United States will be celebrated at Fort Errie, Buffalo and New York upon the completion and opening, early next summer, of the vehicular Peace Bridge at present under construction across the Niagara River. Completion of the last link of steel work was completed recently. The Canadian terminal of the bridge will be on ground over which was fought the Battle of Fort Erie, in 1814, and the United States terminal on lands once occupied by buildings of Fort Porter, within the City of Buffalo.

* * *

Some people talk about the effete Motherland and the difficulty of making money out of industrial enterprise. They overlook the achievements of the great masters of industry, who, from small beginnings, have built up great enterprises through sheer pluck and industry. Lately we have had recorded the death of William Coats of the Coats thread manufactory in Paisley, Scotland, who left an estate of £3,936,085 ($19,090,500), but left no will. The death duty payable to the government amounts to £1,580,818 ($7,666,900). This is the eighth estate in the millions left by members of the Coats family. And all made out of the production of thread for world-wide consumption.

A Fine Motor Run

(Toronto Star Weekly.)

A motor run through the Province that will show some scenery that many did not know Canada possessed is to take a run up through Brampton and over the Caledon mountain to Orangeville. After that drive until the ooutskirts of Shelburne are reached, then turn to the right through Hornings Mills, where the fine string of private trout ponds are, and on to Singhampton.

Here a stop should be made. It is a centre from which runs should be made in different directions. But at Singhampton itself the motorists should run their car over to the old mill. It is falling into decay now, but artists love to paint it. It stands at the point where the Mad River begins four or five miles of rushing descent through a rocky gorge into the distant valley. It is a place to sit and feast the eye and delight the ear with the singing of the waters.

Drive out from Singhampton and see the Devil's Glen. The road winds along its very edge—below it is a great bowl, seemingly without inlet or outlet, but with a ribbon of stream making a pattern at the bottom. There are times when you can well imagine how the Glen got its name.

Out from Singhampton, too, motorists can stop on the hill near Glen Huron and get a fine view of the Georgian Bay. Wasaga Beach—a crescent picture that is very pleasing.

From Singhampton drive across to Eugenia Falls, where there is a picnic park hard to equal. Owing to the Hydro enteprise the falls at Eugenia are almost bare of water, but the wonderful gorge is there—and few know what a gorge it is. A few miles beyond Eugenia at a high point there is a wonderful view of the whole Beaver valley, looking towards Meaford. It is a drop of 6 hundred feet from the high road to the bed of the river below. Looking miles of checkerboard of green and gold farm lands.

Motorists can keep on by this road to Kimberley and then turn back along the bottom of the valley and through it to Flesherton and by a fine highway through Orangeville back to the city.

As a two-day trip, spending the night at Singhampton or Eugenia. we know of nothing excelling this run in the beauty and unexpectedness of its scenery. Those who make the run declare they did not suppose we had anything like it in Ontario.

An Ode to the Press

I am the printing press, born of the mother earth. My heart is of steel, my limbs are of iron, and my fingers are of brass.

I sing the songs of the world, the oratorios of history, the symphonies of all time.

I am the voice of to-day, the herald of to-morrow. I weave into the warp of the past the wool of the future. I tell the stories of peace and war alike.

I make the human heart beat with passion or tenderness. I stir the pride of nations, and make brave men do braver deeds, and soldiers die.

I inspire the midnight toiler,weary at his loom, to lift his head again and gaze, with fearlessness, into the vast beyond, seeking the consolation of a hope eternal.

When I speak a myriad of people listen to my voice. The Saxon, the Latin, the Celt, the Hun, the Slav, the Hindu, all comprehend me.

I am the tireless clarion of the news. I cry your joys and sorrows every hour. I fill the dullard's mind with thoughts uplifting. I am light, knowledge, power. I epitomize the conquests of mind over matter.

I am the record of all things mankind has achieved. My offspring comes to you in the caandle's glow, amid the dim lamps of poverty, the splendor of riches; at sunrise, at high noon, and in the waning evening.

I am the laughter and tears of the world, and I shall never die until all things return to the immutable dust.

I am the PRINTING PRESS.

—Robert H. Davis.

Mrs. F. Weber of Carrick grew a long green cucumber this season with a circumference of 27½ inches by 2½, and weighed three and one half pounds.

There will be many positive statements made during the coming election campaign. The most convincing way to make these assertions is to give the proof.

The South African Parliament has passed a law making it illegal for newspapers at election time to carry political articles that are not signed by the writers.

In Police Magistrate Barr's court at Milton John Denholm of Toronto was fined $100 or six months in jail for selling pool tickets on the World's Baseball Series. The accused pleaded guilty, and asked for leniency.

The most suggestive item of British news, recently, is the announcement that Punch, the historic comic journal has decided to refuse henceforth all liquor ads. It declines to discuss reasons. There is really no need that it should.

THE McPHERSON CASE

(From the Alliston Herald.)

Mrs. Alice Semple McPherson, the Los Angeles evangelist whose name is appearing on the front page of the daily papers just now, has a personal friend in town who is very indignant at the treatment being accorded Mrs. McPherson by the news gathering agencies of the continent. The Alliston lady, who does not want her name mentioned, gave the editor of The Herald a statement of the case as told by Mrs. McPherson and others who saw her on her arrival at the fringes of civilization after her tramp in the Mexican desert. An affidavit by one Gonsalez of Agua Prieta, Mexico, gives an account of Mrs. McPhsrson's appearance at his house in the night and calling for help. This man arose and took the woman in, gave her shelter, food and provided her with the facilities for a rest as she was all but completely exhausted. After she had survived somewhat this man got a car to take the woman to Douglas, Arizona. A long list of Douglas citizens subscribed to an affidavit stating the case there in an altogether different light from that presented by the daily newspapers. These people state that Mrs. McPherson's statements are true, they having arrived at this conclusion after thorough investigation. There is a hint that this woman is being singled out for persecution as a warning to others. Mrs. McPherson is a Canadian, having been born and raised on a farm near Ingersoll. She was a brilliant student and at London collegiate institute made a name for herself as a splendid student. She is a fine looking woman with reddish brown hair and presents an attractive appearance on the platform where she is a powerful speaker, presenting her arguments with a force of conviction. Her message, it is said, is presented in such a way as to be irresistible. By her friends her story is not doubted in the smallest detail and big efforts are being made to successfully conduct her defence.

Increased output for the Dairy Farmer

EVERY time a dairy farmer increases production he increases profits. Increased production is largely a matter of improved and augmented herds, modern equipment, time and labor-saving machinery and better, all-round production facilities.

All this, of course, costs money. But it is money which the Bank of Toronto may readily advance to desirable applicants.

If you plan to increase your outfit and require a loan, you can do no better than to see the branch manager of the Bank of Toronto and discuss your problems with him.
